Push-Button War Opens in Korea as Planes Hit Marks

Electrol Rode Along
(An Editorial)

Tucked away in the framework of the Grumman Hellcat plane which became a guided missile Sept. 1 in Korea were—100 to 1—hydraulics by Electrol Incorporated, of Kingston.

The hydraulics, which controlled wing folding, assist takeoff and many other vital functions of plane operation, were turned out in great quantity by the local plant for all types of Grumman and other aircraft.

And, not too many persons knew this, if the parts were not made in Kingston, the hydraulics were made under Electrol patents and as designed by Electrol engineers. Under agreement with the U. S. Navy, Electrol made these patents available to other manufacturing plants.

However, the flow of hydraulics from the plant of Electrol on Grand street, this city, was a steady and voluminous one, all through the war. Since the war this output has increased.

This information is written without the knowledge of officials or workers at Electrol; it is by a Freeman staffer, who worked in the plant during the war. It was with pride that he felt himself a part of the organization then, and it is in consideration of all former and present Electrol workers that the plant's part in Tuesday's historic Korean event is called to the public attention.

Kingston has a right to be proud of Electrol and of the persons employed there.

Electronics Event Described by Eyewitness on Boxer

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP) — American robot planes, untouched by man in long-range flights, have sought out and destroyed Communist targets in Korea—heralding the explosive birth of push-button warfare.

The navy, which developed the new secret weapon, withheld many details but revealed it as:

An outmoded airplane, carrying a 2,000-pound bomb and guided from carrier-deck launching to on-target crash entirely by electronics—with a television camera perched in its cockpit and sending back pictures of its flight.

Associated Press staff photographer Fred Waters, aboard the 27,000-ton aircraft carrier Boxer, cabled a graphic eye-witness account of the new missile's first use on Sept. 1 in Korea waters.

Stay Is Delayed

Navy censors delayed Waters' story until yesterday, cleared it and then said in an announcement:

"A number of guided missiles have been launched successfully against Communist targets in North Korea from the U.S.S. Boxer."

Waters, in an additional dispatch, placed the number already launched at from four to six. His eye-witness account said the pilotless "suicide" plane he watched was a World War 2 Grumman (Hellcat), herded to its target by a guide plane. Its progress into the combat zone, he

Eisenhower Gets Cheers In Illinois

GOP Nominee Lets Go Anew at Corruption in Federal Government; Gives Preview

Major Address Planned Tonight—Iowa Win Is Seen

By JACK BELL

Aboard Eisenhower Special, Sept. 18 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower ripped into the Truman administration on the corruption issue today on his whistle stopping way toward a major farm speech at Omaha, Neb., tonight.

Crossing politically doubtful, Iowa, the Republican presidential nominee pounded on what he calls the "mess in Washington."

He took his theme from an assertion enthusiastically cheered by a crowd of 2,500 persons in Rock Island, Ill., last night that the American people "are sick and tired of reading in their papers of scandals in Washington."

They want honest government and they are determined to have it," the general declared.

Gives Preview of Speech

He also gave a preview of his Omaha farm speech tonight when he said that to have farm prosperity "we must have exports to take off some of our surpluses.

"I have heard that this is the heart of isolationism," he said, "and it just is not so. It is not intelligent to be isolationist and I have never seen a group of Americans gathered together who didn't have intelligence."

Bidding for Iowa's 10 electoral votes, Eisenhower dropped his criticism of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson for the latter's quipping approach to some of the campaign issues.

Whereas he had asserted previously that running for president was "no laughing matter," he told the Rock Island crowd.

"To win a fight, you never go about it with long faces. You put on a grin and go after it. America is on the march and we can do it."

Displays Confidence

The Republican nominee displayed a confidence before the crowd that he has not attained in the past. He spoke easily, seldom consulting his notes, and driving his points home.

Where he got only silence in his New York city speech before the American Federation of Labor (AFL) Convention when he said he did not favor repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, the same assertion was cheered loudly in Rock Island.

A center of the farm implement manufacturing industry Rock Island has heavy CIO membership among its workers.

Greeted at Airport

Eisenhower got little attention as his motorcade moved through Moline, Ill., into Rock Island, after he was greeted at the airport by a crowd of about 1,000 persons on his return from New York.

The Rock Island armory, where he spoke, was only about two-

Urges New Regime in Washington

Strong Candidate Ike Overthrew for GOP Nomination Goes All Out for Victory

Speaks for All

Senator Calls for End of Giving Up Money, American Freedom

Springfield, O., Sept. 18 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft said last night that only the election of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as president can change "the philosophy of government spending and power."

"General Eisenhower has stated without qualification his belief in the philosophy of liberty," Taft told a Republican rally opening his 19-state tour in behalf of the man who beat him for the presidential nomination.

"He stated it long before I met him last week," Taft said, "and only reaffirmed at that time what he has frequently said in the past.

"He believes strongly in our system of constitutional limitations and government power. He abhors the left-wing theory that the executive has unlimited powers.

Ike Only Answer

"There is only one way to change the philosophy of government spending and power, and that is to elect General Eisenhower and let him create a new administration, with new faces and new thoughts."

Taft's 30-minute address to a police-estimated crowd of more than 2,000 in Springfield's 2,600-seat memorial hall was broadcast and telecast nation-wide.

It was Taft's first speech since the July convention defeat that embittered many of his backers. Associates described his tour as an all-out attempt to swing his disappointed supporters to "Ike."

"I have come to speak for all the Republican candidates, state, national and local," Taft said. "Naturally, my first interest is national and election of Eisenhower and Nixon."

Sen. Richard Nixon of California is the GOP vice presidential nominee.

Will Treat All Issues

"During the campaign I expect to speak on all the issues, corruption and degredation in Washington, Communist influences in the State Department, the surrender of China to the Communist, the Korean War and Acheson foreign policy," Taft said.

"But to my mind," he continued, "there is one great fundamental issue before the American people in this election of 1952. It is resumption and continuation of progress under a free American way of life, as opposed to the alleged advances to be obtained by surrendering our money and our freedom to the tender mercies of an all-powerful and arbitrary government."

Asks for GOP Congress

Taft expressed concern over election of a Republican Congress and said:

"The only reason that we have any real liberty left in the United States is the independence of Congress shown during the past 14 years. There isn't any doubt in my mind that we have represented the attitude of the people of the country against a government of planned economy, power and bureaucracy."

The Ohio senator, as Nixon had done earlier in his opening campaign address in Columbus, O., put the "captive candidate" tag on Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Will Dominate Adlai

"I can tell you," Taft said,

Navy Missiles Enough For Korean Campaign

Tokyo, Sept. 18 (AP)—The man who directed the first use of guided missiles in the Korean War said today the navy has "immediately available enough missiles to mount a sustained large-scale robot campaign in Korea."

Lt. Cmdr. Lawrence A Kurtz said missile carrying atomic bombs conceivably could hit any target in the world.

Kurtz commanded the 12-man team which catapulted a pilotless plane from the carrier USS Boxer Sept. 1—then watched on television as the plane launched the age of push-button warfare with a strike against Communist target in North Korea.

Kurtz told a news conference "continent - to - continent guided missiles are possible." The Korea test was the "forerunner of what probably will come."

The equipment used was "rather obsolete—we have better things than this," he added.

Many Questions Asked

Answering a barrage of questions, the navy officer declared "it is possible that guided missiles could change the nature of the air war in Korea—a hint that pilotless planes may be used to do the work of today's fighter-bombers.

Kurtz, declared, "we could mount a large scale Robot offensive right now, and it could be sustained.

"Any plane easily could be made a Robot and could carry atomic bombs.

"Robots are more effective and more maneuverable than piloted planes. In one strike, a guided missile—Navy Hellcat—scored a direct hit on the small supporting pile of a North Korean bridge, wrecking the entire structure. The target was more than 150 miles from the carrier which launched the robot.

Heads Back to Ship

"The control plane had turned away and was headed back to the ship when the missile struck.

"I can't think of any known defense" against guided missiles. They can go "any place, any

BPW Told Sewer Work Nears End on Washington Ave.

Must Now Lay 2,200 Feet of Pipe—Storm Project Also Is Well Along

City Engineer Arthur J. Hallinan informed the Board of Public Works yesterday that many phases of the Washington avenue-Elizabeth street sewer project are completed and the major work remaining is the laying of 2,200 feet of pipeline from Gilead to Elizabeth street.

The board, at its regular monthly session yesterday, voted to remind local licensed plumbers by letter that they must obtain permits before opening excavations in local streets and sidewalks.

This action followed a report of complaints that permit cards were not being displayed on some jobs as required by local law and that some permits were applied for after actual start of the work.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, referring to a resolution by Sixth Ward Alderman David Schechter which asked action to prevent flooded conditions on several streets in the downtown ward after storms, said the proposal was under consideration, and the city engineer was to make a survey.

Definite action on this, he indicated, was expected to be taken as soon as the city engineer submits his report.

Two Shafts Completed

Engineer Hallinan informed the board that the two shafts and grit chamber on the Washington avenue-Elizabeth street project are completed and work is finished on the "outfall" of the sewer line from the Washington avenue tunnel to the Twaalfskill creek.

Work on the upper level storm sewer in the covered Twaalfskill brook is completed to within 100 feet of the end. Lights and a communications system have been installed in the tunnel and work is in progress on the ventilation system.

The project, which is making use of a wide tunnel built many years ago by the New York city water works department to compensate for lessened facilities here after completion of the Ashokan reservoir project, will relieve storm water flood conditions in a large uptown area, and provide better general sewer facilities for the heavily populated section.

The tunnel will contain both storm water and sanitary lines.

A resolution from Eighth Ward Alderman John Dolan, referred from the Common Council, and asking establishment of park and recreational facilities in his ward, was referred to the recreation department. The resolution was ac-

Tumor Clinic Is Given $5,000 Grant

State Division Fund Helps Work in County; Breed Attends Clinics

A grant-in-aid of $5,000 has been made to the Ulster County Tumor Clinic by the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society, it was announced today by Capt. Andrew Hickey, publicity chairman of the Ulster county chapter.

Capt. Hickey said this sum brings total grants to $24,000 since 1949 from this source, plus about $15,000 for office maintenance, etc.

According to the official announcement, the grant was made "upon recommendation of the Ulster county branch of the American Cancer Society."

Will Be of Help

Dr. M. M. Grover, director and radiologist of the Tumor Clinic, said that the grant "will certainly be of great help in maintaining the operation of the clinic. It will thereby, be of great assistance to the entire community."

Dr. Grover pointed out that the clinic has 'three functions in the area, that it provides consultation service, radiation treatment (both-

Poughkeepsie Man Asks $1,609,788 for 2.58 Miles to Link Route 28

John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, was the low bidder for construction of 2.58 miles of the New York State Thruway in the Kingston area, the state public works department announced today.

The bid was $1,609,778.05 for joining the Kingston-Saugerties strip where it ends near Sawkill with Route 28 just west of the city.

Construction of a bridge where the route will cross the Sawkill road and the building of a gravel road to serve four area farms is included in this phase of the project.

The state estimate for the work is $2,017,000.

The Lane Construction Co., of Meriden, Conn., which has done considerable thruway work in the area, was second lowest bidder with a bid of $1,684,066, and the third lowest was George M. Brewster & Son, Inc., of Bogota, N. J., with a bid of $1,924,118.75.

The bids were opened at 10:30 a. m. today in the office of the Bureau of Contracts and Accounts, state office building, Albany.

State engineers indicated earlier this summer that the awarding of a contract will be quickly followed by start of the work and it is expected that considerable grading will be accomplished in the late fall.

Thruway Workers Join Strike Over Using Inmate Help

AFL Protests Building Roads at Hospitals With Patients as Laborers

A strike which began earlier this week in protest against use of state crews for road resurfacing and alleged use of state institution inmates for road work, spread to Ulster county today.

Seventy of 80 men who had been working on the Saugerties-Kingston section of the New York State Thruway, quit work in the spreading strike of AFL workers.

Engineers Not Available

Neither J. S. Bixby, district engineer of the state public works department at Poughkeepsie or A. R. Erskine, thruway authority engineer in the same office, was available today for detailed information on the Ulster county phase of the strike, but an Associated Press report said it had spread to this area.

Part of the complaint the report said, was against alleged use of patients of state institutions for work on roads within institutional grounds.

Dr. O. Arnold Kilpatrick, director of the Hudson River Hospital, where work also is tied up by the strike, said yesterday that some patients are employed on outside tasks but not on road building.

The work stoppage began Tuesday when workmen walked off four state highway projects in the Hudson valley. Yesterday it spread to the Palisades Parkway project and to the Hudson River Hospital and the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

The Thruway section affected by today's walkout is a $3,500,000 four-lane job that is 80 per cent complete.

Says Stoppage Dangerous

Joseph Arborio, a contractor whose firm is working on two highway projects, one between Staatsburg and Rhinebeck and one in Rockland county, said today that "work can't be left for long without creating a dangerous condition."

Arborio was referring to hazards on the two roads, both of which are open to traffic.

The strikers are members of unions affiliated with the Dutchess County Building and Trades Council.

Kurt G. Rauer, deputy district engineer for the State Department of Public Works, said today that "no one from any of the striking unions has come to this office to explain the work stoppage."

William Sorenson, head of the Trades Council, declined to discuss the dispute.

Car Driver Charged With Drunkenness

Three Ulster county youths were injured, apparently not seriously, and one was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated as the result of an accident on the Onteora Trail at Allaben about 11:20 p. m. Wednesday. State Police Corporal Ray Dunn of Phoenicia reported that an automobile driven by Burdette Booth, 20, of Phoenicia ran off the right side of the highway near the Catholic Church, traveled a distance of 40 feet in the ditch, crossed the highway, knocked down a large illuminated sign and gasoline pump in front of the Hollow Tavern, then turned over and came to rest on its top. The sign fell on top of a parked automobile owned by Galen Swazee of West Kill, Cpl. Dunn said. No fire was reported as a result of the damage to the gasoline pump. Booth and his two passengers, Everen Bush, 17, and Tommy Staiger, 19, both of Chichester, were treated by Dr. Charles A. Quinn for lacerations, abrasions and contusions, according to the report. Booth was later arraigned before Justice of the Peace Raymond C. Smith of Phoenicia on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He posted $25 bail for hearing before the same justice at 3 p. m. today. (Wagenfohr photo)

Campaign Outlook

(This is the fourth of a series of five stories on the political situation as of now, as seen by newspaper editors and political writers in all 48 states.)

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Key midwestern battleground states are considered by editors on the scene to be half certain, half doubtful, but largely inclined to go Republican at this stage of the 1952 election campaign.

Large numbers of voters still are regarded as undecided between Democrat Adlai Stevenson and Republican Dwight Eisenhower for president. And editors and political writers participating in Associated Press surveys provide all sorts of cross-current estimates as to which way the vital farm vote might go.

This bloc of a dozen states—North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio—has been given a major share of the responsibility for the surprise victory President Truman chalked up in the 1948 election. So these states, with 153 electoral votes, are sure to hear some heavy political cannonading as the rival parties fight it out between now and the Nov. 4 balloting.

Six Go Democratic

Four years ago, six of the 12 states went Democratic, some of them by hair-line margins. This year, as newsmen see it, the Democrats could be reasonably sure only of Truman's home state of Missouri if the election were held today. Among the doubtful states, they believe only Illinois is teetering toward its own Governor Stevenson.

The consensus of newsmen is that four bed-rock Republican states—North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas—will stay Republican. They figure that Iowa, which went Democratic in a stunning upset in the 1948 presidential

BPW Told Sewer Work Nears End on Washington Ave.

Must Now Lay 2,200 Feet of Pipe—Storm Project Also Is Well Along

City Engineer Arthur J. Hallinan informed the Board of Public Works yesterday that many phases of the Washington avenue-Elizabeth street sewer project are completed and the major work remaining is the laying of 2,200 feet of pipeline from Gilead to Elizabeth street.

The board, at its regular monthly session yesterday, voted to remind local licensed plumbers by letter that they must obtain permits before opening excavations in local streets and sidewalks.

This action followed a report of complaints that permit cards were not being displayed on some jobs as required by local law and that some permits were applied for after actual start of the work.

Engineer Hallinan informed the board that the two shafts and grit chamber on the Washington avenue-Elizabeth street project are completed and work is finished on the "outfall" of the sewer line from the Washington avenue tunnel to the Twaalfskill creek.

Work on the upper level storm sewer in the covered Twaalfskill brook is completed to within 100 feet of the end. Lights and a communications system have been installed in the tunnel and work is in progress on the ventilation system.

A grant-in-aid of $5,000 has been made to the Ulster County Tumor Clinic by the New York State Division of the American Cancer Society, it was announced today by Capt. Andrew Hickey, publicity chairman of the Ulster county chapter.

Capt. Hickey said this sum brings total grants to $24,000 since 1949 from this source, plus about $15,000 for office maintenance, etc.

According to the official announcement, the grant was made "upon recommendation of the Ulster county branch of the American Cancer Society."

Will Be of Help

Dr. M. M. Grover, director and radiologist of the Tumor Clinic, said that the grant "will certainly be of great help in maintaining the operation of the clinic. It will thereby, be of great assistance to the entire community."

Dr. Grover pointed out that the clinic has three functions in the area, that it provides consultation service, radiation treatment (both-

Poughkeepsie Man Asks $1,609,788 for 2.58 Miles to Link Route 28

John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, was the low bidder for construction of 2.58 miles of the New York State Thruway in the Kingston area, the state public works department announced today.

The bid was $1,609,778.05 for joining the Kingston-Saugerties strip where it ends near Sawkill with Route 28 just west of the city.

Construction of a bridge where the route will cross the Sawkill road and the building of a gravel road to serve four area farms is included in this phase of the project.

The state estimate for the work is $2,017,000.

The Lane Construction Co., of Meriden, Conn., which has done considerable thruway work in the area, was second lowest bidder with a bid of $1,684,066, and the third lowest was George M. Brewster & Son, Inc., of Bogota, N. J., with a bid of $1,924,118.75.

The bids were opened at 10:30 a. m. today in the office of the Bureau of Contracts and Accounts, state office building, Albany.

State engineers indicated earlier this summer that the awarding of a contract will be quickly followed by start of the work and it is expected that considerable grading will be accomplished in the late fall.

Thruway Workers Join Strike Over Using Inmate Help

AFL Protests Building Roads at Hospitals With Patients as Laborers

A strike which began earlier this week in protest against use of state crews for road resurfacing and alleged use of state institution inmates for road work, spread to Ulster county today.

Seventy of 80 men who had been working on the Saugerties-Kingston section of the New York State Thruway, quit work in the spreading strike of AFL workers.

Engineers Not Available

Neither J. S. Bixby, district engineer of the state public works department at Poughkeepsie or A. R. Erskine, thruway authority engineer in the same office, was available today for detailed information on the Ulster county phase of the strike, but an Associated Press report said it had spread to this area.

Part of the complaint the report said, was against alleged use of patients of state institutions for work on roads within institutional grounds.

Dr. O. Arnold Kilpatrick, director of the Hudson River Hospital, where work also is tied up by the strike, said yesterday that some patients are employed on outside tasks but not on road building.

The work stoppage began Tuesday when workmen walked off four state highway projects in the Hudson valley. Yesterday it spread to the Palisades Parkway project and to the Hudson River Hospital and the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

The Thruway section affected by today's walkout is a $3,500,000 four-lane job that is 80 per cent complete.

Says Stoppage Dangerous

Joseph Arborio, a contractor whose firm is working on two highway projects, one between Staatsburg and Rhinebeck and one in Rockland county, said today that "work can't be left for long without creating a dangerous condition."

Arborio was referring to hazards on the two roads, both of which are open to traffic.

The strikers are members of unions affiliated with the Dutchess County Building and Trades Council.

Kurt G. Rauer, deputy district engineer for the State Department of Public Works, said today that "no one from any of the striking unions has come to this office to explain the work stoppage."

William Sorenson, head of the Trades Council, declined to discuss the dispute.

Car Driver Charged With Drunkenness

Three Ulster county youths were injured, apparently not seriously, and one was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated as the result of an accident on the Onteora Trail at Allaben about 11:20 p. m. Wednesday. State Police Corporal Ray Dunn of Phoenicia reported that an automobile driven by Burdette Booth, 20, of Phoenicia ran off the right side of the highway near the Catholic Church, traveled a distance of 40 feet in the ditch, crossed the highway, knocked down a large illuminated sign and gasoline pump in front of the Hollow Tavern, then turned over and came to rest on its top. The sign fell on top of a parked automobile owned by Galen Swazee of West Kill, Cpl. Dunn said. No fire was reported as a result of the damage to the gasoline pump. Booth and his two passengers, Everen Bush, 17, and Tommy Staiger, 19, both of Chichester, were treated by Dr. Charles A. Quinn for lacerations, abrasions and contusions, according to the report. Booth was later arraigned before Justice of the Peace Raymond C. Smith of Phoenicia on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He posted $25 bail for hearing before the same justice at 3 p. m. today. (Wagenfohr photo)

Campaign Outlook

(This is the fourth of a series of five stories on the political situation as of now, as seen by newspaper editors and political writers in all 48 states.)

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Key midwestern battleground states are considered by editors on the scene to be half certain, half doubtful, but largely inclined to go Republican at this stage of the 1952 election campaign.

Large numbers of voters still are regarded as undecided between Democrat Adlai Stevenson and Republican Dwight Eisenhower for president. And editors and political writers participating in Associated Press surveys provide all sorts of cross-current estimates as to which way the vital farm vote might go.

This bloc of a dozen states—North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio—has been given a major share of the responsibility for the surprise victory President Truman chalked up in the 1948 election. So these states, with 153 electoral votes, are sure to hear some heavy political cannonading as the rival parties fight it out between now and the Nov. 4 balloting.

Six Go Democratic

Four years ago, six of the 12 states went Democratic, some of them by hair-line margins. This year, as newsmen see it, the Democrats could be reasonably sure only of Truman's home state of Missouri if the election were held today. Among the doubtful states, they believe only Illinois is teetering toward its own Governor Stevenson.

The consensus of newsmen is that four bed-rock Republican states—North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas—will stay Republican. They figure that Iowa, which went Democratic in a stunning upset in the 1948 presidential

Discuss Plans for Legion Ball

Commander John A. Weber of Kingston Post, 150, discusses plans for American Legion Ball with the general chairman of the social event, Paul Hyatt. The Ball will be held Monday, Nov. 10, at the municipal auditorium. At 11 p. m. there will be a special Armistice ceremony in memory of those who have died in the service of their country. The following head committees for the event: Harry Kingsburg, program; Thomas Saccoman, patron ticket; Andrew J. Murphy, Jr., ticket; Andrew J. Taft Says . . .

"that if he (Stevenson) is elected on the Democratic ticket with the support of the same people who supported President Truman, he is going to be engulfed in the same totalitarian philosophy that dominates four-fifths of those who are influential in the present administration.

"He cannot clean up the mess of false philosophy of spending and power any more than he can clean up the mess of corruption. He is a captive candidate. He would be a captive president," Taft asserted.

The senator recalled his statement after last week's visit with Eisenhower that their differences were more a matter of degree than principle.

"Governor Stevenson," Taft said, "apparently is disappointed to find that General Eisenhower and I agree that liberty is the basis of all future progress, that there isn't any basic difference in the Republican party on that belief, and that government spending and power must be reduced.

Against Destroying Liberty

"The Republican party is a party of progress. It rejects the whole theory of socialism and big government as reactionary and destructive of human liberty.

"It proposes to resume progress, stimulated and assisted by government, without governmental control and regulation. It promises to reduce expenses and cut taxes."

The senator said Democrats like to ask this question: Has your liberty been reduced? Answering it, Taft said:

"Apart from all kinds of business and farm and labor regulations, apart from the drafting of yourself and your sons for two years' military service in Korea or Germany, you are losing at least a fourth of your liberty because you have lost the right to spend a fourth of the money which you have earned by the sweat of your brow."

Taft estimated that in addition to the 25 per cent federal tax burden, state and local levies boosted the tax take to about 33 per cent. Burdensome taxes become inflationary, he warned.

Eisenhower Gets

thirds filled. His speech was telecast locally.

In the corn-hog country of Iowa, local politicians credited Eisenhower with a chance to carry the state, which President Truman won by a 28,000 vote margin in 1948.

His swing into Nebraska tonight will take him into a state regarded as likely to remain as solidly Republican this year as it was four years ago.

Question McGrath

J. Howard McGrath, former attorney general, appears before House investigators in Washington, Sept. 17, for questioning about tax cases handled by the Justice Department while he headed it. The House Judiciary subcommittee called him primarily to ask him about the 1951 St. Louis grand jury probe of tax scandals.

WESTERN EUROPE DEFENSE PLANS

Much has been said about the administrative details of the West European defense force, but there has been little so far on how that force would be used if the worst should happen.

Certainly there would be changes from the kind of fighting seen in Europe during World War II. And those changes are as marked as those which distinguished the fixed-line trench system of World War I from the wide-open armored warfare of World War II.

Without exact information on what obviously must be a hush-hush matter as regards detail, it seems apparent that the countries of western Europe are now divided between two widely different plans.

One would hold generally to the fixed lines of defense based on the big rivers which form natural barriers across Europe. The other would have Allied armies, in the event they are forced into initial retreat, fall back into previously prepared strong points of resistance.

Such strong points might be in the Alps on the South, and to the North, coastal areas which would afford the protection of water barriers.

There is something to be said for both strategic plans. Backers of the fixed-line plan believe that if Russia should attack westward across Germany, a strong line of defense along, say, the Rhine would force Russia to concentrate her forces for a breakthrough.

This would make the Russians highly vulnerable to attack by tactical atomic weapons.

On the other hand, a plan for holding out in strong points would seem to offer the Western forces a better opportunity for heavy counter-attacks. Such a plan might also tend to reduce the possibility of the defending forces being cut up and reduced piecemeal by any successful enemy offensive.

Of course, an important consideration in a choice of strategy during any war in which the atomic weapons would be used tactically, is how those weapons could be used without serious affect on the civilian population.

Certainly this point is being given consideration in strategy planning. The enormous potential of atom weapons used tactically makes it imperative that every possible safeguard be taken for the protection of civilians.

NATION OF HOME OWNERS

Some of the statistics on home ownership are surprising. In spite of steadily rising prices and building costs the average American home-owner is an ordinary worker making less than $5,000 a year. Federal Housing Administration statistics shows that almost 70 per cent of all people buying homes are in that income group. Nearly one-fifth of the people buying homes earn less than $4,000 a year.

A nation where most working people can aspire to the ownership of their own home is bound to be a strong one. The more people who own property the more people there are who have a stake in the country. It will be hard to sell Communism to such people who see that with thrift and industry they can harvest some of the fruits of private enterprise.

NEWS, NOT ADS

The Manchester Guardian, most famous English newspaper except the London Times, has turned over a new leaf. Heretofore, following an old English custom, its front page has been devoted to advertisements. Henceforth it will print news there, as indeed many English newspapers now do.

This indifference to reader interest goes back a long way. According to tradition, Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo in 1815, one of the decisive battles of all time, was recorded half way down the column on an inside page of the Times, with the thrilling headline, "News from the War."

Americans cannot understand such practices. Evidently British journalism is changing with the times.

The Gettysburg address contains 266 words, the Ten Commandments 297, and the Declaration of Independence 300. Some day a political platform will take hint and will be short enough for people to read it.

'These Days'

THE PARTY PREVAILS

The heart of the Taft-Eisenhower agreement is that the party, as an institution in American life, prevails over the cabal. To too many, the political party has, since 1940, become a lifeless conveyor belt to achieve their private purposes. They tried that during the Willkie campaign. The very same group has attempted it again in the present Eisenhower campaign. Apparently the general, although an amateur in politics, has recognized the fact that it is a party and not a personality that must win an election.

The process of negotiation has been most unusual. Senator Taft had already agreed to support the candidate of his party and had committed himself to deliver a limited number of speeches. After having done that, he went, as he has done every year, to Murray Bay for his vacation.

The practical men in the Eisenhower management recognized two facts:

1. That within the Republican Party, the resentment over the pre-eminence of the Dewey faction in the Eisenhower headquarters was taking on the form of inactivity amounting to sabotage;

2. That should Eisenhower be elected, he would find himself facing an antagonistic Republican Senate. He could not depend upon the leadership of Senator Alexander Smith of New Jersey who, while a splendid man, does not carry weight with the conservatives of his party, or Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., about whose re-election there are grave doubts.

They realized that Senator Robert A. Taft, no matter what happened in Chicago, remains the legislative and intellectual leader of his party. True, should Eisenhower be elected, he could over four years so reorganize his party that Taft's influence would disappear. But any study of the existing or prospective personnel of the Republican membership in Congress establishes Taft's position.

It was realized in advance that the only reason why Taft might be doubtful about full activity in the campaign would be an uncertainty as to the ideological position of the Eisenhower group. All his life engaged in politics, Taft must realize that the President — any President — is, in a large measure, a captive of his entourage upon whom he has to depend. When, in a campaign, the appointments secretary, the press secretary, the speech writers, and much of the office personnel are members of the Dewey faction, and when such an outsider as Paul Hoffman plays an important role, the question of who might formulate the principles had to arise.

All that Taft proposed to the many people who tried to influence him was where specifically does Eisenhower stand on certain principles and on party organization. Senator Frank Carlson of Kansas and Arthur Summerfield, chairman of the Republican National Committee, both devoted to Eisenhower and his victory, were the men who brought the candidate and the party leader together, not on a personal basis but in the realm of ideas and party organization.

It is novel in American politics that such a discussion should be based on a document; yet, it is a characteristic of Senator Taft that he should have put his ideas in writing, that it should have been available, I believe, during the first week of August or even earlier.

It is nonsense to say that Taft demanded that Eisenhower sign on the dotted line. His position was: this is where I stand. Taft told me during the convention in Chicago that he believed that the differences between General Eisenhower and himself were matters of degree, not of principle. I know that he respects General Eisenhower's concepts and recognizes his difficulties. There never was any question but that once they discussed ideas and party organization, they would find little to separate them.

What the Dewey element will now do is difficult to say. Dewey has an ace card — the enormous electoral vote of New York State. If he can deliver that, he is entitled to major political recognition. As matters stand today, New York is still in the doubtful column.

Politically, it is essential that Eisenhower carry the Middle West and California to offset a possible defeat in New York. If Taft carries the Middle West for Eisenhower, the general can be elected. In using the phrase, "If Taft carries," I do not reflect unfavorably on the general, but it was in this area of the country that Republican resistance was most felt.

The McCarthy victory in Wisconsin and Taft's return to activity have re-stimulated Republican Party activity.

PROPERLY FITTED SHOES

In examining recruits for World War 1, we came across many who had been wearing, or were still wearing, shoes with pointed toes which came to a sharp point, wedging all five toes into the space of about two. The great majority of these cases were rejected, as many had had hammer toes, many had bunions and flat feet were also common.

While the days of the pointed toe shoes are gone, a bulletin issued by the American Foot Care Institute, Inc., by Dr. Benjamin Kauth, Director, should be of interest as it is frequently stated, that we earn as much money with our feet, generally speaking, as we do with our head.

Americans are rapidly walking their way into trouble, according to dermatologists, orthopedic specialists, podiatrists and other specialists who are confronted daily with a variety of foot ailments. The principal reason for so much foot trouble is failure to wear properly fitted and properly constructed shoes. Improper footwear is a particular source of pain and discomfort, causing corns and calluses at any place where the shoe does not fit the foot properly.

In addition, the combination of heat and dampness from perspiration makes the feet ideal breeding grounds for the little vegetable organisms (fungi) that cause athlete's foot.

Now that manufacturers are making shoes of proper shape, enabling the individual to spread his toes, yet fitting snugly at vamp and heel, the purchaser knows at once whether or not the shoes fit him.

Another suggestion from Director Kauth is that, while canvas sneakers are comfortable for games, they should not be worn all day as they give insufficient support to the feet.

During National Foot Health Week some months ago, some suggestions for purchasers were published:

1. Buy shoes toward end of the day, since feet tend to swell when used. Both feet should be measured standing. The longest of the two feet should be measured and fitted. The shoe should extend at least a half-inch beyond the end of the big toe. The leather across the vamp should be wide enough to permit you to pinch it a bit between the fingers.

2. Wear shoes with leather uppers and soles which permit the feet to breathe.

3. Wash feet daily, especially between toes. Dry feet carefully as heat and moisture breed the organisms that cause athlete's foot—ringworm of the feet.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—A careful Republican diagnosis of votes in 12 key states indicates that the Negro vote can probably swing the election either for or against Eisenhower. This may explain why the general recently stated that he might appoint a qualified Negro to his cabinet.

The survey was made by experts in connection with the GOP advertising plan to use about $2,000,000 worth of radio and TV spots during the last three weeks of the campaign in 49 counties of 12 key states.

This was behind General Eisenhower's taking time to make half a hundred radio and TV "spots" in a New York film studio last week immediately after his breakfast with Senator Taft. The spots consisted of questions asked of Eisenhower and his replies, and these will be played back to the public during the wind-up of the campaign in mid-October. Big advertisers friendly to the Republicans are being asked to relinquish their time spots for this purpose.

The survey which led to these recordings is extremely significant. It shows that, in 12 key states, a change of 1 or 2 per cent of the vote could swing the election either Republican or Democratic.

The secret GOP survey follows:

Progressive Vote Important

"Every one of these states with the exception of Pennsylvania (R.) and Wisconsin (D.) finished in an extremely close fashion in 1948. In the case of 6 of these states, credited to the Dewey column, the shift resulting from no Progressive vote would throw the states back to the Democrats.

"The fact that these states are concentrated geographically as they are, helps implement this plan (of saturating the air-waves with TV and radio spots). Steps taken in one state will not be confined to the state itself, but will overlap.

"A look at each state shows:

"Connecticut — Three strong Democratic areas centered around New Haven, New London and Hartford. A shift of 2 per cent in the vote of these areas would insure Republican victory. With Senator McMahon's death, a strong Republican senatorial race will help, as will Governor Lodge's strength in the state.

"Maryland — Senator Tydings (D) got beaten here not so much because of Senator McCarthy's campaign, but because he lost the Negro wards in Baltimore (20 per cent of the city's vote). The same thing happened to Rep. Sasscer (D) this fall. Obviously the Negro vote is a big question here. Democratic strength is in Baltimore, across from Washington and in the Cumberland mining section.

"New Jersey—Went Republican in 1948 but not by an overwhelming margin. The Hudson county machine still functions, and, with the Taft-Driscoll split in the state, could cause trouble. The Negro vote is an important element here too. Democratic strength lies in Hudson county, Trenton, Camden and New Brunswick.

Slim N. Y. Margin

"New York — Went Republican by only 60,000 in 1948 while the Progressive vote was over 500,000. It is a truism in this state that, if the Republicans leave the city limits with more than a 200,000 handicap, they are in trouble. The Republicans must get every possible vote in Queens and Richmond, fight to take away independent votes in Manhattan and Bronx. In addition, they must buck the O'Connell machine in Albany, and Democratic strength in Utica, Rochester and Buffalo. The Negro and Jewish votes are vital, but FEPC endorsement alone is not the answer.

"Pennsylvania — Went Republican but not by a substantial margin in 1948. With the success of the Democrats in putting in Dilworth and Clark in Philadelphia, plus the decline of the Grundy machine, they are in for a fight this time. Democratic strength is in Scranton, Philadelphia and the Pittburgh area.

"Ohio—Taft was successful in cutting into the labor vote in Cuyahoga (Cleveland) and Mahonig (Youngstown) counties in 1950. The Republicans must duplicate the feat again in '52 to win the state. They are helped by the fact that Charlie Taft may lick Lausche for governor, even though he was only endorsed by the Taft machine on the last day of the primary race, while Mike Di Salle is a weak candidate against John Bricker. Again the Negro vote in Cuyahoga is critical. A change in 3,600 votes in 1948 would have put the state in the Republican column.

"Indiana—Went Republican by a bare margin in 1948, and again a rising Negro vote is extremely important, as is the farm vote all over the state. The Gary labor vote is uncertain, probably will be more heavily Democratic this year as a result of the Truman withholding of Taft-Hartley in the steel strike.

"Michigan—Another state that the return of the Progressive vote could put in the Democratic column. Depression in the Detroit auto industry as well as a tight gubernatorial and senatorial race won't make the picture any easier. A very, very important Negro vote in Detroit, which Williams and Moody have of course catered to. Democratic strength is here, in Bay City and Flint, as well as Grand Rapids.

California Doubtful

"Illinois—Here is one of the toughest for the Republicans to take. Stevenson's home state, which went barely Democratic in '48 must be taken. The concentration of Democratic strength is in Chicago, Decatur and East St. Louis. The key to taking the state is Chicago's Negro vote as well as getting as much of the downstate farm vote as possible.

"Wisconsin—Here is one many analysts figure belongs to the Republicans on the basis of 1940 and 1944 returns. Not so, since these votes were an expression of Wisconsin's pro-German, anti-British feeling. When this tapered off in 1948, the vote (including Progressive) was over 53 per cent Democratic. It is purely and simply a question of slugging it out on the various issues in the city of Milwaukee as well as in Greenbay and Madison.

"Iowa—This is the one that hurt, a farm state that went Democratic by 1 per cent. Democratic strength is all over the state, not bunched, can be found in nine major areas. Only a campaign assuring farmers of their over-all economic future as well as specific farm policies will take this state.

"California — Governor Warren has stated this will be a tough fight and he's right. Despite Warren's personal popularity in the state, it has steadily gone Democratic for the past six elections. Nixon doesn't seem too much stronger a candidate. California was barely Democratic in 1948 but there was a 5 per cent Progressive vote to contend with. Thus, unless heavy scrapping is done in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Alameda county and San Diego, the state will go to the Democrats. Here is one state where FEPC makes a strong appeal in certain sections and brings violent reaction in others. San Francisco, for example. Therefore, concentration of appeals is necessary in each local area.

"Thus, in these key 12 states, there are 49 strongly Democratic areas. If, by using the elements outlined in Section 1 of this plan, these votes can be shifted from 1 to 5 per cent, the states and a November victory will end up in Eisenhower's hands."

Eisenhower's Speech to AFL Fails to Deal Adequately With Taft-Hartley Act

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 18—General Eisenhower's speech to the American Federation of Labor will not satisfy either labor or management. It failed to deal comprehensively with the problem of governmental intervention in labor disputes and the regulation of collective-bargaining practices.

It seems unfortunate that, with all the talent and advice available to the general, he should attempt to compress in a single paragraph the principles of the Taft-Hartley Act that he thinks should be continued and fail also to specify the main things that ought to be eliminated.

If the general had stopped to think about it—or if his advisers had given the matter any thought—they might have consulted the record of the United States Senate, which on June 30, 1949, endeavored to rewrite the Taft-Hartley Act by means of 28 different amendments. Those amendments were approved by a vote of 51 to 42 in what was known as the Taft-Ives bill.

General Eisenhower said in his speech:

"Here are some of the principles I think it is important we continue in law: The encouragement of collective bargaining; the right to strike; an advance notice before a strike is called; a requirement that both unions and employers live up to their contracts; the assurance that members of unions get a regular report on their organization's finances."

But are these really the only important principles in the present Taft-Hartley Act? The most important of all was not mentioned by the general. It is the provision which protects every worker from being interfered with in any way in his right to join or not to join a union. This clause in the law has often been referred to as emancipating the worker from the tyranny of the strong-arm organizers of unions or from union bosses who threaten to take his job from him if he disagrees with the union officers.

The Republican presidential nominee didn't say a word about the "closed shop" which is banned by the Taft-Hartley Act. That's the provision which says that in free America nobody should have to become a union member to get a job. The Republican national platform denounces the "closed shop" and certainly General Eisenhower should have repeated that declaration, for it is a vital factor in American industrial life. Nor did the general mention the freedom of speech assured to employers and unions under Taft-Hartley as contrasted with free speech for unions only under the Wagner Act.

The general says: "I know the law might be used to break unions That must be changed. America wants no law licensing union-busting. Neither do I."

What General Eisenhower didn't know is that this is the favorite jargon of the labor union and simply isn't true. The Taft-Hartley Act hasn't busted any labor unions. The membership has grown and the number of unions has not been appreciably changed since the law was passed. Nor has collective bargaining been weakened—if by collective bargaining it meant fair dealing and good-faith negotiation, instead of collective bludgeoning.

Whoever sold the general the idea that there is anything in the Taft-Hartley Act that licenses "union-busting" did him a disservice.

The requirement that union officers take the non-Communist oath and that employers take it, too, was to have been changed by the Taft-Ives bill if it had passed the House of Representatives. As a matter of fact, General Eisenhower would have performed a great service if he had told the American people the facts about the defeat of the Taft-Ives bill in the house. A majority adopted it by a close vote but the administration deliberately swung its support in favor of reconsideration and recommitment to committee, which meant that the bill was killed. The labor-union bosses thought they could have a better political issue for 1952 if they kept crying out for "repeal."

The use of the words "repeal" or "amendment" is confusing. There is no chance that the Taft-Hartley Act will be wiped out altogether—that is, "repealed." Governor Stevenson says he favors "rewriting" the law. He calls this "repeal." The public isn't interested in such quibbles. General Eisenhower, like Governor Stevenson, has failed to specify which principles will be supported and which ones will be rejected out of the present Taft-Hartley Act.

The Republican nominee is in a neutral or impartial position as between the interests of employers and unions while the Democratic nominee has swallowed the CIO viewpoint hook, line and sinker.

General Eisenhower, referring to the 1926 Railway Labor Act—which was the first federal law to recognize collective bargaining—rightly pointed out that this and the Norris-La Guardia anti-injunction law were passed under a Republican administration and by a Republican controlled Congress. He might have gone further and pointed out that, in upholding the right to collective bargaining granted by the Wagner Labor Relations Act, the Supreme Court of the United States relied primarily on the Railway Labor Act of 1926 as a precedent for the use of federal power in that manner.

The general referred dramatically to the legislative proposal of President Truman in 1946 to draft railroad workers into the army when they struck. It was a telling point. But the general forgot to say it was Senator Taft who led that fight to keep the American worker from being regimented into uniform as a strikebreaker.

It was, on the whole, a good speech as far as it went but it didn't go far enough to suit disinterested persons who know the labor-management law of the land and its big advantages to the party of the third part—the public.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Senator Joe McCarthy's enormous victory in Wisconsin, the most powerful smash in our modern political history, and Senator Taft's strong statement in support of General Eisenhower and the terms thereof, have made a great change in the campaign.

Governor Stevenson, meanwhile, has settled into his imitation of a night-club monologist and this has widened the gap, too. By a series of political accidents, the nation is the richer by one wit and, to Stevenson's further credit, be it noted that he probably invents his own gags. He may become known as Uncle Miltie Stevenson, and that is not a mean compliment for Milton Berle is as nimble and sharp at repartee as any we have developed in the new age and phase of entertainment which throws the actor into a small patch of light with only an outline of script and largely on his own instantaneous resources.

To be sure, most of them repeat their more successful sallies but Berle also improvises with amazing agility and charm and Stevenson can rely on bookings in the Copa and the grand circuit of Miami, New Orleans, Hollywood, Las Vegas and Saratoga after November. His remark that this was the first campaign in which the opposition was trying to throw th rascals in was worth swiping and no doubt will be heard from professional drolls ere these reflections make print.

However, flippancy, even in the late Roosevelt's clumsy and sissified references to Henry the Morgue and Tommy the Cork, is not a substantial political asset by itself. It is tolerable for contrast or change of pace but Stevenson seems to be single-gaited. Though he will amuse the citizens they are no more likely to vote for him than for Joe E. Lewis.

McCarthy, with a popular vote far in excess of all five of his Republican primary opponents and all the Democrats, together, far outscored Roosevelt's victory over Landon in 1936. Roosevelt's count was a little under 7 to 4 whereas McCarthy beat his principal Republican opponent alone by almost 2½ to 1 and the Democrats who crossed over to vote in the Republican primary voted for Joe, not against him. The issue here was communism in government, complicated by a few variations on the same theme such as the standing that General George Marshall is to have in permanent history.

This was the first time that a senatorial primary became a national issue with millions of citizens in other states waiting for the returns late into the night. Joe's real opposition came from the city of New York, although Marshall Field, of Chicago, the little man who wasn't there, sent $500 to try to defeat him, and others, similarly sensitive on the subject of communism and treason, showered down from afar. However, Joe also got hundreds of small contributions from New York and at least two big ones.

There is no proposition now of McCarthy's hopping on Eisenhower's bandwagon. If Ike knows how to read election returns he will grab the tail-step of McCarthy's wagon and there have been indications that he will at least get on board even though he shrinks back from the driver's seat.

Eisenhower has no right to make a major issue of the professional and political competence of a partisan Democratic general in a Republican campaign. The Republican voters have no mission to vindicate George Marshall and Ike's personal devotion to him,

It was realized in advance that the only reason why Taft might be doubtful about full activity in the campaign would be an uncertainty as to the ideological position of the Eisenhower group. All his life engaged in politics, Taft must realize that the President — any President — is, in a large measure, a captive of his entourage upon whom he has to depend. When, in a campaign, the appointments secretary, the press secretary, the speech writers, and much of the office personnel are members of the Dewey faction, and when such an outsider as Paul Hoffman plays an important role, the question of who might formulate the principles had to arise.

All that Taft proposed to the many people who tried to influence him was where specifically does Eisenhower stand on certain principles and on party organization. Senator Frank Carlson of Kansas and Arthur Summerfield, chairman of the Republican National Committee, both devoted to Eisenhower and his victory, were the men who brought the candidate and the party leader together, not on a personal basis but in the realm of ideas and party organization.

It is novel in American politics that such a discussion should be based on a document; yet, it is a characteristic of Senator Taft that he should have put his ideas in writing, that it should have been available, I believe, during the first week of August or even earlier.

It is nonsense to say that Taft demanded that Eisenhower sign on the dotted line. His position was: this is where I stand. Taft told me during the convention in Chicago that he believed that the differences between General Eisenhower and himself were matters of degree, not of principle. I know that he respects General Eisenhower's concepts and recognizes his difficulties. There never was any question but that once they discussed ideas and party organization, they would find little to separate them.

What the Dewey element will now do is difficult to say. Dewey has an ace card — the enormous electoral vote of New York State. If he can deliver that, he is entitled to major political recognition. As matters stand today, New York is still in the doubtful column.

Politically, it is essential that Eisenhower carry the Middle West and California to offset a possible defeat in New York. If Taft carries the Middle West for Eisenhower, the general can be elected. In using the phrase, "If Taft carries," I do not reflect unfavorably on the general, but it was in this area of the country that Republican resistance was most felt.

The McCarthy victory in Wisconsin and Taft's return to activity have re-stimulated Republican Party activity.

PROPERLY FITTED SHOES

In examining recruits for World War 1, we came across many who had been wearing, or were still wearing, shoes with pointed toes which came to a sharp point, wedging all five toes into the space of about two. The great majority of these cases were rejected, as many had had hammer toes, many had bunions and flat feet were also common.

While the days of the pointed toe shoes are gone, a bulletin issued by the American Foot Care Institute, Inc., by Dr. Benjamin Kauth, Director, should be of interest as it is frequently stated, that we earn as much money with our feet, generally speaking, as we do with our head.

Americans are rapidly walking their way into trouble, according to dermatologists, orthopedic specialists, podiatrists and other specialists who are confronted daily with a variety of foot ailments. The principal reason for so much foot trouble is failure to wear properly fitted and properly constructed shoes. Improper footwear is a particular source of pain and discomfort, causing corns and calluses at any place where the shoe does not fit the foot properly.

In addition, the combination of heat and dampness from perspiration makes the feet ideal breeding grounds for the little vegetable organisms (fungi) that cause athlete's foot.

Now that manufacturers are making shoes of proper shape, enabling the individual to spread his toes, yet fitting snugly at vamp and heel, the purchaser knows at once whether or not the shoes fit him.

Another suggestion from Director Kauth is that, while canvas sneakers are comfortable for games, they should not be worn all day as they give insufficient support to the feet.

During National Foot Health Week some months ago, some suggestions for purchasers were published:

1. Buy shoes toward end of the day, since feet tend to swell when used. Both feet should be measured standing. The longest of the two feet should be measured and fitted. The shoe should extend at least a half-inch beyond the end of the big toe. The leather across the vamp should be wide enough to permit you to pinch it a bit between the fingers.

2. Wear shoes with leather uppers and soles which permit the feet to breathe.

3. Wash feet daily, especially between toes. Dry feet carefully as heat and moisture breed the organisms that cause athlete's foot—ringworm of the feet.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—A careful Republican diagnosis of votes in 12 key states indicates that the Negro vote can probably swing the election either for or against Eisenhower. This may explain why the general recently stated that he might appoint a qualified Negro to his cabinet.

The survey was made by experts in connection with the GOP advertising plan to use about $2,000,000 worth of radio and TV spots during the last three weeks of the campaign in 49 counties of 12 key states.

This was behind General Eisenhower's taking time to make half a hundred radio and TV "spots" in a New York film studio last week immediately after his breakfast with Senator Taft. The spots consisted of questions asked of Eisenhower and his replies, and these will be played back to the public during the wind-up of the campaign in mid-October. Big advertisers friendly to the Republicans are being asked to relinquish their time spots for this purpose.

The survey which led to these recordings is extremely significant. It shows that, in 12 key states, a change of 1 or 2 per cent of the vote could swing the election either Republican or Democratic.

The secret GOP survey follows:

Progressive Vote Important

"Every one of these states with the exception of Pennsylvania (R.) and Wisconsin (D.) finished in an extremely close fashion in 1948. In the case of 6 of these states, credited to the Dewey column, the shift resulting from no Progressive vote would throw the states back to the Democrats.

"The fact that these states are concentrated geographically as they are, helps implement this plan (of saturating the air-waves with TV and radio spots). Steps taken in one state will not be confined to the state itself, but will overlap.

"A look at each state shows:

"Connecticut — Three strong Democratic areas centered around New Haven, New London and Hartford. A shift of 2 per cent in the vote of these areas would insure Republican victory. With Senator McMahon's death, a strong Republican senatorial race will help, as will Governor Lodge's strength in the state.

"Maryland — Senator Tydings (D) got beaten here not so much because of Senator McCarthy's campaign, but because he lost the Negro wards in Baltimore (20 per cent of the city's vote). The same thing happened to Rep. Sasscer (D) this fall. Obviously the Negro vote is a big question here. Democratic strength is in Baltimore, across from Washington and in the Cumberland mining section.

"New Jersey—Went Republican in 1948 but not by an overwhelming margin. The Hudson county machine still functions, and, with the Taft-Driscoll split in the state, could cause trouble. The Negro vote is an important element here too. Democratic strength lies in Hudson county, Trenton, Camden and New Brunswick.

Slim N. Y. Margin

"New York — Went Republican by only 60,000 in 1948 while the Progressive vote was over 500,000. It is a truism in this state that, if the Republicans leave the city limits with more than a 200,000 handicap, they are in trouble. The Republicans must get every possible vote in Queens and Richmond, fight to take away independent votes in Manhattan and Bronx. In addition, they must buck the O'Connell machine in Albany, and Democratic strength in Utica, Rochester and Buffalo. The Negro and Jewish votes are vital, but FEPC endorsement alone is not the answer.

"Pennsylvania — Went Republican but not by a substantial margin in 1948. With the success of the Democrats in putting in Dilworth and Clark in Philadelphia, plus the decline of the Grundy machine, they are in for a fight this time. Democratic strength is in Scranton, Philadelphia and the Pittburgh area.

"Ohio—Taft was successful in cutting into the labor vote in Cuyahoga (Cleveland) and Mahonig (Youngstown) counties in 1950. The Republicans must duplicate the feat again in '52 to win the state. They are helped by the fact that Charlie Taft may lick Lausche for governor, even though he was only endorsed by the Taft machine on the last day of the primary race, while Mike Di Salle is a weak candidate against John Bricker. Again the Negro vote in Cuyahoga is critical. A change in 3,600 votes in 1948 would have put the state in the Republican column.

"Indiana—Went Republican by a bare margin in 1948, and again a rising Negro vote is extremely important, as is the farm vote all over the state. The Gary labor vote is uncertain, probably will be more heavily Democratic this year as a result of the Truman withholding of Taft-Hartley in the steel strike.

"Michigan—Another state that the return of the Progressive vote could put in the Democratic column. Depression in the Detroit auto industry as well as a tight gubernatorial and senatorial race won't make the picture any easier. A very, very important Negro vote in Detroit, which Williams and Moody have of course catered to. Democratic strength is here, in Bay City and Flint, as well as Grand Rapids.

California Doubtful

"Illinois—Here is one of the toughest for the Republicans to take. Stevenson's home state, which went barely Democratic in '48 must be taken. The concentration of Democratic strength is in Chicago, Decatur and East St. Louis. The key to taking the state is Chicago's Negro vote as well as getting as much of the downstate farm vote as possible.

"Wisconsin—Here is one many analysts figure belongs to the Republicans on the basis of 1940 and 1944 returns. Not so, since these votes were an expression of Wisconsin's pro-German, anti-British feeling. When this tapered off in 1948, the vote (including Progressive) was over 53 per cent Democratic. It is purely and simply a question of slugging it out on the various issues in the city of Milwaukee as well as in Greenbay and Madison.

"Iowa—This is the one that hurt, a farm state that went Democratic by 1 per cent. Democratic strength is all over the state, not bunched, can be found in nine major areas. Only a campaign assuring farmers of their over-all economic future as well as specific farm policies will take this state.

"California — Governor Warren has stated this will be a tough fight and he's right. Despite Warren's personal popularity in the state, it has steadily gone Democratic for the past six elections. Nixon doesn't seem too much stronger a candidate. California was barely Democratic in 1948 but there was a 5 per cent Progressive vote to contend with. Thus, unless heavy scrapping is done in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Alameda county and San Diego, the state will go to the Democrats. Here is one state where FEPC makes a strong appeal in certain sections and brings violent reaction in others. San Francisco, for example. Therefore, concentration of appeals is necessary in each local area.

"Thus, in these key 12 states, there are 49 strongly Democratic areas. If, by using the elements outlined in Section 1 of this plan, these votes can be shifted from 1 to 5 per cent, the states and a November victory will end up in Eisenhower's hands."

Eisenhower's Speech to AFL Fails to Deal Adequately With Taft-Hartley Act

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 18—General Eisenhower's speech to the American Federation of Labor will not satisfy either labor or management. It failed to deal comprehensively with the problem of governmental intervention in labor disputes and the regulation of collective-bargaining practices.

It seems unfortunate that, with all the talent and advice available to the general, he should attempt to compress in a single paragraph the principles of the Taft-Hartley Act that he thinks should be continued and fail also to specify the main things that ought to be eliminated.

If the general had stopped to think about it—or if his advisers had given the matter any thought—they might have consulted the record of the United States Senate, which on June 30, 1949, endeavored to rewrite the Taft-Hartley Act by means of 28 different amendments. Those amendments were approved by a vote of 51 to 42 in what was known as the Taft-Ives bill.

General Eisenhower said in his speech:

"Here are some of the principles I think it is important we continue in law: The encouragement of collective bargaining; the right to strike; an advance notice before a strike is called; a requirement that both unions and employers live up to their contracts; the assurance that members of unions get a regular report on their organization's finances."

But are these really the only important principles in the present Taft-Hartley Act? The most important of all was not mentioned by the general. It is the provision which protects every worker from being interfered with in any way in his right to join or not to join a union. This clause in the law has often been referred to as emancipating the worker from the tyranny of the strong-arm organizers of unions or from union bosses who threaten to take his job from him if he disagrees with the union officers.

The Republican presidential nominee didn't say a word about the "closed shop" which is banned by the Taft-Hartley Act. That's the provision which says that in free America nobody should have to become a union member to get a job. The Republican national platform denounces the "closed shop" and certainly General Eisenhower should have repeated that declaration, for it is a vital factor in American industrial life. Nor did the general mention the freedom of speech assured to employers and unions under Taft-Hartley as contrasted with free speech for unions only under the Wagner Act.

The general says: "I know the law might be used to break unions That must be changed. America wants no law licensing union-busting. Neither do I."

What General Eisenhower didn't know is that this is the favorite jargon of the labor union and simply isn't true. The Taft-Hartley Act hasn't busted any labor unions. The membership has grown and the number of unions has not been appreciably changed since the law was passed. Nor has collective bargaining been weakened—if by collective bargaining it meant fair dealing and good-faith negotiation, instead of collective bludgeoning.

Whoever sold the general the idea that there is anything in the Taft-Hartley Act that licenses "union-busting" did him a disservice.

The requirement that union officers take the non-Communist oath and that employers take it, too, was to have been changed by the Taft-Ives bill if it had passed the House of Representatives. As a matter of fact, General Eisenhower would have performed a great service if he had told the American people the facts about the defeat of the Taft-Ives bill in the house. A majority adopted it by a close vote but the administration deliberately swung its support in favor of reconsideration and recommitment to committee, which meant that the bill was killed. The labor-union bosses thought they could have a better political issue for 1952 if they kept crying out for "repeal."

The use of the words "repeal" or "amendment" is confusing. There is no chance that the Taft-Hartley Act will be wiped out altogether—that is, "repealed." Governor Stevenson says he favors "rewriting" the law. He calls this "repeal." The public isn't interested in such quibbles. General Eisenhower, like Governor Stevenson, has failed to specify which principles will be supported and which ones will be rejected out of the present Taft-Hartley Act.

The Republican nominee is in a neutral or impartial position as between the interests of employers and unions while the Democratic nominee has swallowed the CIO viewpoint hook, line and sinker.

General Eisenhower, referring to the 1926 Railway Labor Act—which was the first federal law to recognize collective bargaining—rightly pointed out that this and the Norris-La Guardia anti-injunction law were passed under a Republican administration and by a Republican controlled Congress. He might have gone further and pointed out that, in upholding the right to collective bargaining granted by the Wagner Labor Relations Act, the Supreme Court of the United States relied primarily on the Railway Labor Act of 1926 as a precedent for the use of federal power in that manner.

The general referred dramatically to the legislative proposal of President Truman in 1946 to draft railroad workers into the army when they struck. It was a telling point. But the general forgot to say it was Senator Taft who led that fight to keep the American worker from being regimented into uniform as a strikebreaker.

It was, on the whole, a good speech as far as it went but it didn't go far enough to suit disinterested persons who know the labor-management law of the land and its big advantages to the party of the third part—the public.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Senator Joe McCarthy's enormous victory in Wisconsin, the most powerful smash in our modern political history, and Senator Taft's strong statement in support of General Eisenhower and the terms thereof, have made a great change in the campaign.

Governor Stevenson, meanwhile, has settled into his imitation of a night-club monologist and this has widened the gap, too. By a series of political accidents, the nation is the richer by one wit and, to Stevenson's further credit, be it noted that he probably invents his own gags. He may become known as Uncle Miltie Stevenson, and that is not a mean compliment for Milton Berle is as nimble and sharp at repartee as any we have developed in the new age and phase of entertainment which throws the actor into a small patch of light with only an outline of script and largely on his own instantaneous resources.

To be sure, most of them repeat their more successful sallies but Berle also improvises with amazing agility and charm and Stevenson can rely on bookings in the Copa and the grand circuit of Miami, New Orleans, Hollywood, Las Vegas and Saratoga after November. His remark that this was the first campaign in which the opposition was trying to throw th rascals in was worth swiping and no doubt will be heard from professional drolls ere these reflections make print.

However, flippancy, even in the late Roosevelt's clumsy and sissified references to Henry the Morgue and Tommy the Cork, is not a substantial political asset by itself. It is tolerable for contrast or change of pace but Stevenson seems to be single-gaited. Though he will amuse the citizens they are no more likely to vote for him than for Joe E. Lewis.

McCarthy, with a popular vote far in excess of all five of his Republican primary opponents and all the Democrats, together, far outscored Roosevelt's victory over Landon in 1936. Roosevelt's count was a little under 7 to 4 whereas McCarthy beat his principal Republican opponent alone by almost 2½ to 1 and the Democrats who crossed over to vote in the Republican primary voted for Joe, not against him. The issue here was communism in government, complicated by a few variations on the same theme such as the standing that General George Marshall is to have in permanent history.

This was the first time that a senatorial primary became a national issue with millions of citizens in other states waiting for the returns late into the night. Joe's real opposition came from the city of New York, although Marshall Field, of Chicago, the little man who wasn't there, sent $500 to try to defeat him, and others, similarly sensitive on the subject of communism and treason, showered down from afar. However, Joe also got hundreds of small contributions from New York and at least two big ones.

There is no proposition now of McCarthy's hopping on Eisenhower's bandwagon. If Ike knows how to read election returns he will grab the tail-step of McCarthy's wagon and there have been indications that he will at least get on board even though he shrinks back from the driver's seat.

Eisenhower has no right to make a major issue of the professional and political competence of a partisan Democratic general in a Republican campaign. The Republican voters have no mission to vindicate George Marshall and Ike's personal devotion to him, election, will return to the Republican fold.

Campaign Outlook

Except in the Roosevelt landslides of 1932 and 1936, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas have been solidly Republican for 32 years or more.

Wisconsin, Democratic four years ago, is rated such a political puzzle that no pronounced slant either toward Stevenson or Eisenhower is apparent at this time.

Four Are Doubtful

That leaves Minnesota, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio on the doubtful list.

The political almanacs of the editors indicate all four are leaning Republican, but by exceedingly slight edges in Minnesota and Michigan.

Going Republican would represent a political about-face for Minnesota and Ohio, which turned up in the Democratic column four years ago. For Ohio, it actually wouldn't be much of a change, since the Buckeye state favored Truman by a mere 7,000 votes out of nearly three million cast.

Heard Elsewhere

The reasons underlying what midwestern newsmen regard as evidence of a trend-of-the-moment toward the GOP largely are those heard in other regions. They say people are talking about: (1) A clean up and a clean out in Washington, (2) time for a change, (3) high taxes, (4) inflation, and (5) Eisenhower's personal popularity.

But in the midwest, the editors say it still is too early to tell what will happen in many states in November because of such factors as:

1. A wariness, in traditionally isolationist areas, of Eisenhower's military background. Editors mention that especially in North Dakota, Nebraska and Wisconsin.
2. Wide disagreement as to where the farm vote will wind up eventually, in states like North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Missouri.
3. Continued resentment at spots in Nebraska, Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin that Eisenhower, rather than Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, won the Republican presidential nomination. Editors who said they found this resentment had made their surveys before the Eisenhower-Taft harmony meeting in New York last week.

Collective Opinion

When the midwest results are added to those of surveys for five Middle Atlantic states, 11 mountain and western states, and 14 southern and border states, the collective opinion of newsmen is this:

1. Thirteen states with 145 electoral votes seem fairly sure to go to Eisenhower and 10 with 130 more votes are leaning his way to one degree or another. If the GOP nominee gets them all, he will have 275 electoral votes—nine more than the 266 necessary to win—and won't need any from New England.
2. Eleven states with 121 votes appear safe for Stevenson and three with 49 votes seem to be edging toward him. If the Democratic candidate gathers in all of them, his total will be 170 electoral votes—96 shy of what he will need.

Bases of Surveys

Surveys in all the states were based on such things as straw ballots, personal and telephone contacts with voters, voting history, and the familiarity of editors and correspondents with political trends on their home grounds.

Associated Press member newspapers and radio stations took part, along with other newspapers and local correspondents. A majority of the cooperating newspapers support Eisenhower's candidacy.

This is what the current survey indicates in the midwest:

ILLINOIS (27 electoral votes): If the election were run off at this time, the combined opinion of Illinois correspondents and editors is that Stevenson would carry his home state.

Some "time for a change" feeling is evident, editors say, but so is a spirit of bitterness in some areas over Taft's failure to be tapped for the GOP nomination.

KANSAS (8 electoral votes): It looks like Eisenhower, 3 to 2, in the general's home state, as Kansas editors estimate prospects now.

That would be a better showing than GOP nominee Thomas E. Dewey made in 1948, and the reasons listed by Kansas newsmen include home state pride and Eisenhower's personal popularity.

As for the farm vote, the editors say it probably will be divided about as normal.

Missouri to Be Tight

MISSOURI (13 electoral votes): President Truman's native state, Missouri newpapermen believe, would be safely Democratic again if the vote were taken now. But they say Eisenhower should make a tighter race of it than Dewey did four years ago.

On the basis of combined estimates for all 114 counties and the city of St. Louis, Missouri editors think Stevenson would win by about 110,000, whereas Truman piled up a 262,000 vote margin over Dewey.

OHIO (25 electoral votes): Editors in the Buckeye State believe that Ohio, Democratic by an eyelash in 1948, is doubtful at this point but tilting toward Eisenhower. This, they say, is due chiefly to the likelihood six counties Truman captured by narrow margins four years ago are ready to back Eisenhower.

Michigan for GOP

MICHIGAN (20 electoral votes): The composite view of Michigan editors is that the GOP probably would make about the same showing as in 1948 if the election were held immediately. Dewey took the state by 35,000 votes cut of more than two million cast four years ago.

Editors and political writers in Detroit, with a third of the state's population, hold the opinion at the moment that Eisenhower's personal popularity has made a bit of headway against the big Democratic majority Truman rolled up in 1948.

WISCONSIN (12 electoral votes): Estimates of 75 editors covering all 71 Wisconsin counties boil down to a collective belief that the state would be a toss-up if the people had to vote right now.

One editor says farm leaders report people are dissatisfied with present policies while another says Democratic power in his territory is based on the farm vote. But there seems to be agreement among newsmen that Stevenson will pocket the labor vote that usually helps turn in large, vital Democratic majorities in a number of key counties.

Estimates from some newsmen who figure Eisenhower has an advantage included observations that the general's refusal to repudiate controversial Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy isn't helping the GOP cause and, conversely, that McCarthy's popularity will give Eisenhower a boost among the voters.

IOWA (10 electoral votes): Iowa editors were certain, on the whole, that the state would have leaped back under the Republican banner if the election had taken place in late August. Surveys then, in 69 counties, showed 54 favored Eisenhower, 12 Stevenson, three doubtful.

Has Minnesota Edge

MINNESOTA (11 electoral votes: The composite opinion of Minnesota newsmen is that the state looks now like a stand-off, but with Eisenhower having a slight edge.

Minnesota was Democratic in 1948. But 44 editors said they expect their counties, Democratic in 1948, to turn Republican this time and only three look for a shift from Republican to Democratic.

Indiana Edges to GOP

INDIANA (13 electoral votes): Indiana newsmen believe the state would be no shoo-in for the GOP if the election were run off today. But they say Hoosier voters are showing an inclination to vote the GOP ticket to an extent that should give Eisenhower a more substantial margin than Dewey had four years ago. Dewey took Indiana by only 13,000 votes.

NORTH DAKOTA (4 electoral votes): In this Republican bastion, editors believe that in an election tomorrow Eisenhower would win handily.

Leaders of the Farmers' Union are considered generally on the side of Stevenson but the extent to which they may persuade farmers to vote Democratic is an unknown quantity.

SOUTH DAKOTA (4 electoral votes): Agricultural South Dakota, say editors, would have gone Republican by a comfortable margin had the election been moved up two months.

Eight newspapers covered all 68 counties in a survey and some of the editors say the picture could change a bit by November.

NEBRASKA (6 electoral votes): Nebraska and reporters estimate that in 51 representative counties out of 93, Eisenhower would run to an easy victory if the election were held now. Yet the surveyors said they found considerable indecision among voters.

One correspondent estimated that "most Democrats also want a change." But another said there is "strong anti-Ike feeling among business men and conservative Republicans."

Zorin Takes Mansion

Mineola, Sept. 18 (AP) — A 38-room mansion built at a cost of a million dollars for a former governor of New York will be the home of Valerian Zorin, newly named chief Sovief delegate to the United Nations. The Long Island estate at upper Brookville was bought by the Soviet government for $80,000, according to the deed recorded in the Nassau county clerk's office, it was revealed yesterday. The two-story red brick Georgian-type mansion once was owned by Nathan L. Miller, who was New York governor from 1921 to 1923.

Campaign Outlook

election, will return to the Republican fold.

Except in the Roosevelt landslides of 1932 and 1936, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas have been solidly Republican for 32 years or more.

Wisconsin, Democratic four years ago, is rated such a political puzzle that no pronounced slant either toward Stevenson or Eisenhower is apparent at this time.

Four Are Doubtful

That leaves Minnesota, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio on the doubtful list.

The political almanacs of the editors indicate all four are leaning Republican, but by exceedingly slight edges in Minnesota and Michigan.

Going Republican would represent a political about-face for Minnesota and Ohio, which turned up in the Democratic column four years ago. For Ohio, it actually wouldn't be much of a change, since the Buckeye state favored Truman by a mere 7,000 votes out of nearly three million cast.

Heard Elsewhere

The reasons underlying what midwestern newsmen regard as evidence of a trend-of-the-moment toward the GOP largely are those heard in other regions. They say people are talking about: (1) A clean up and a clean out in Washington, (2) time for a change, (3) high taxes, (4) inflation, and (5) Eisenhower's personal popularity.

But in the midwest, the editors say it still is too early to tell what will happen in many states in November because of such factors as:

1. A wariness, in traditionally isolationist areas, of Eisenhower's military background. Editors mention that especially in North Dakota, Nebraska and Wisconsin.

2. Wide disagreement as to where the farm vote will wind up eventually, in states like North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Missouri.

3. Continued resentment at spots in Nebraska, Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin that Eisenhower, rather than Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, won the Republican presidential nomination. Editors who said they found this resentment had made their surveys before the Eisenhower-Taft harmony meeting in New York last week.

Collective Opinion

When the midwest results are added to those of surveys for five Middle Atlantic states, 11 mountain and western states, and 14 southern and border states, the collective opinion of newsmen is this:

1. Thirteen states with 145 electoral votes seem fairly sure to go to Eisenhower and 10 with 130 more votes are leaning his way to one degree or another. If the GOP nominee gets them all, he will have 275 electoral votes—nine more than the 266 necessary to win—and won't need any from New England.

2. Eleven states with 121 votes appear safe for Stevenson and three with 49 votes seem to be edging toward him. If the Democratic candidate gathers in all of them, his total will be 170 electoral votes—96 shy of what he will need.

Bases of Surveys

Surveys in all the states were based on such things as straw ballots, personal and telephone contacts with voters, voting history, and the familiarity of editors and correspondents with political trends on their home grounds.

Associated Press member newspapers and radio stations took part, along with other newspapers and local correspondents. A majority of the cooperating newspapers support Eisenhower's candidacy.

This is what the current survey indicates in the midwest:

ILLINOIS (27 electoral votes): If the election were run off at this time, the combined opinion of Illinois correspondents and editors is that Stevenson would carry his home state.

Some "time for a change" feeling is evident, editors say, but so is a spirit of bitterness in some areas over Taft's failure to be tapped for the GOP nomination.

KANSAS (8 electoral votes): It looks like Eisenhower, 3 to 2, in the general's home state, as Kansas editors estimate prospects now.

That would be a better showing than GOP nominee Thomas E. Dewey made in 1948, and the reasons listed by Kansas newsmen include home state pride and Eisenhower's personal popularity.

As for the farm vote, the editors say it probably will be divided about as normal.

Missouri to Be Tight

MISSOURI (13 electoral votes): President Truman's native state, Missouri newpapermen believe, would be safely Democratic again if the vote were taken now. But they say Eisenhower should make a tighter race of it than Dewey did four years ago.

On the basis of combined estimes for all 114 counties and the city of St. Louis, Missouri editors think Stevenson would win by about 110,000, whereas Truman piled up a 262,000 vote margin over Dewey.

OHIO (25 electoral votes): Editors in the Buckeye State believe that Ohio, Democratic by an eyelash in 1948, is doubtful at this point but tilting toward Eisenhower. This, they say, is due chiefly to the likelihood six counties Truman captured by narrow margins four years ago are ready to back Eisenhower.

Michigan for GOP

MICHIGAN (20 electoral votes): The composite view of Michigan editors is that the GOP probably would make about the same showing as in 1948 if the election were held immediately. Dewey took the state by 35,000 votes out of more than two million cast four years ago.

Editors and political writers in Detroit, with a third of the state's population, hold the opinion at the moment that Eisenhower's personal popularity has made a bit of headway against the big Democratic majority Truman rolled up in 1948.

WISCONSIN (12 electoral votes): Estimates of 75 editors covering all 71 Wisconsin counties boil down to a collective belief that the state would be a toss-up if the people had to vote right now.

One editor says farm leaders report people are dissatisfied with present policies while another says Democratic power in his territory is based on the farm vote. But there seems to be agreement among newsmen that Stevenson will pocket the labor vote that usually helps turn in large, vital Democratic majorities in a number of key counties.

Estimates from some newsmen who figure Eisenhower has an advantage included observations that the general's refusal to repudiate controversial Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy isn't helping the GOP cause and, conversely, that McCarthy's popularity will give Eisenhower a boost among the voters.

IOWA (10 electoral votes): Iowa editors were certain, on the whole, that the state would have leaped back under the Republican banner if the election had taken place in late August. Surveys then, in 69 counties, showed 54 favored Eisenhower, 12 Stevenson, three doubtful.

Has Minnesota Edge

MINNESOTA (11 electoral votes: The composite opinion of Minnesota newsmen is that the state looks now like a stand-off, but with Eisenhower having a slight edge.

Minnesota was Democratic in 1948. But 44 editors said they expect their counties, Democratic in 1948, to turn Republican this time and only three look for a shift from Republican to Democratic.

Indiana Edges to GOP

INDIANA (13 electoral votes): Indiana newsmen believe the state would be no shoo-in for the GOP if the election were run off today. But they say Hoosier voters are showing an inclination to vote the GOP ticket to an extent that should give Eisenhower a more substantial margin than Dewey had four years ago. Dewey took Indiana by only 13,000 votes.

NORTH DAKOTA (4 electoral votes): In this Republican bastion, editors believe that in an election tomorrow Eisenhower would win handily.

Leaders of the Farmers' Union are considered generally on the side of Stevenson but the extent to which they may persuade farmers to vote Democratic is an unknown quantity.

SOUTH DAKOTA (4 electoral votes): Agricultural South Dakota, say editors, would have gone Republican by a comfortable margin had the election been moved up two months.

Eight newspapers covered all 68 counties in a survey and some of the editors say the picture could change a bit by November.

NEBRASKA (6 electoral votes): Nebraska and reporters estimate that in 51 representative counties out of 93, Eisenhower would run to an easy victory if the election were held now. Yet the surveyors said they found considerable indecision among voters.

One correspondent estimated that "most Democrats also want a change." But another said there is "strong anti-Ike feeling among business men and conservative Republicans."

Zorin Takes Mansion

Mineola, Sept. 18 (AP) — A 38-room mansion built at a cost of a million dollars for a former governor of New York will be the home of Valerian Zorin, newly named chief Sovief delegate to the United Nations. The Long Island estate at upper Brookville was bought by the Soviet government for $80,000, according to the deed recorded in the Nassau county clerk's office, it was revealed yesterday. The two-story red brick Georgian-type mansion once was owned by Nathan L. Miller, who was New York governor from 1921 to 1923.

Prices are so much higher than they were two, three or five years ago, Aunt Sally Peters says she's ashamed of her complaints at those times. Such prices would be bargains today. She's now reached the point where she may try to trade in her old sewing machine for a few pork chops.

Investor Forum

by Harry C. France

Millions of Americans like our inflationary prosperity. That is a stubborn truth that political prognosticators should keep in mind when assaying the November elections.

Both of the presidential candidates have made promises to the farmers of the country. If a slump in agricultural prices should start, the government, through the United States Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation will take in by loan or purchase, whatever surpluses threaten price levels.

Few people in our country have any conception of how deeply engrossed Uncle Sam is in farm prosperity. Through the agency noted above, he can and will support the prices of corn, cotton, peanuts, wool, barley, beans, eggs, butter, cheese, rice, tobacco, wheat, oats, cottonseed oil, honey, flaxseed, rosin, turpentine, sorghum and rye—to mention only 20 of the things that farmers produce.

What if Uncle Sam does lose in his farm marketing operations? The taxpayers are everywhere available to make up whatever is lost. And the United States is in such economic condition as to make imperative agricultural prosperity. A collapse of farm prices—like that of the depression thirties—would result in industrial collapse. So the political fortunes of both General Eisenhower and Governor Stevenson ride somewhat on how the farmers vote.

Inflationary prosperity is embraced by the farmers of America. Any candidate for political office who would wish otherwise would get few farm votes.

The two great labor organizations, CIO and AFL also embrace inflationary prosperity. Why shouldn't they? Steel workers have had 13 wage increases in 15 years; steel wages have gone up 200% within 2 decades!

Political candidates who realize that inflationary prosperity is a dangerous thing must, nevertheless be coy in talking about how high wages keep inflation going. It is a tough situation in which a sincere politician finds himself.

Now, take the farmers and their families and the workers and their people and one has a very large segment of voters to cater to. Just try to persuade farmers to accept lower prices for their produce and workers to take lower pay and see what a storm, political and economic, will blow up.

But regardless of this generally bad situation, I think it is wrong for most investors to get tied up to it. There is an unsound foundation, in my judgment, to our inflationary prosperity. Everybody who is somewhat observing can see that most prices are high—too high for an enduring prosperity.

And the political angle to our price level is treacherous. Can the government continue indefinitely to pay out taxpayers' money to make good the losses suffered in supporting farm prices? And how long can union leaders browbeat the government, by threat of strike, into forcing wages higher and higher.

Inflation should give pause to investors everywhere. A lot of our prosperity is unsoundly based. Prices are high because wages and costs and taxes are high. During 1951, General Motors, General Electric, American Telephone and Telegraph, DuPont and United States Steel paid over $2,600,000,000 in taxes! That will give some indication of why prices are high.

I think it is time for many investors despite present inflationary trends to take on some good grade railroad and industrial bonds. Anybody owning inflationary priced common stocks that are up 100% and 200% ought to take some profits, pay some capital gains taxes, and buy some sure-interest paying bonds. And with good grade preferred stocks paying twice what Uncle Sam's obligations do, some such equities also should be bought.

Truman to Tour State by Train

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—President Truman's whistle-stop tour in New York in behalf of Democratic candidate Adlai E. Stevenson will take him through the heart of the Empire State in a two-day, 12-speech trip.

Details of the President's New York visit Oct. 9-10 were announced today by Peter Crotty, campaign director of the Democratic State Committee.

Truman's schedule calls for speeches and appearances from the rear platform of his special train in key cities from Buffalo to New York.

Crotty said all of Truman's speeches will be rear platform talks except for his appearance at Buffalo, where he is scheduled for a major address at a rally. Stops will include Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Schenectady and Albany.

Aid Pest Campaign

Leopoldville, Belgian Congo (AP)—A new pestkilling campaign is underway here to eradicate flies and mosquitoes. Day after day two helicopters are sweeping over the roofs to the town spraying the streets with powerful insecticides. The native population has been asked to open all windows and doors to allow the poisonous fumes to enter every corner of every house.

Investor Forum

by Harry C. France

Millions of Americans like our inflationary prosperity. That is a stubborn truth that political prognosticators should keep in mind when assaying the November elections.

Both of the presidential candidates have made promises to the farmers of the country. If a slump in agricultural prices should start, the government, through the United States Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation will take in by loan or purchase, whatever surpluses threaten price levels.

Few people in our country have any conception of how deeply engrossed Uncle Sam is in farm prosperity. Through the agency noted above, he can and will support the prices of corn, cotton, peanuts, wool, barley, beans, eggs, butter, cheese, rice, tobacco, wheat, oats, cottonseed oil, honey, flaxseed, rosin, turpentine, sorghum and rye—to mention only 20 of the things that farmers produce.

What if Uncle Sam does lose in his farm marketing operations? The taxpayers are everywhere available to make up whatever is lost. And the United States is in such economic condition as to make imperative agricultural prosperity. A collapse of farm prices—like that of the depression thirties—would result in industrial collapse. So the political fortunes of both General Eisenhower and Governor Stevenson ride somewhat on how the farmers vote.

Inflationary prosperity is embraced by the farmers of America. Any candidate for political office who would wish otherwise would get few farm votes.

The two great labor organizations, CIO and AFL also embrace inflationary prosperity. Why shouldn't they? Steel workers have had 13 wage increases in 15 years; steel wages have gone up 200% within 2 decades!

Political candidates who realize that inflationary prosperity is a dangerous thing must, nevertheless be coy in talking about how high wages keep inflation going. It is a tough situation in which a sincere politician finds himself.

Now, take the farmers and their families and the workers and their people and one has a very large segment of voters to cater to. Just try to persuade farmers to accept lower prices for their produce and workers to take lower pay and see what a storm, political and economic, will blow up.

But regardless of this generally bad situation, I think it is wrong for most investors to get tied up to it. There is an unsound foundation, in my judgment, to our inflationary prosperity. Everybody who is somewhat observing can see that most prices are high—too high for an enduring prosperity.

And the political angle to our price level is treacherous. Can the government continue indefinitely to pay out taxpayers' money to make good the losses suffered in supporting farm prices? And how long can union leaders browbeat the government, by threat of strike, into forcing wages higher and higher.

Inflation should give pause to investors everywhere. A lot of our prosperity is unsoundly based. Prices are high because wages and costs and taxes are high. During 1951, General Motors, General Electric, American Telephone and Telegraph, DuPont and United States Steel paid over $2,600,000,000 in taxes! That will give some indication of why prices are high.

I think it is time for many investors despite present inflationary trends to take on some good grade railroad and industrial bonds. Anybody owning inflationary priced common stocks that are up 100% and 200% ought to take some profits, pay some capital gains taxes, and buy some sure-interest paying bonds. And with good grade preferred stocks paying twice what Uncle Sam's obligations do, some such equities also should be bought.

Truman to Tour State by Train

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—President Truman's whistle-stop tour in New York in behalf of Democratic candidate Adlai E. Stevenson will take him through the heart of the Empire State in a two-day, 12-speech trip.

Details of the President's New York visit Oct. 9-10 were announced today by Peter Crotty, campaign director of the Democratic State Committee.

Truman's schedule calls for speeches and appearances from the rear platform of his special train in key cities from Buffalo to New York.

Crotty said all of Truman's speeches will be rear platform talks except for his appearance at Buffalo, where he is scheduled for a major address at a rally. Stops will include Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Schenectady and Albany.

Aid Pest Campaign

Leopoldville, Belgian Congo (AP)—A new pestkilling campaign is underway here to eradicate flies and mosquitoes. Day after day two helicopters are sweeping over the roofs to the town spraying the streets with powerful insecticides. The native population has been asked to open all windows and doors to allow the poisonous fumes to enter every corner of every house.

Natalie Williams Is Highland Speaker At GOP Meeting

At a meeting of the Town of Lloyd Republican Club held Wednesday evening at the new town hall, Highland, "ladies night" was observed with such success that a committee was named to draw up proposed by-laws for the club contemplating the inclusion of both women and men in the organization. There were about 100 in attendance and the speaker was Natalia Couch Williams, journal clerk of the New York State Assembly.

The speaker thanked the voters for sending Senator A. H. Wicks and Assemblyman John F. Wadlin to the state legislature, stating they served well not only the people of Ulster county but the people of the entire state. Speaking of General Eisenhower, Republican candidate for president, Mrs. Williams referred to several intimate contacts which her neighbors have had with the general. These contacts showed him to be a man of strong character and tender feelings. She pointed out that on eight occasions when we have had a military man as president of the United States we have never become involved in war.

The ability of General Eisenhower as an administrator and executive, the speaker said, had been clearly demonstrated by his action while head of NATO.

During the evening three local candidates were introduced and spoke briefly. They were Howard C. St. John, Republican candidate for district attorney; Assemblyman John F. Wadlin and Horace Boice, candidate for county treasurer.

Frank Marx, grandson of vice president Frank Marx of the club, entertained during the evening with several accordion solos and there was group singing. Ice cream, cake and soda was served prior to adjournment.

County Veteran in U. S.

Cpl. Anthony J. Billesimo, of Cedar Cliff, Box Z41 RR 1, Marlborough, arrived Wednesday in San Francisco, Calif., from the Far East aboard the Transport Gen. W. F. Hase, the Associated Press said today.

State Unit Says Inmates Helped by Outside Work

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—The State Mental Hygiene Department said today the use of institution patients for occasional maintenance work within institution grounds was "one of the most effective methods" of treating inmates.

"Enforced idleness leads to mental deterioration," a spokesman said.

AFL workers have walked off several state highway and building construction projects in the Hudson river valley.

Bertram D. Tallamy, state public works superintendent, said Tuesday the unions objected to the state using its own maintenance crews on some road-resurfacing projects and to patients at state institutions working on roads within institution grounds as part of an occupational therapy program.

Denies Road Building

The director of the Hudson River State Hospital near Poughkeepsie, Dr. O. Arnold Kilpatrick, has denied that patients engaged in road building. But, he said, some of them handle outside tasks.

A spokesman for the Mental Health Department said certain patients did "all types of work—whatever they're fitted to do—as part of a program of occupational therapy." Such work is done only within institution grounds, she added.

She said it was not customary to assign inmates to do any sort of work on roads that could be considered maintenance. She said an inmate might do some "tidying up," such as sweeping or raking driveways.

On Casual Basis

Commissioner Edward J. Donovan of the State Correction Department said some inmates at correctional institutions did maintenance work "more or less on a casual basis" but he added that "very little of it is going on."

Donovan said he did not have "the slightest idea" why AFL Constructions Workers walked off a building job at Matteawan State Hospital at Beacon earlier this week.

He said any work given to inmates consisted of "a little incidental painting" or possibly a little maintenance, maybe filling a hole in a road."

Both the Mental Hygiene and Correction Departments said they had received no complaints about such activities from the AFL groups involved in the current work stoppage.

The Social Welfare Department said none of the residents at its institutions did any maintenance work. A spokesman noted they were mostly children or elderly people.

Lamp Contest Is Slated October 1 For High School

The third annual lamp building competition for high school students will get underway October 1, in 35 area schools, it was announced today by William P. Darrow, special commercial representative of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation. The contest will be open until next March and judging for the district-wide grand awards will be conducted the week of May 26.

There will be three classes of entries in the competition this year, according to Darrow. They include high schools equipped with a metal or woodworking shop supervised by an industrial arts instructor, high schools that do not have industrial arts classes, and home economic students in three of the larger high schools who will undertake lamp conversion projects.

To be eligible for the competition, students are requested to construct lamps in accordance with the specifications furnished by the utility company, but design and originality of the lamps are of the students' own planning. In last year's competition, Charles Rex of Kingston High School took top honors with his original hand carved walnut lamp design, judged the best of more than 1,700 entries.

Lamps which win first, second and third place in each of the schools will be displayed in the Central Hudson district office window. These lamps will be judged by local faculty members. The judges for the grand awards will be lighting specialists selected by Central Hudson.

Lamp kits and bulbs have been supplied by the utility company to each participant, and lamps will be judged on the basis of conformity to specifications, apparent lighting efficiency, appearance, practicability, originality and craftsmanship.

Joan Harris, 20, Convicted Today

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Joan Harris, 20-year-old brunette from St. Louis, Mo., was convicted today of maintaining a house of prostitution in New York from last May 14 to July 4.

Miss Harris showed no emotion as the decision was rendered in Special Sessions Court. Oct. 1 was set for sentencing. Maximum penalty is three years in jail.

A charge of maintaining a public nuisance at the New York address—434 Lafayette street—was dismissed.

The slight young woman wore a blue gingham dress and blue rubber-soled summer shoes when she appeared in court.

Five witnesses, whose names and addresses were not revealed by court order, testified that on various occasions between the dates listed they had intercourse with Miss Harris and paid her $20 each time.

A sixth witness, Lynn Reynolds, who said her true name was Joan Schnurr and that her home was in Toronto, also testified that she had lived at the Lafayette street apartment and engaged in prostitution there.

The bench was composed of Justices Doris I. Byrne, Matthew J. Troy and Edward F. Breslin.

200 Stay Behind To Clear Up Wake

Honolulu, Sept. 18 (AP)—Some 200 essential workers, housed in tents, stayed on stricken Wake Island today to clean up after one of the worst storms in Pacific history.

A military air transport plane left for Honolulu last night carrying the last group of more than 500 evacuees.

Winds of more than 160-mile-an-hour velocity Tuesday flattened nearly every building on the tiny U. S. coral atoll 2,300 miles west of Hawaii.

Only four persons were reported hurt, but unofficial damage estimates ran to 10 million dollars.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter reported from Wake that "only two women are left—a nurse and a doctor's wife, who are needed to give injections and bandage cuts and bruises."

Carter said it probably would be three or four months before Wake is fully restored as an important stop on the Korean airlift and on commercial trans-Pacific routes.

Most workers who remained had only the clothes they were wearing during the storm.

Thomas Challenges Taft on Progress

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Socialist Norman Thomas today challenged Sen. Robert A. Taft to prove his statement that the basic campaign issue is "liberty against socialism."

Thomas said in a telegram to Taft, "I deny that there is a conflict between socialism and liberty." Taft made the assertion last night in a speech at Springfield, Ohio.

Thomas suggested Taft meet him in public debate on the issue.

"I should be willing to certify Gov. Stevenson (of Illinois, the Democratic presidential nominee) as a non-Socialist," continued Thomas who frequently has been his party's presidential nominee.

"If he is a Socialist, so in almost the same degree are Eisenhower (Gen. Dwight D., the Republican nominee) and the Republican platform of 1952. Both accept "social gains" of the last 20 years, all of which were regarded as socialistic in 1928 and 1932 when I was running for president."

Burmese Hit Chinese

Rangoon, Burma, Sept. 18 (AP)—The war office announced today that Burmese troops have launched operations against Nationalist Chinese irregulars along the highway 40 miles west of Kengtung, capital of the Kentung state, which borders Red China's Yunnan province. The Nationalist troops were driven out of Yunnan by the victorious Reds and took refuge in Burma.

Flies to Bridgeport

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 18 (AP)—Governor Adlai Stevenson flew into Bridgeport today to begin a one-day campaign tour taking him through a number of Connecticut towns. A crowd of about 500, including all of Connecticut's Democratic leaders and top candidates, cheered when the presidential nominee's plane landed at 10:55 a. m. (EST).

About the Folks

William E. Rose of Hollywood, Fla., a former resident of this city, is convalescing at his summer home on Dunneman avenue, following a recent operation at the Benedictine Hospital.

'Indian Girl' Is White Runaway

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 18 (AP)—The girl who posed—successfully for awhile—as an Albino Iroquois Indian spent last night locked up in the county's juvenile ward.

"This," Yvonne Marie Hanks insisted, "is just like home."

Home turned out to be Fitchburg, Mass., and not the wilds of Alaska, assorted Canadian provinces nor an island in the St. Regis river between the United States and Canada.

Tarrant county juvenile authorities were holding the 16-year-old girl while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Hanks, were en route here by plane. She left home Sept. 7.

And she said she would leave again if they forced her to return—just like she had twice before.

Posed as Indian

She had posed as an Indian girl, name of Kim or Rising Cloud or Yalamulankasitdahamutsa, since Friday when she was found in the woods near here.

But the name Yvonne Hanks had been found in her undergarments and her story fell apart when Fitchburg authorities and her parents wired the sheriff's office here.

"When I've got a straight face," she told Assistant County Probation Officer Elise Reed, "I'm lying like a rug."

She said she ran away from home because her saloon-keeper parents made her wait on tables. "How would you like to spend most of your time in a bar with a bunch of drunks?" she asked.

But in Fitchburg, an older sister, Claire, said Yvonne was not asked to wait on tables. "Mother asked her to help in the restaurant kitchen peeling potatoes," said Claire.

Jury Rules Youth Killed Girl, Self

Las Vegas, Nev., Sept. 18 (AP)—A coroner's jury decided that 19-year-old Adrian L. Grodnick shot his sweetheart and himself to death but the question "why" remained unanswered.

Grodnick and his lover, Betty Baron, 25, of Los Angeles, were found dead Monday in a $35-a-day penthouse suite at the swank Flamingo Hotel. She wore a wedding ring but police found no record of an elopment marriage.

Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Bell theorized in inquest testimony that Grodnick was distraught about his impending induction into the army and necessity of leaving his bride.

"He was obviously nervous—his fingernails were chewed to the quick," Bell said.

But Sheriff's Capt. L. L. Payton advanced another theory to reporters.

"I think the kid had been putting on a good show, and lost his nerve when it came time to declare himself," Payton said.

Payton also said information is that Grodnick's family is in modest circumstances.

Grodnick's father is Manuel Grodnick, Brooklyn, N. Y. Miss Baron was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Baron.

Asks Repair

The alderman also asked for repair of a condition which caused running water on McEntee street, and this, it was revealed, was already under investigation.

Referred to Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent, were resolutions by Alderman William Parmalee, 13th Ward, asking repair of conditions causing running water on Chapel street, and flood conditions on South Wall street. Also referred to Steuding was a Parmalee resolution asking for the repair of a guard rail on Abeel street near the railroad bridge.

A resolution by Alderman Thomas Coughlin, seventh ward, asking the repair of streets in his ward, was referred to Steuding, as was one requesting repair of several 12th ward streets by Alderman Robert Cullum. A Cullum resolution asking for a light on Irving Place was referred to the light committee and another by him asking for street signs in the Hurley avenue, Coffey Place and Howland avenue sections, was referred to Steuding.

The board was informed by the Municipal Civil Service Commission in reference to the proposed promotions of Harry Sweeney, Louis M. Straley and Donald C. Snyder, of the engineering department, that the candidates are required to make out a new type form listing duties, qualifiications and other information. The forms were submitted and were to be forwarded to the three department employes.

Referred to Counsel

A letter from Jennie R. Hildebrandt, of 155 Clinton avenue, complaining of a sidewalk display sign, and the parking of large trucks and a wrecker by the City Garage, 154 Clinton avenue, was referred to the corporation counsel. The complaint was forwarded from the zoning board which indicated it had no authority to act on the complaint.

A request from the Forst Packing Co. Inc., for permission to place portable signs, reading "Loading for Customers," in front of the plant, was referred to the Common Council for action by its traffic committee.

The board was notified that the temporary appointments of Douglas A. Buddenhagen, 9 Jefferson Place; John Netter, 111 Andrew street, and Robert James Cullum, 75 Derrenbacher street, as engineers, grade 1, had terminated.

On recommendation of City Engineer Hallinan, the board voted to pay the following contractors for work done: V. J. Costanzi, $6,796.60, for the Broadway and Levan street sewer; James Barardi, $83.62, the two per cent retained for the Browning Terrace, sewer work, and $38.93, as the two per cent retained on the Ponckhockie street sewer job; the same contractor, $10,360.41 for work on the Washington avenue and Elizabeth street sewer project, and also $7,020.96, for work on the expansion of sewer facilities in the Cornell and Grand street areas; C. W. Lauman Co., 50 Church street, New York, $2,957.44 for shaft work on the Washington avenue-Elizabeth street sewer project.

Catholics Are Counted

Vatican City, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith reported today there are 15,001,000 Roman Catholics among the 200,174,000 inhabitants of Africa.

Clinton Avenue Has Sewer Break

Completion of the sewer line break on Greenkill avenue was followed by other sewer trouble on Clinton avenue, Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent said today.

Steuding said the sewer is now open on Greenkill avenue where the trouble was caused by a break and obstruction between Clinton and Wilbur avenues, but a manhole is to be constructed in the area of the break.

Meanwhile, a section of Clinton avenue between Cedar and Henry streets, has caved in, and an examination today indicated that an extensive repair project will be required there, although it is not at present considered as serious a problem as that on Greenkill avenue.

Natalie Williams Is Highland Speaker At GOP Meeting

At a meeting of the Town of Lloyd Republican Club held Wednesday evening at the new town hall, Highland, "ladies night" was observed with such success that a committee was named to draw up proposed by-laws for the club contemplating the inclusion of both women and men in the organization. There were about 100 in attendance and the speaker was Natalia Couch Williams, journal clerk of the New York State Assembly.

The speaker thanked the voters for sending Senator A. H. Wicks and Assemblyman John F. Wadlin to the state legislature, stating they served well not only the people of Ulster county but the people of the entire state. Speaking of General Eisenhower, Republican candidate for president, Mrs. Williams referred to several intimate contacts which her neighbors have had with the general. These contacts showed him to be a man of strong character and tender feelings. She pointed out that on eight occasions when we have had a military man as president of the United States we have never become involved in war.

The ability of General Eisenhower as an administrator and executive, the speaker said, had been clearly demonstrated by his action while head of NATO.

During the evening three local candidates were introduced and spoke briefly. They were Howard C. St. John, Republican candidate for district attorney; Assemblyman John F. Wadlin and Horace Boice, candidate for county treasurer.

Frank Marx, grandson of vice president Frank Marx of the club, entertained during the evening with several accordion solos and there was group singing. Ice cream, cake and soda was served prior to adjournment.

County Veteran in U. S.

Cpl. Anthony J. Billesimo, of Cedar Cliff, Box Z41 RR 1, Marlborough, arrived Wednesday in San Francisco, Calif., from the Far East aboard the Transport Gen. W. F. Hase, the Associated Press said today.

State Unit Says Inmates Helped by Outside Work

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—The State Mental Hygiene Department said today the use of institution patients for occasional maintenance work within institution grounds was "one of the most effective methods" of treating inmates.

"Enforced idleness leads to mental deterioration," a spokesman said.

AFL workers have walked off several state highway and building construction projects in the Hudson river valley.

Bertram D. Tallamy, state public works superintendent, said Tuesday the unions objected to the state using its own maintenance crews on some road-resurfacing projects and to patients at state institutions working on roads within institution grounds as part of an occupational therapy program.

Denies Road Building

The director of the Hudson River State Hospital near Poughkeepsie, Dr. O. Arnold Kilpatrick, has denied that patients engaged in road building. But, he said, some of them handle outside tasks.

A spokesman for the Mental Health Department said certain patients did "all types of work—whatever they're fitted to do—as part of a program of occupational therapy." Such work is done only within institution grounds, she added.

She said it was not customary to assign inmates to do any sort of work on roads that could be considered maintenance. She said an inmate might do some "tidying up," such as sweeping or raking driveways.

On Casual Basis

Commissioner Edward J. Donovan of the State Correction Department said some inmates at correctional institutions did maintenance work "more or less on a casual basis" but he added that "very little of it is going on."

Donovan said he did not have "the slightest idea" why AFL Constructions Workers walked off a building job at Matteawan State Hospital at Beacon earlier this week.

He said any work given to inmates consisted of "a little incidental painting" or possibly a little maintenance, maybe filling a hole in a road."

Both the Mental Hygiene and Correction Departments said they had received no complaints about such activities from the AFL groups involved in the current work stoppage.

The Social Welfare Department said none of the residents at its institutions did any maintenance work. A spokesman noted they were mostly children or elderly people.

Lamp Contest Is Slated October 1 For High School

The third annual lamp building competition for high school students will get underway October 1, in 35 area schools, it was announced today by William P. Darrow, special commercial representative of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation. The contest will be open until next March and judging for the district-wide grand awards will be conducted the week of May 26.

There will be three classes of entries in the competition this year, according to Darrow. They include high schools equipped with a metal or woodworking shop supervised by an industrial arts instructor, high schools that do not have industrial arts classes, and home economic students in three of the larger high schools who will undertake lamp conversion projects.

To be eligible for the competition, students are requested to construct lamps in accordance with the specifications furnished by the utility company, but design and originality of the lamps are of the students' own planning. In last year's competition, Charles Rex of Kingston High School took top honors with his original hand carved walnut lamp design, judged the best of more than 1,700 entries.

Lamps which win first, second and third place in each of the schools will be displayed in the Central Hudson district office window. These lamps will be judged by local faculty members. The judges for the grand awards will be lighting specialists selected by Central Hudson.

Lamp kits and bulbs have been supplied by the utility company to each participant, and lamps will be judged on the basis of conformity to specifications, apparent lighting efficiency, appearance, practicability, originality and craftsmanship.

Joan Harris, 20, Convicted Today

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Joan Harris, 20-year-old brunette from St. Louis, Mo., was convicted today of maintaining a house of prostitution in New York from last May 14 to July 4.

Miss Harris showed no emotion as the decision was rendered in Special Sessions Court. Oct. 1 was set for sentencing. Maximum penalty is three years in jail.

A charge of maintaining a public nuisance at the New York address—434 Lafayette street—was dismissed.

The slight young woman wore a blue gingham dress and blue rubber-soled summer shoes when she appeared in court.

Five witnesses, whose names and addresses were not revealed by court order, testified that on various occasions between the dates listed they had intercourse with Miss Harris and paid her $20 each time.

A sixth witness, Lynn Reynolds, who said her true name was Joan Schnurr and that her home was in Toronto, also testified that she had lived at the Lafayette street apartment and engaged in prostitution there.

The bench was composed of Justices Doris I. Byrne, Matthew J. Troy and Edward F. Breslin.

200 Stay Behind To Clear Up Wake

Honolulu, Sept. 18 (AP)—Some 200 essential workers, housed in tents, stayed on stricken Wake Island today to clean up after one of the worst storms in Pacific history.

A military air transport plane left for Honolulu last night carrying the last group of more than 500 evacuees.

Winds of more than 160-mile-an-hour velocity Tuesday flattened nearly every building on the tiny U. S. coral atoll 2,300 miles west of Hawaii.

Only four persons were reported hurt, but unofficial damage estimates ran to 10 million dollars.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter reported from Wake that "only two women are left—a nurse and a doctor's wife, who are needed to give injections and bandage cuts and bruises."

Carter said it probably would be three or four months before Wake is fully restored as an important stop on the Korean airlift and on commercial trans-Pacific routes.

Most workers who remained had only the clothes they were wearing during the storm.

ThomasChallenges Taft on Progress

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Socialist Norman Thomas today challenged Sen. Robert A. Taft to prove his statement that the basic campaign issue is "liberty against socialism."

Thomas said in a telegram to Taft, "I deny that there is a conflict between socialism and liberty." Taft made the assertion last night in a speech at Springfield, Ohio.

Thomas suggested Taft meet him in public debate on the issue.

"I should be willing to certify Gov. Stevenson (of Illinois, the Democratic presidential nominee) as a non-Socialist," continued Thomas who frequently has been his party's presidential nominee.

"If he is a Socialist, so in almost the same degree are Eisenhower (Gen. Dwight D., the Republican nominee) and the Republican platform of 1952. Both accept "social gains" of the last 20 years, all of which were regarded as socialistic in 1928 and 1932 when I was running for president."

Burmese Hit Chinese

Rangoon, Burma, Sept. 18 (AP)—The war office announced today that Burmese troops have launched operations against Nationalist Chinese irregulars along the highway 40 miles west of Kengtung, capital of the Kentung state, which borders Red China's Yunnan province. The Nationalist troops were driven out of Yunnan by the victorious Reds and took refuge in Burma.

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 18 (AP)—The girl who posed—successfully for awhile—as an Albino Iroquois Indian spent last night locked up in the county's juvenile ward.

"This," Yvonne Marie Hanks insisted, "is just like home."

Home turned out to be Fitchburg, Mass., and not the wilds of Alaska, assorted Canadian provinces nor an island in the St. Regis river between the United States and Canada.

Tarrant county juvenile authorities were holding the 16-year-old girl while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Hanks, were en route here by plane. She left home Sept. 7.

And she said she would leave again if they forced her to return—just like she had twice before.

Posed as Indian

She had posed as an Indian girl, name of Kim or Rising Cloud or Yalamulankasitdahamutsa, since Friday when she was found in the woods near here.

But the name Yvonne Hanks had been found in her undergarments and her story fell apart when Fitchburg authorities and her parents wired the sheriff's office here.

"When I've got a straight face," she told Assistant County Probation Officer Elise Reed, "I'm lying like a rug."

She said she ran away from home because her saloon-keeper parents made her wait on tables. "How would you like to spend most of your time in a bar with a bunch of drunks?" she asked.

But in Fitchburg, an older sister, Claire, said Yvonne was not asked to wait on tables. "Mother asked her to help in the restaurant kitchen peeling potatoes," said Claire.

Jury Rules Youth Killed Girl, Self

Las Vegas, Nev., Sept. 18 (AP)—A coroner's jury decided that 19-year-old Adrian L. Grodnick shot his sweetheart and himself to death but the question "why" remained unanswered.

Grodnick and his lover, Betty Baron, 25, of Los Angeles, were found dead Monday in a $35-a-day penthouse suite at the swank Flamingo Hotel. She wore a wedding ring but police found no record of an elopment marriage.

Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Bell theorized in inquest testimony that Grodnick was distraught about his impending induction into the army and necessity of leaving his bride.

"He was obviously nervous—his fingernails were chewed to the quick," Bell said.

But Sheriff's Capt. L. L. Payton advanced another theory to reporters.

"I think the kid had been putting on a good show, and lost his nerve when it came time to declare himself," Payton said.

Payton also said information is that Grodnick's family is in modest circumstances.

Grodnick's father is Manuel Grodnick, Brooklyn, N. Y. Miss Baron was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Baron.

Asks Repair

The alderman also asked for repair of a condition which caused running water on McEntee street, and this, it was revealed, was already under investigation.

Referred to Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent, were resolutions by Alderman William Parmalee, 13th Ward, asking repair of conditions causing running water on Chapel street, and flood conditions on South Wall street. Also referred to Steuding was a Parmalee resolution asking for the repair of a guard rail on Abeel street near the railroad bridge.

A resolution by Alderman Thomas Coughlin, seventh ward, asking the repair of streets in his ward, was referred to Steuding, as was one requesting repair of several 12th ward streets by Alderman Robert Cullum. A Cullum resolution asking for a light on Irving Place was referred to the light committee and another by him asking for street signs in the Hurley avenue, Coffey Place and Howland avenue sections, was referred to Steuding.

The board was informed by the Municipal Civil Service Commission in reference to the proposed promotions of Harry Sweeney, Louis M. Straley and Donald C. Snyder, of the engineering department, that the candidates are required to make out a new type form listing duties, qualifiications and other information. The forms were submitted and were to be forwarded to the three department employes.

Referred to Counsel

A letter from Jennie R. Hildebrandt, of 155 Clinton avenue, complaining of a sidewalk display sign, and the parking of large trucks and a wrecker by the City Garage, 154 Clinton avenue, was referred to the corporation counsel. The complaint was forwarded from the zoning board which indicated it had no authority to act on the complaint.

A request from the Forst Packing Co. Inc., for permission to place portable signs, reading "Loading for Customers," in front of the plant, was referred to the Common Council for action by its traffic committee.

The board was notified that the temporary appointments of Douglas A. Buddenhagen, 9 Jefferson Place; John Netter, 111 Andrew street, and Robert James Cullum, 75 Derrenbacher street, as engineers, grade 1, had terminated.

On recommendation of City Engineer Hallinan, the board voted to pay the following contractors for work done: V. J. Costanzi, $6,796.60, for the Broadway and Levan street sewer; James Barardi, $83.62, the two per cent retained for the Browning Terrace, sewer work, and $38.93, as the two per cent retained on the Ponckhockie street sewer job; the same contractor, $10,360.41 for work on the Washington avenue and Elizabeth street sewer project, and also $7,020.96, for work on the expansion of sewer facilities in the Cornell and Grand street areas; C. W. Lauman Co., 50 Church street, New York, $2,957.44 for shaft work on the Washington avenue-Elizabeth street sewer project.

Catholics Are Counted

Vatican City, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith reported today there are 15,001,000 Roman Catholics among the 200,174,000 inhabitants of Africa.

Clinton Avenue Has Sewer Break

Completion of the sewer line break on Greenkill avenue was followed by other sewer trouble on Clinton avenue, Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent said today.

Steuding said the sewer is now open on Greenkill avenue where the trouble was caused by a break and obstruction between Clinton and Wilbur avenues, but a manhole is to be constructed in the area of the break.

Meanwhile, a section of Clinton avenue between Cedar and Henry streets, has caved in, and an examination today indicated that an extensive repair project will be required there, although it is not at present considered as serious a problem as that on Greenkill avenue.

...it of British Frigate to City Memorable Occasion for Many

Harry Rigby, Jr., public relations director for Kingston's 300th Anniversary observance, submits the following observations on the four-day visit here of the British Frigate H. M. S. Burghead Bay in celebration of Kingston's Tercentenary:

At 9 a. m. Monday the H.M.S. Burghead Bay slipped her moorings at the Newcombe Dock and headed upriver after almost four memorable days in Kingston. Memorable from the standpoint of Kingston citizens—but if we are to believe the ship's officers and crew, even more so from their standpoint. Lt. Commander O'Sullivan ordered the ship's siren to sound three dots and a dash, the familiar "V for Victory" signal. He intended it to stand for a friendly salute to Kingston, for, he said, "Kingston had won the battle!"

Alderman-at-Large Joe Kelly was at dockside with a bundle of Freemans carrying an account of the ship's arrival and with a farewell on behalf of Kingston's citizens. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bogert and Harry Rigby, Jr., were aboard to make the trip to Albany as guests of Captain Eivers.

Most of the ship's officers, nine out of her complement of ten, had never stepped foot on America's soil prior to Thursday's arrival. This was also true of most of the ship's company. All were uniformly enthusiastic and appreciative of American hospitality as they had sampled it in Kingston. The officers had been entertained almost constantly at private parties throughout their stay. Captain Eivers, however, said that the greatest test of the success of their stay was measured in the very hospitable treatment of the enlisted men. In addition to complimentary admittance to the Walter Reade Theatres, and "open house" at the Moose, Elks, VFW and American Legion clubhouses, every individual citizen seemed to delegate himself a one-man welcoming committee.

The coxswain said, "My men weren't able to walk half a block in Kingston without someone picking them up in an automobile! When some of them insisted they liked to walk, Americans seemed to think they were crazy."

Many crew members insisted thay had eaten in Kingston restaurants and that the proprietors had refused to accept payment for the meals.

Kingston folks seemed to adopt the British seamen in every bar and tavern in Kingston. During the trip upriver, the men received their semi-monthly pay. One little seaman, while in pay line observed that he had a wonderful time every one of the nights ashore. When it was commented that this could be an expensive pastime in America, he retorted, "Lord bless me! Kingston people wouldn't let me spend more than a dollar and a half during the whole four nights!"

It was interesting to note that the seamen received from two pounds (about $5.60) to five pounds ($14.00) apiece as their half-monthly pay. While they are not nearly as highly paid as American naval personnel, this in most cases represented the amount they elected to receive after family allotments and savings were deducted. They received two-thirds of their pay in American dollars and the balance in British currency.

When it was discovered that most of the men had never eaten sweet corn, Larry Bogert arranged for 600 ears to be sent aboard as a gift. Amos Newcombe also made the crew a gift of four bushels of Ulster county apples, a welcome addition to sea diet.

The British Consulate had arranged a bus charter for a trip to the Franklin D. Roosevelt home and library at Hyde Park for the crew members. Local people went along to describe the countryside and the mansion at Hyde Park. Joe Kelly also arranged a party on the beach at Kingston Point for another portion of the crew. Hot dogs, corn and an assortment of beverages, made a typical American picnic out of it. One big burly Lancashire stoker wandered around with a bottle of Coco-Cola in his first, inquiring for a 'can-spanner,' Finally, someone deducted he wanted a bottle opener—and his thirst was satisfied.

Individual families in town took crew members for trips through the Greene county mountain area, into the reservoir country, and to the Belleayre ski-lift, on Sunday.

The ship's company was particularly gratified at the large number of visitors aboard on Sunday afternoon. Traffic was jammed and many people had to park along North street and on Delaware avenue above the Point area. Visiting hours had to be extended beyond the stated 5 p. m. closing hour.

Commander O'Sullivan visited School Superintendent Arthur J. Laidlaw and High School Principal John Henry Martin on Friday morning to invite visits by school classes accompanied by a teacher at any time prior to the Sunday visiting hours. While at the school, the Commander visited a dozen classrooms in session. He was particularly impressed by the course of study offered and facilities in the new Vocational School.

So many of the crew commented upon the fact that our Hudson Valley reminded them so much of the English countryside, but on a larger scale. It made them homesick, as they have spent the last 13 months in the islands of the Caribbean. As a sidelight, the men have spent all that time in a uniform of sandals, no socks, shorts, and no shirt. Off the American coast, Captain Eivers ordered a change into winter 'blues,' for the sake of formality. Kingston's 90 degree, plus, weather through Sunday made them vastly uncomfortable. So they changed back into shorts Sunday—just in time to catch the drastic overnight change in temperature!

From Kingston, the Burghead Bay went to Albany until Saturday. From there, they go to Portland, Maine, then to Gloucester, Massachusetts, and will then go back to Bermuda, their Caribbean base, and finally home to England for the first time in almost 14 months. The ship's officers have promised a rousing salute to Kingston as they pass this city on their way down-river about 11:30 Saturday morning.

Kingston's 300th Anniversary Committee arranged this visit over a year ago, as a mutual tribute to our common interest in the infant British colonial city of Kingston from 1664 to 1776. It turned out instead to be an interesting and successful experiment in international relations. Undoubtedly, Kingstonians and members of the crew of the Burghead Bay will forever more have a great deal more respect and affection for each other's countries. That the ship's officers were aware of this was demonstrated by an amusing bit of doggerel Commander O'Sullivan had appended to the general orders posted Thursday on the ship's bulletin board:

'Thought for Today'

"A trip at last to U.S.A.
Remember WORK as well as play;
You'll be looked after well on shore,
We've met our Yankee Friends before.*

So please behave and dig right in, in,
Strangling Grippo's is no sin;
Folks will lay things on for you,
So show them just what you can do.

*At Guantanamo Bay, the American naval base in Cuba.

"Strangling Grippo's" — accepting hospitality.

It was noted by a speaker at the dinner at Twaalfskill on Thursday night that just about 175 years ago, another British naval unit had veered shorewards with men with fixed bayonets on her decks, bent upon the burning of the city. That another such unit, this time with men drawn up in ceremonial array with fixed bayonets too, should be welcomed as friends, speaks well for the fact that the two nations are strongly allied by a common heritage of language, laws, customs, and a mutual determination to secure to the world freedom and democracy.

Random observations, mostly amusing, included the fact that the Britishers were amazed to see peaches and grapes growing in our orchards and vineyards. It appears that they can only be grown in hothouses in England, due to lack of sufficient sunshine to ripen them. The ships officers, even informally, addressed Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk as "Your Worship," the proper title for an English mayor. Inquiry about the magnificently bushy blonde beard on Leading Seaman Daniells disclosed that a British seaman may elect to shave or not to shave. However, if he elects not to shave, he may not touch a razor to any part of his face, and then at the end of three months, he must present himself to the Captain's inspection. If he has been successful in growing a respectable beard, he may keep it—but if it is scraggly, he must take it off. Men who had served in our navy were amazed to note that every man aboard a British ship must be able to hold down any job. As an example, every seaman must know how to blow the bo'sun's pipes—while we have bo'sun's mates who do only that. For that reason, the term of enlistment on Her Majesty's ship is for 12 years—and the officers claim a man must serve at least seven years before he is fully trained to accomplish all his duties. The title "Lieutenant" is pronounced "Leftenant"—and there were two brand new ones aboard. Midshipmen T. G. Quinn and A. R. Robinson had received their commissions while en route to Kingston.

28 Hurt, Two Dead In Truck, Bus Crash

Somerset, Pa., Sept. 18 (AP)—Collision of a Greyhound bus and a big tractor-trailer truck today on the Pennsylvania Turnpike killed two women and injured at least 28 other persons.

The two lumbering vehicles, both east-bound, collided in predawn fog about six miles east of the Donegal Interchange. The two dead victims were not immediately identified.

State police said the women were occupying the front seat on the right hand side of the bus. The impact of the collision crumpled that side of the bus. One of the women was found dead in the bus; the other died in Frick Memorial Hospital in Mount Pleasant an hour after the crash.

Six seriously injured passengers were taken to the same hospital. Twenty-two less seriously hurt victims were taken to a Somerset hospital. Sixteen of those were released after treatment.

Seven Japanese Arrested

Tokyo, Sept. 18 (AP)—Seven Japanese were arrested in Osaka on charges of counterfeiting $70,000 worth of U. S. military certificates, Kyodo News Agency reported today.

The old slate blackboard is obsolete and should be replaced in the schoolroom by a green chalk board for easier seeing, according to the American Optometric Association.

Tumor Clinic Is

Visits Clinic Weekly

Dr. C. N. Breed of Memorial Hospital, New York, visits the clinic each Wednesday and stays for the entire day. During the day he sees every patient referred for consultation by local physicians. His findings are sent to each of the referring physicians, who remains in charge of the case.

Radiation treatments are not only for cancer but are also effective in many benign conditions, Dr. Grover said. He pointed out that patients were also referred to the clinic for X-ray and radium therapy.

"We only take patients sent by personal physicians," he stated.

Dr. Grover explained that the clinic was maintaining "as complete a record as possible" of all cases of malignancy "in an effort to build up a record of treatments and results in order to improve our treatments."

Says Release Needed

San Francisco, Sept. 18 (AP)—Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, says the United States must release part of its monopoly of non-military uses of atomic energy if peaceful uses are to be developed fully. Perhaps, Dean told the American Bar Association yesterday, the 1952 Congress "will have to decide whether to end the monopoly, and if so, how."

That another such unit, this time with men drawn up in ceremonial array with fixed bayonets too, should be welcomed as friends, speaks well for the fact that the two nations are strongly allied by a common heritage of language, laws, customs, and a mutual determination to secure to the world freedom and democracy.

Random observations, mostly amusing, included the fact that the Britishers were amazed to see peaches and grapes growing in our orchards and vineyards. It appears that they can only be grown in hothouses in England, due to lack of sufficient sunshine to ripen them. The ships officers, even informally, addressed Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk as "Your Worship," the proper title for an English mayor. Inquiry about the magnificently bushy blonde beard on Leading Seaman Daniells disclosed that a British seaman may elect to shave or not to shave. However, if he elects not to shave, he may not touch a razor to any part of his face, and then at the end of three months, he must present himself to the Captain's inspection. If he has been successful in growing a respectable beard, he may keep it—but if it is scraggly, he must take it off. Men who had served in our navy were amazed to note that every man aboard a British ship must be able to hold down any job. As an example, every seaman must know how to blow the bo'sun's pipes—while we have bo'sun's mates who do only that. For that reason, the term of enlistment on Her Majesty's ship is for 12 years—and the officers claim a man must serve at least seven years before he is fully trained to accomplish all his duties. The title "'Lieutenant" is pronounced "Leftenant"—and there were two brand new ones aboard Midshipmen T. G. Quinn and A. R. Robinson had received their commissions while en route to Kingston.

28 Hurt, Two Dead In Truck, Bus Crash

Somerset, Pa., Sept. 18 (AP)—Collision of a Greyhound bus and a big tractor-trailer truck today on the Pennsylvania Turnpike killed two women and injured at least 28 other persons.

The two lumbering vehicles, both east-bound, collided in predawn fog about six miles east of the Donegal Interchange. The two dead victims were not immediately identified.

State police said the women were occupying the front seat on the right hand side of the bus. The impact of the collision crumpled that side of the bus. One of the women was found dead in the bus; the other died in Frick Memorial Hospital in Mount Pleasant an hour after the crash.

Six seriously injured passengers were taken to the same hospital. Twenty-two less seriously hurt victims were taken to a Somerset hospital. Sixteen of those were released after treatment.

Seven Japanese Arrested

Tokyo, Sept. 18 (AP)—Seven Japanese were arrested in Osaka on charges of counterfeiting $70,000 worth of U. S. military certificates, Kyodo News Agency reported today.

Blackboard Is Obsolete

The old slate blackboard is obsolete and should be replaced in the schoolroom by a green chalk board for easier seeing, according to the American Optometric Association.

Tumor Clinic Is

Visits Clinic Weekly

Dr. C. N. Breed of Memorial Hospital, New York, visits the clinic each Wednesday and stays for the entire day. During the day he sees every patient referred for consultation by local physicians. His findings are sent to each of the referring physicians, who remains in charge of the case.

Radiation treatments are not only for cancer but are also effective in many benign conditions, Dr. Grover said. He pointed out that patients were also referred to the clinic for X-ray and radium thereapy.

"We only take patients sent by personal physicians," he stated.

Dr. Grover explained that the clinic was maintaining "as complete a record as possible" of all cases of malignancy "in an effort to build up a record of treatments and results in order to improve our treatments."

Says Release Needed

San Francisco, Sept. 18 (AP)—Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, says the United States must release part of its monopoly of non-military uses of atomic energy if peaceful uses are to be developed fully. Perhaps, Dean told the American Bar Association yesterday, the 1952 Congress "will have to decide whether to end the monopoly, and if so, how."

SHOKAN

Shokan, Sept. 17—Mr. and Mrs. Bert Weeks of Schenectady called on friends in the village center Sunday. Bert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weeks, resided here as a boy. He is a cousin of Berlin Weeks of Kingston.

Thomas Carpenter, who was here twice in the course of a 15-day furlough from an air force base near Biloxi, Miss., has returned to his station. Tommy though in the service less than a year, already has distinguished himself in the study of electronics. Also here for a brief visit with his parents was James Carpenter, Jr., a junior classman at RPI in Troy.

The school children of Olive and adjacent towns appear to be getting a big kick out of the new school buses, several of which are now being used to convey pupils to and from the big Onteora Central School at Boiceville. Harold Wilkins is operator of a bus, and Viva Davis drives a suburban car which brings children up to Winchell Corners from the south side of the reservoir.

Birthdays coming along soon include that of John Barringer, Sept. 19. John, one-time member of the Olive board of assessors, is an elder of the Krumville Church and has long been one of South Oliver's best known farmers.

Recent callers here included Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cruthers, Ridgewood, N. J., couple who have a summer home at Brodhead. Ray, together with his brother and sister and their parents, were summer boarders at the John Rainey farmhouse in years before the waterworks.

Members of the WSCS of the Ashokan Methodist Church have planned an old fashioned family style chicken supper for Wednesday evening, Oct. 1. The supper, at the church hall, will begin at 6 p. m.

Callers in the hub of the reservoir country Saturday included Leonore Brown who has an antique shop in the West Hurley-Woodstock area. Mrs. Brown is a near neighbor of Martin Retting, nationally known dealer in old firearms and former resident of Shokan.

Echo of Waterworks Days: Sept. 18, 1915—Charles G. Cooper, 81, Ulster County Bank janitor and court officer, recalls that during the tannery, bluestone and sawmill boom times, a man sitting at the corner of Washington and Hurley avenues, where Cooper was born, counted 1,100 teams passing by in one day. Higginsville, as the section up around the viaduct was known, was then the main business part of Kingston. Stores at their own expense provided feed and boxes for horses.

Ice in the Arctic Ocean slowly moves clockwise around the North Pole, pushed by prevailing winds and currents set up by the spin of the earth.

THEY'RE TOPS IN THE TAX PARADE—In the fiscal 1952, which ended June 30, Uncle Sam's Treasury collected a record-breaking $64,970,000,000 in taxes but still ran $4,000,000,000 deeper in the red because of mounting expenses. Newschart above shows the major tax sources, with poor old John Q. Citizen leading the parade. His income and employment taxes in fiscal 1952 were almost $7,000,000,000 higher than the $26,500,000,000 collected the year before.

APPEAL FOR FARM VOTES—Newschart above illustrates arguments both political parties will use in order to get the farm vote. The Democrats will tell the farmer "You never had it so good" and point to the farmers' high net income. The Republicans will argue that inflation has wiped out all gains and point to the fact that everything the farmer buys, such as farm machinery, is much more expensive than it used to be.

Success Secrets Sought

New York (AP) — A group to study the secrets of business success has been formed by the presidents of 24 corporations from various parts of the country. Known as the Committee to Encourage Enterprise, it will survey ways to encourage risk capital to give small corporations more support. John M. Fox, president of the Minute Maid Corp., is chairman. Fox said his group wants to combat the steady decline in formation of new corporations since 1946.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Retail prices of several fresh vegetables and fruits turned upward this week as their growing season draws toward a close and supplies dwindled.

Chiefly affected were snap beans, fresh corn, cucumbers, peaches, cantaloupes and honeydew and Persian melons. Still in the bargain class in most places, however, were beets, spinach, cabbage, onions and squash. And heavier receipts of cauliflower, eggplant and lettuce pushed their prices a little lower.

Pears and prunes were reported at the peak of their season for the nation as a whole and Agriculture Department Market reporters said these fruits were unlikely to get any cheaper this year. Grapes were a shade lower (except Thompson seedless which were about steady) and many stores marked down Valencia oranges and grapefruit slightly.

Otherwise, consumer food prices showed little overall change compared with last weekend.

Pork Is Steady

Pork steadied after declining in the two previous weeks. Supplies of beef were increasing and the price trend was expected to be downward from now through October, but only scattered reductions were noted so far.

Even the shopping "specials" planned for the next few days to attract customers appeared to represent narrower mark-downs than usual. Asked about this, the price-maker for the New York Division of a large food chain said:

"There haven't been enough real fluctuations in our wholesale costs lately to allow us to take advantage of temporary drops in choosing our advertised specials. The competition forces everybody in the supermarket business to operate on extremely close margins these days. If the wholesale cost of pork loins, for example, drops a couple of cents a pound, we have to match the new price at once—yet we can't always boost right away when the wholesale trend is higher, because our competitors don't. The situation makes it tough to choose 'specials' without sustaining losses."

Vegetable Oil Cost Up

He pointed out that the cost of vegetable oils had advanced recently, yet retail prices for salad dressings, cooking oils and margarine have not yet started to rise generally.

These were among the specials being advertised in various markets this week: Rib roasts, boneless chuck roasts, pork chops and loin ends, sirloin steaks, legs of lamb, small turkeys and fresh and frozen fish. And in the produce departments: Prunes, tokay grapes, pears, lettuce, lima beans, peppers and tomatoes.

Egg dealers reported that medium size eggs—generally a little lower this week—probably were the best buy in most markets this week. This is the time of year when most of the eggs come from flocks newly-reinforced with younger hens—hence the larger supply of medium sized eggs. Large eggs were up 2 to 4 cents a dozen in many stores.

Fish, Turkeys Cited

The Agricultural Department recommended fresh and frozen fish and turkeys as most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week.

It is noted that the turkey crop is expected to total nearly 59 million birds this year—up 13 per cent from last year. About 32 per cent more of the small, meatier Beltsville whites probably will be raised this year than last.

And incidentally, new crop cranberries are beginning to show up in some markets. Cranberry output probably won't be quite as large as last year's bumper production, but still 18 per cent over the 1941-50 average.

Boys are five times as likely as girls to inherit color-blindness, says the American Optometric Association.

Eight Killed in Wreck

Hamburg, Germany, Sept. 18 (AP)—A German commuter express train jumped the tracks today as it approached the main Hamburg railway station, killing at least eight persons and seriously injuring more than 30 others. Three hours after the accident, rescue crews still were combing the wreckage in which more victims were believed trapped. The cause of the accident was not immediately determined. The train was traveling at about 30 miles an hour when it left the tracks.

Slimmer Diet Ahead

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—Current production trends point to a slimmer diet of dairy products, eggs, poultry and pork next year. Beef may be the only livestock food that will hold its own with this year's supply. This general outlook is drawn from several recent Agriculture Department reports showing that the production of milk, chickens, and hogs is declining. These downturns were said to reflect the fact that rising costs are discouraging many producers.

Dies of Injuries

Cleveland, Sept. 18 (AP)—Andrew Pendleton, 30, an Elmont, N. Y., groom at Thistle Down race track, died last night of injuries received when he was struck by a truck while walking along a road near the track earlier in the day.

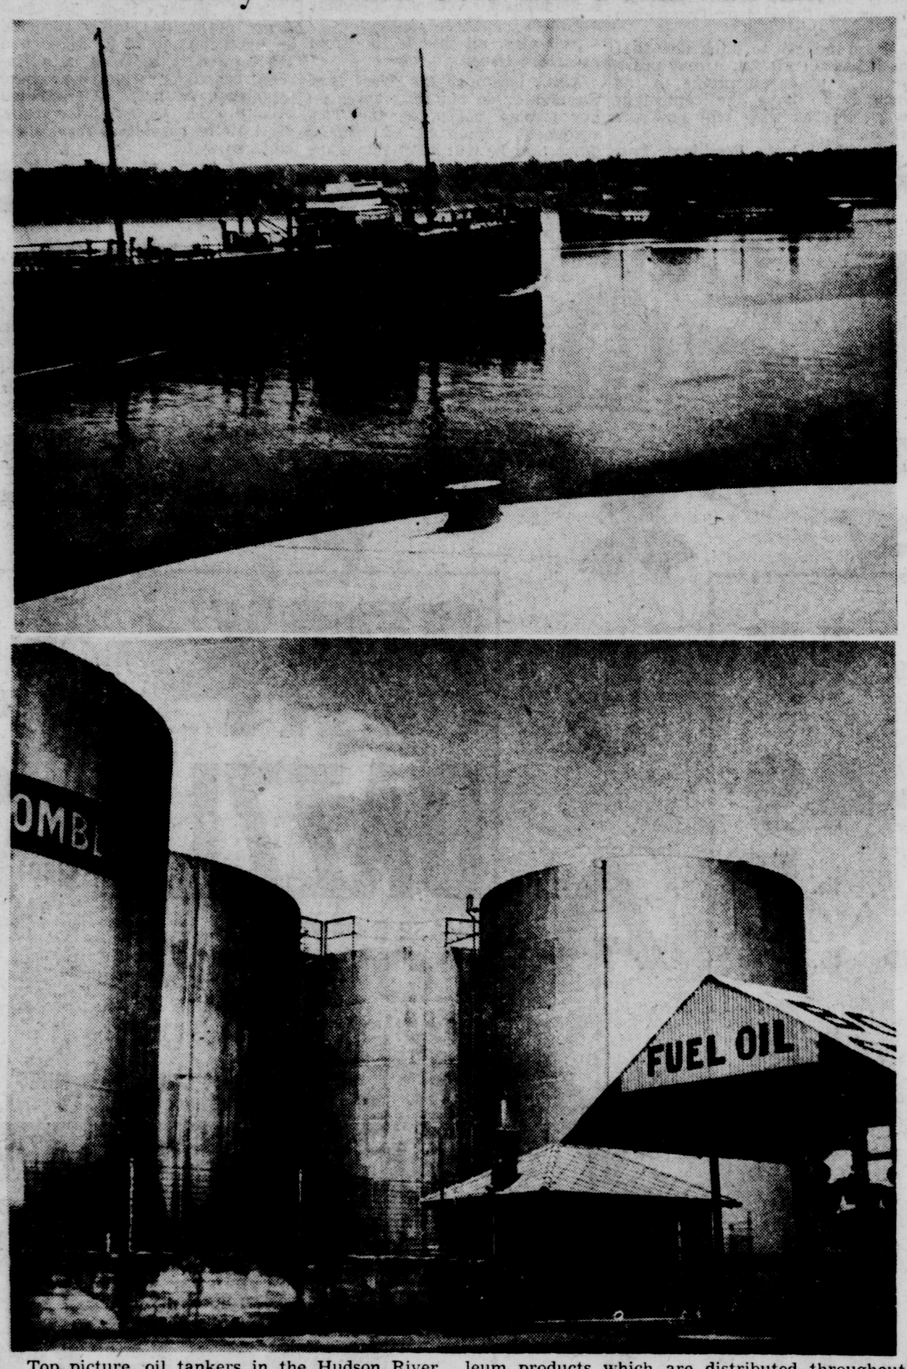
Newcombe Oil Business Founded 45 Years Ago Expanded Rapidly

Huge Enterprise Is Divided Into Two Corporations

The Story of 'Black Gold' and a Man's Dream



Top picture, oil tankers in the Hudson River near Kingston Point laden with "black gold" destined for the huge storage tanks of the Austin R. Newcombe and Co., Inc., shown in the bottom picture. Approximately 30 of these tankers dock at the Newcombe plant annually, supplying petroleum products which are distributed throughout this area. Twelve of these reservoirs with capacities ranging up to 550,000 gallons for a single tank, provide the Newcombe tank trucks with an ample supply of gasoline and oil for year-round distribution. (Freeman photos)

Forty-five years ago the late Austin R. Newcombe founded the A. R. Newcombe Oil Corp. with a drum of oil, a funnel and a piece of chamois.

Today the huge enterprise, divided into two corporations, between eight-and-a-half and nine million gallons of petroleum products annually. The two corporations are the Austin R. Newcombe Co., Inc., which operates a retail and wholesale business, and an affiliated company, the Newcombe Oil Burner Service Corp., which sells, installs and services heating equipment.

Amos R. Newcombe, son of the founder, who now guides the destinies of the company, explained yesterday that when his father first entered the business "gasoline was hot as pure as it is today and he had to strain it through a chamois." At that time Austin R. Newcombe was living at Windham about 45 miles north of Kingston, where his forebears had farmed since 1808.

Expansion Was Rapid

From this small beginning the company, which was incorporated in 1912 as the A. R. Newcombe Oil Corp., expanded rapidly. Today the bulk plant on Kingston Point has 13 storage tanks, ranging in capacity from 85,000 to 550,000 gallons, with a total capacity of almost 4,000,000 gallons.

Gasoline, kerosene, light and heavy fuel oil, brought in by barge is handled by the firm. Approximately 25 or 30 barges a year, each carrying about 300,000 gallons of oil, arrive at Kingston Point to replenish the Newcombe tanks.

The reason for such huge storage facilities, youthful Amos Newcombe points out, is that the river is frozen for three months during the winter "when fuel is most in demand," making it impossible for ocean-going tankers or barges to reach the dock.

The company, which employes 20 persons also has a warehouse in which is stored a complete line of motor oil, greases, tires, batteries, oil burning and heating equipment. It has a fleet of nine tank trucks and six service trucks. The affiliate corporation has the franchise for Timken oil burners.

Captain Andrew Newcombe, progenitor of the Newcombe family in this section, was born in England in 1618, married his second wife in Boston in 1663 and died in 1686. It was Austin R. Newcombe's great-grandfather, Abner Newcombe, seventh in line from Capt. Andrew Newcombe, who moved from Willington, Conn., to Windham in Greene county, in 1808.

Here Austin R. Newcombe was born in 1873, attending the Little Red Schoolhouse and, later, Eastman Business College in Poughkeepsie.

In the spring and summer he would help his father with the farm and boarding house but during the winter months when activities on the farm were quiet he would leave Windham with a horse and cutter to purchase furs and hides. He saw a lot of the countryside and observed the increasing importance of petroleum products such as kerosene and axle grease. It was about the turn of the century that gasoline began to be used to operate small motors.

Orders Whole Carload

In 1909 Newcombe ordered an entire carload of gasoline and oil drums. Other carloads followed this and in 1912 he built a 12,000 gallon storage tank near the railroad in Grand Gorge.

In 1920 Newcombe purchased land at Kingston Point, property that is now occupied by the Cities Service Oil Co., and in 1921-22 built a bulk storage plant to handle ocean-going tankers. At about the same time he erected the first drive-in gasoline service station in the city of Kingston. This station, located at Albany and Foxhall avenues, was also the first such station, with rest rooms and heated interiors between New York City and Albany on the west side of the river. A number of such stations were established in succeeding years throughout the mid-Hudson area.

In 1922 he began construction of an ocean-going terminal at Newburgh and in 1928 erected one at Rensselaer across the Hudson river from Albany. During World War 1 Newcombe had decided to sell under his own brand and petroleum products he handled were labeled with the trademark "Keystone." This emblem soon appeared at pumps throughout the Catskill Mountain area.

In 1930, due to ill health, Newcombe decided to sell his holdings to Cities Service Oil Co., a transaction which was a top story in the financial section of the nation's press.

Starts Again from "Scratch"

According to Amos Newcombe, his father was completely out of business for two years but "couldn't stay away from it. He started again from scratch." He established a bulk plant on Converse street on the old U and D railroad and built service stations throughout the area. In 1933 the new company was incorporated as the Austin R. Newcombe Co., Inc., local distributor for Atlantic Refining Co., and a new ocean-going terminal was erected at Kingston Point just opposite the location of his first plant, now the property of Cities Service.

In 1936 another deep-water storage was built in Newburgh on property formerly owned by Abendroth and Root Manufacturing Company. During this time bulk plants for a wholesale business were being erected in a number of widely located communities.

When Newcombe, who was chairman of the board of directors of the National Ulster County Bank, president of the Wiltwyck Golf Club, a director of the Kingston Cooperative Savings and Loan Association and active in many civic enterprises, died in 1937 the business was carried on under the presidency and guidance of Mrs. Newcombe, the former Luella Post, daughter of the late Amos Post of Catskill.

Amos R. Newcombe, who joined the business in 1941 after graduating from the Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania, is vice-president of the firm. He married the former Helen Loughran of Kingston in 1946 and they have two children, Lydia, three, and Amos Robert, six. They make their home at Manor Lake.

LeRoy Van Bramer, who joined the firm in 1934, is secretary of the company.

Duane Forman of Hurley is sales representative for the company. George Dunbar, vice-president of the Newcombe Oil Burner Service Corp., is in charge of the service department, and Emil Greenburg of 24 Voorhees avenue is in charge of truck delivery.

Lloyd Newcombe, another son of Austin R. Newcombe, is vice-president of Amos Post, Inc., distributor of ESSO petroleum products, Catskill, having joined the business in 1945 upon his discharge from the U.S. Navy.

Amos Post, a pioneer automobile dealer in Greene county, started in the oil business about the same time as Austin Newcombe. Mrs. Austin Newcombe and Mrs. Henry Post took over the operation of the business in 1944 on the death of Henry Post, a son of the founder.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—A Texas test pilot's 1,234-mile hop to Niagara Falls yesterday broke every known non-stop distance record of helicopters. Elton J. Smith, 31, of Fort Worth, covered the distance from his home town in 12 hours, 57 minutes and 30 seconds, flying a Bell model 47D-1. Auxiliary tanks boosted the craft's fuel capacity from the normal 30 gallons to 187. The old mark was held by Air Force Maj. F. T. Caschmann, for a flight of 703.6 miles from Dayton, O., to Logan Air Force Base, Mass., in a Sikorsky R-5. An official of the Civil Aeronautics Administration verified Smith's record.

In 1922 he began construction of an ocean-going terminal at Newburgh and in 1928 erected one at Rensselaer across the Hudson river from Albany. During World War 1 Newcombe had decided to sell under his own brand and petroleum products he handled were labeled with the trademark "Keystone." This emblem soon appeared at pumps throughout the Catskill Mountain area.

In 1930, due to ill health, Newcombe decided to sell his holdings to Cities Service Oil Co., a transaction which was a top story in the financial section of the nation's press.

Starts Again from "Scratch"

According to Amos Newcombe, his father was completely out of business for two years but "couldn't stay away from it. He started again from scratch." He established a bulk plant on Converse street on the old U and D railroad and built service stations throughout the area. In 1933 the new company was incorporated as the Austin R. Newcombe Co., Inc., local distributor for Atlantic Refining Co., and a new ocean-going terminal was erected at Kingston Point just opposite the location of his first plant, now the property of Cities Service.

In 1936 another deep-water storage was built in Newburgh on property formerly owned by Abendroth and Root Manufacturing Company. During this time bulk plants for a wholesale business were being erected in a number of widely located communities.

When Newcombe, who was chairman of the board of directors of the National Ulster County Bank, president of the Wiltwyck Golf Club, a director of the Kingston Cooperative Savings and Loan Association and active in many civic enterprises, died in 1937 the business was carried on under the presidency and guidance of Mrs. Newcombe, the former Luella Post, daughter of the late Amos Post of Catskill.

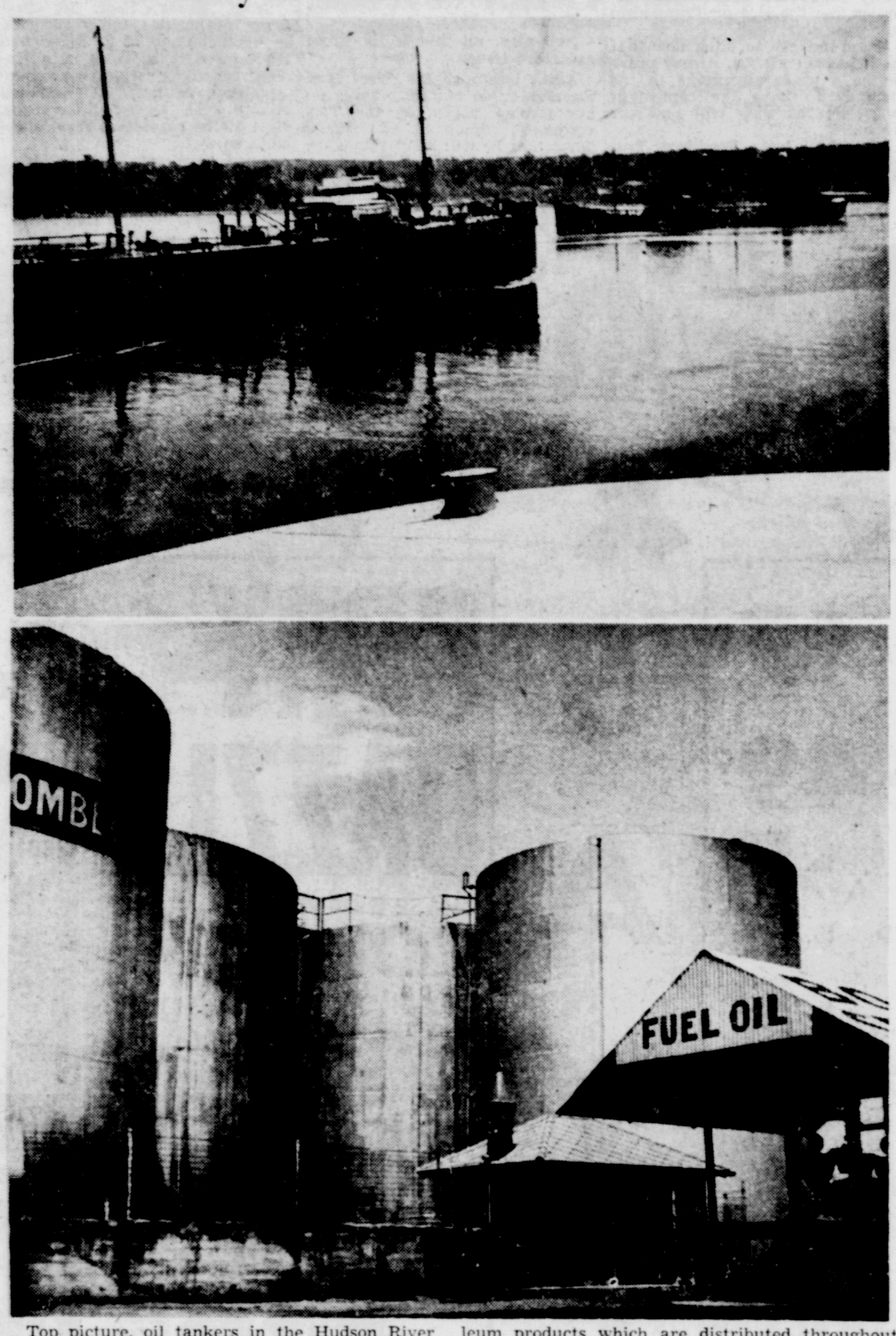
Amos R. Newcombe, who joined the business in 1941 after graduating from the Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania, is vice-president of the firm. He married the former Helen Loughran of Kingston in 1946 and they have two children, Lydia, three, and Amos Robert, six. They make their home at Manor Lake.

LeRoy Van Bramer, who joined the firm in 1934, is secretary of the company.

Duane Forman of Hurley is sales representative for the company. George Dunbar, vice-president of the Newcombe Oil Burner Service Corp., is in charge of the service department, and Emil Greenburg of 24 Voorhees avenue is in charge of truck delivery.

Lloyd Newcombe, another son of Austin R. Newcombe, is vice-president of Amos Post, Inc., distributor of ESSO petroleum products, Catskill, having joined the business in 1945 upon his discharge from the U.S. Navy.

Amos Post, a pioneer automobile dealer in Greene county, started in the oil business about the same time as Austin Newcombe. Mrs. Austin Newcombe and Mrs. Henry Post took over the operation of the business in 1944 on the death of Henry Post, a son of the founder.



Top picture, oil tankers in the Hudson River near Kingston Point laden with "black gold" destined for the huge storage tanks of the Austin R. Newcombe and Co., Inc., shown in the bottom picture. Approximately 30 of these tankers dock at the Newcombe plant annually, supplying petroleum products which are distributed throughout this area. Twelve of these reservoirs with capacities ranging up to 550,000 gallons for a single tank, provide the Newcombe tank trucks with an ample supply of gasoline and oil for year-round distribution. (Freeman photos)

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—A Texas test pilot's 1,234-mile hop to Niagara Falls yesterday broke every known non-stop distance record of helicopters. Elton J. Smith, 31, of Fort Worth, covered the distance from his home town in 12 hours, 57 minutes and 30 seconds, flying a Bell model 47D-1. Auxiliary tanks boosted the craft's fuel capacity from the normal 30 gallons to 187. The old mark was held by Air Force Maj. F. T. Caschmann, for a flight of 703.6 miles from Dayton, O., to Logan Air Force Base, Mass., in a Sikorsky R-5. An official of the Civil Aeronautics Administration verified Smith's record.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

The reason the Ruminator has been warmer toward Taft than toward Eisenhower is because the senator has been almost the lone public figure to consistently put first things first.

The first thing; the basic principle of the Republican party is obviously the maintenance of the Republic which was founded on the solid foundation of freedom and liberty of the individual.

This, in turn, nourished the free-enterprise system—the profits system, whereby an individual can go as far as his capabilities will carry him so long as he does not harm others.

Yet, this great American system of society—a society of high individualistic attainment—is the one a lot of fuzzy intellectuals and so-called "liberals" (of both political parties) wish to supplant with their pet version of a socialist state—but of course they never call it that!

So, to get back to Eisenhower and Taft, the Ruminator was delighted (but not surprised) at the meeting of the two men in New York last week and the statement released by Taft after the conference. The statement was quite in accord with the senator's principles and it was like him to emphasize that he and General Eisenhower are in agreement to battle against "creeping socialism."

It was a foregone conclusion, as the Ruminator has believed all along, that Senator Taft would support actively the Eisenhower campaign. Being the astute judge that he is of political affairs and of men's minds, Taft saw clearly that the proper time for the meeting with General Eisenhower was after the excitement of the convention had subsided and after the general had been out campaigning for a while and had got his feet wet.

Governor Stevenson is becoming so sickly-sweet in his leftishness—even his quips go darting off at a leftward angle—that the issue may yet be, as it should be, a great campaign between the "right" and the "left."

General Eisenhower says the issue is "change." So it is; change from left to right, and we may rest assured that Senator Taft will do a bang-up job in making this necessity for change crystal clear to all voters.

The Ruminator, as you know, has always wished that the campaign might have been between Truman and Taft, for then we would know once and for all exactly where the nation stood between the theories or Trumanism and free-enterprise.

I am inclined to think now that as it has turned out, it may prove to be a great advantage to the country to have the campaigns work out as they will now develop.

We shall have President Truman whistle-stopping the nation on his Fair Deal and Senator Taft driving at him from his side. While this contest is progressing, candidates Eisenhower and Stevenson will be pitting their strength against each other. The general is improving wonderfully in forthrightness.

I venture to assert that Taft's contribution to the final outcome will be of far greater significance than is now generally visualized. Senator Taft will undoubtedly bear down on his main thesis and seldom get off the track; namely, that the American free-enterprise system can only survive if the Republicans are elected. He will leave the problems of "corruption" to Eisenhower, I imagine (although of course he will bring corruption into his speeches), and bear down primarily on the paramount issue of free-enterprise and individualism versus "creeping socialism."

And after all that is the great American issue.

Also, inasmuch as Taft and Eisenhower do not fully agree on our foreign policy, as the Taft statement admitted, I should guess that he will leave this issue, also, in Eisenhower's lap. After all, if the Republicans are elected the General will be the chief architect of our foreign policy, subject of course to the Senate. Inasmuch as Senator Taft will continue to be a powerful figure in the Senate, he need not necessarily feel obligated (I should suppose) to conflict with General Eisenhower's international views during the remainder of the campaign.

From here on to November 4, the Ruminator believes the American people will at long last have brought before them the crucial issues that will so vastly influence our futures. I do not believe we can over-estimate the potential value of the Taft-Eisenhower meeting, and the campaigns to follow.

20 Persons Killed

Seoul, Korea, Sept. 18 (AP)—Army authorities today reported an unofficial toll of 20 killed and 159 injured in a wreck of a Korean passenger train near here yesterday. At least 50 additional injured were treated at the scene. Most of the casualties were school children.

TILLSON

Tillson, Sept. 18—Mrs. John Schultz of Tillson was hostess at a party given in her home Tuesday. Those present included Mrs. Frank Rowe, Mrs. Albert Hoyt, Mrs. Rudolf Borneman, Mrs. Walter Born, Mrs. Howard Sutherland, Mrs. Hollis Harvey, Mrs. Rita Rollo, Mrs. Margaret Taylor and Mrs. Peter Hoffman, Jr.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Tillson Reformed Church met recently at the home of Mrs. Arthur Deyo. Mrs. Oliver Keator, secretary, presided. Plans were discussed to have several improvements made in the church building. Hostesses were Mrs. Arthur Deyo and Mrs. Kenneth Clark.

Miss Carol D. Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Clark of Tillson, has entered New Paltz State Teachers College. She is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of '52.

As Pegler Sees It

based on a personal debt of gratitude for fantastic swift advancement to a rank so high that it was necessary to invent it for the occasion, should be kept in the realm of personal matters. Marshall is fair game for all Republican opponents of the tragic Democratic regime, as guilty as all but proven traitors of the State Department, and should be pounded for his stupidity if that is the worst that he was guilty of. The Democrats showed no tender regard for General Douglas MacArthur and here was a man who up and spoke his mind in a state of affairs which called for patriotism and manhood. Other generals, in comparable situations, licked Roosevelt's boots and thus created the very situation which they now call on teen-age kids to redeem.

In the next few weeks we will have the answer to the charge that Taft couldn't fight and couldn't get votes. He is going out to fight, not for himself but for a man whose heartiest backers against Taft had begun to complain that he was showing lack of guts. This is the criticism that other generals threw at Eisenhower for years during and after the war.

"No guts," one of his colleagues said a year ago.

"You mean battle courage?"

"No; hell no! Battle courage is the minimum that you can ask of a general. I mean moral guts."

But Taft has guts, and with courageous men, learned in affairs and staunch principle at his elbow to support him, Ike must suffice as president, for Uncle Miltie Stevenson won't be there after Taft gets through campaigning.

Tom Dewey, who goes on his toes and lost twice because he hadn't the guts to fight Roosevelt or Truman, is disappearing from this campaign. You may take it that, whatever other terms Taft made with Ike, he did insist on a real fight on the issues and with no fear of personalities. Taft is not afraid that any Democrat is going to spring an old hotel register or police blotter on him.

So he won't be president but those who talked him down as a non-fighter who couldn't get elected will have him, not Dewey or Winthrop Aldrich, Nelson Rockefeller or Ike, himself,, to thank for Ike's election next November.

Navy Electronics Unit Is Planned

A second meeting to complete the organization of a Naval Reserve Electronics Unit in Kingston will be held between 7 and 9 p. m. Wednesday, Sept. 24, at VFW headquarters, 552 Delaware avenue.

Lt. Cmdr. H. C. Wagar of Third Naval District headquarters, New York, who was present at the first meeting July 16, reported "considerable enthusiasm" had been expressed by a group of local men over the prospect of forming such a unit.

Wagar explained today that young men in the age group 17 to 35 and young women between the ages of 18 and 35, interested in the fields of seamanship, radio, communications or electronics, were eligible for membership in the association. He said that applicants need not have previous military background.

Naval Reserve personnel residing in Kingston and surrounding areas are needed to provide competent leadership for the unit, Wagar stated.

He said that Naval Reserve units, such as the one planned for Kingston, provided a well-organized electronics training program as well as an effective communications outlet for civil defense needs. Wagar will attend the meeting September 24, he said. He has extended an invitation to all interested young men and women to be present.

As Pegler Sees It

based on a personal debt of gratitude for fantastic swift advancement to a rank so high that it was necessary to invent it for the occasion, should be kept in the realm of personal matters. Marshall is fair game for all Republican opponents of the tragic Democratic regime, as guilty as all but proven traitors of the State Department, and should be pounded for his stupidity if that is the worst that he was guilty of. The Democrats showed no tender regard for General Douglas MacArthur and here was a man who up and spoke his mind in a state of affairs which called for patriotism and manhood. Other generals, in comparable situations, licked Roosevelt's boots and thus created the very situation which they now call on teen-age kids to redeem.

In the next few weeks we will have the answer to the charge that Taft couldn't fight and couldn't get votes. He is going out to fight, not for himself but for a man whose heartiest backers against Taft had begun to complain that he was showing lack of guts. This is the criticism that other generals threw at Eisenhower for years during and after the war.

"No guts," one of his colleagues said a year ago.

"You mean battle courage?"

"No; hell no! Battle courage is the minimum that you can ask of a general. I mean moral guts."

But Taft has guts, and with courageous men, learned in affairs and staunch principle at his elbow to support him, Ike must suffice as president, for Uncle Miltie Stevenson won't be there after Taft gets through campaigning.

Tom Dewey, who goes on his toes and lost twice because he hadn't the guts to fight Roosevelt or Truman, is disappearing from this campaign. You may take it that, whatever other terms Taft made with Ike, he did insist on a real fight on the issues and with no fear of personalities. Taft is not afraid that any Democrat is going to spring an old hotel register or police blotter on him.

So he won't be president but those who talked him down as a non-fighter who couldn't get elected will have him, not Dewey or Winthrop Aldrich, Nelson Rockefeller or Ike, himself,, to thank for Ike's election next November.

Navy Electronics Unit Is Planned

A second meeting to complete the organization of a Naval Reserve Electronics Unit in Kingston will be held between 7 and 9 p. m. Wednesday, Sept. 24, at VFW headquarters, 552 Delaware avenue.

Lt. Cmdr. H. C. Wagar of Third Naval District headquarters, New York, who was present at the first meeting July 16, reported "considerable enthusiasm" had been expressed by a group of local men over the prospect of forming such a unit.

Wagar explained today that young men in the age group 17 to 35 and young women between the ages of 18 and 35, interested in the fields of seamanship, radio, communications or electronics, were eligible for membership in the association. He said that applicants need not have previous military background.

Naval Reserve personnel residing in Kingston and surrounding areas are needed to provide competent leadership for the unit, Wagar stated.

He said that Naval Reserve units, such as the one planned for Kingston, provided a well-organized electronics training program as well as an effective communications outlet for civil defense needs. Wagar will attend the meeting September 24, he said. He has extended an invitation to all interested young men and women to be present.

Woodstock, Sept. 18—At the first meeting of the fall season of the Woodstock Business Association Wednesday night at the Town House, Wayne Underhill, president, stated that some time ago it had come to his notice that the New York Central Railroad planned to close the West Hurley station. Unable to call a meeting of the association, Underhill communicated wth John Egan, attorney, to intervene on behalf of the association. Underhill felt that the closing of the station would inconvenience many business people in the area.

Egan assembled figures which proved that the stations' income was in excess of expenses. It was, therefore, in the opinion of the Woodstock Business Association, in the public interest to keep the station open. The hearing on the station at the court house in Kingston was adjourned for a couple of weeks and the Woodstock Business Association was represented by John Egan's office. The agent of the railroad was thoroughly questioned and the final decision at the hearing was that the railroad be granted an adjournment of three months, making the next hearing on December 15.

An opinion was expressed by members of the association at Wednesday's meeting that the railroad will probably try to set up a railway express depot in Woodstock, but the final consensus of opinion was that the railroad would not be permitted to close the West Hurley station as it is too necessary for public convenience.

Underhill announced with deep regret the death of one of the members, Harry Froot, and a minute of silent prayer was observed in tribute to Mr. Froot. The association has extended its sympathy to his family. It was suggested that possibly a one man memorial show of his paintings be held early next spring.

A committee was formed to project a program of activity for the fall, winter and summer seasons. Mordy Berkowitz, chairman, will report back to the association in approximately two weeks at a special meeting to be called for that purpose.

The matter of business places in this village staying open Friday nights was again discussed and a committee appointed to check with the various retail merchants on the possibility of remaining open. The committee is composed of Hilda Lightstone, Karl Cousins,, Charles Greco, Harry Alpern, William Hand and Edwin Swensen.

The Woodstock Branch of the Bank of Orange County was welcomed as the newest member of the organization.

It was voted that hereafter luncheon meetings would be dispensed with and that evening meetings would take their place.

Mrs. George Aplustil, retiring president, presided at the meeting. After the usual opening ceremonies, it was decided to dispense with the usual monthly reports in favor of the annual reports as follows:

Gifts were presented from the unit to Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck and Miss Florence Peper for their many years of faithful service to the unit as secretary and treasurer respectively.

It was decided by the members present unanimously that in view of the increased cost of running the organization, that the yearly dues should be raised from $2 to $3 and the secretary was authorized to notify all members accordingly.

A $25 donation was voted to the Kingston Tumor Clinic.

The secretary reminded the members of the annual fall conference of the Third District of the American Legion Auxiliary to be held in Ulster County on November 16 and 17, details as to place to be announced later. She also announced that the annual meeting of the Ulster County Committee of the American Legion Auxiliary would be held in Ellenville on September 30.

It was announced that the newly elected officers will be installed at a special meeting September 24, at 8 p. m. at the Legion Hall with Mrs. Isaac Graham, county chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary, as the installing officer. It is hoped that many members will attend this special meeting.

Legion Declines Bid For Sale of Building

Woodstock, Sept. 18—At a special meeting of American Legion Post 1026 Tuesday night a proposal, which had been introduced at the previous meeting, August 28, for the sale of the Legion building, was discussed at length. After a standing vote was taken, an offer of $12,000 for the building was rejected, 18 to 2.

At the August 28 meeting the question of the sale of the building was brought to the floor. A committee of three was appointed to investigate and report on the proposed sale, to investigate and report on suitable rental of quarters and to investigate and report on the purchase of a suitable site for a future Legion building. The committee, Grant B. Elwyn, Richard E. Thibaut, Jr., and Henry Grazier, with Martin F. Comeau as counsel, made its report. 15 Children Attend Cooperative Nursery

Woodstock, Sept. 18—Wednesday morning the Tinker Street Cooperative Nursery School opened for the fall term with 15 children present.

The school, which has been approved by the State of New York and by the local Board of Health, is a cooperative in the true sense of the word, being operated entirely by the parents. In order to keep the tuition fee at a minimum, many mothers spend one morning every other week at the school assisting the teacher These participating mothers pay $18 per month while mothers who are unable to paticipate in the program pay $24 per month. Mrs. Raymond Gilkey will again serve as teacher.

The fathers, as their share in the program, have constructed a sturdy jungle gym, a see-saw, a work-bench for aspiring young carpenters, and ladders for tree-climbers. The mothers also take part in caring for equipment, obtaining supplies and maintaining the building.

Marcault Concert Pleases Audience

Woodstock, Sept. 18—Disregarding the inclement weather last Sunday afternoon, a large and extremely enthusiastic audience turned out to welcome Jacqueline Marcault, eminent pianist, who presented her only concert of the season at the Maverick Concert Hall. The audience was well rewarded.

Overcoming the difficulties of performing in a semi-outdoor hall in wet weather, Miss Marcault played brilliantly and with the glowing vitality which is always an integral part of her performance. The first number, the Sonata, Opus 53 by Beethoven, was played beautifully with fine attention to details. Her phrasing was excellent and her technique clean and crisp.

There was an ecstatic quality in the Ravel Sonatine, the Au Mouvement with its atmospheric mood, the menuet (in tempo only) and in the glittering Tres anime.

The final number was the impressive Chaconne by Bach-Busoni, a monumental arrangement of an unaccompanied violin number taken from a Sonata No. 4.

In all of these works Miss Marcault displayed her artistic integrity and her beauty of tone and touch. She was warmly re-

Mrs. Raymond Gilkey will again serve as teacher.

The fathers, as their share in the program, have constructed a sturdy jungle gym, a see-saw, a work-bench for aspiring young carpenters, and ladders for tree-climbers. The mothers also take part in caring for equipment, obtaining supplies and maintaining the building.

Youngsters who attended the opening session were James Bird, Kim Chalmers, Terry-Jean Craft, Chris Garnett, Donald Harriman, Barry Jurist, Shari Kalish, Joseph Leshen, Stephen Moncure, Nancy Ellen Ruff, Walter Steinlauf, Barbara Steinlauf, Sarah Stifler and Mark Wetterau. Several other children will enter on October 1.

There are only a few openings left. Interested parents are requested to communicate with Mrs. William Stifler in Woodstock.

Marcault Concert Pleases Audience

Woodstock, Sept. 18—Disregarding the inclement weather last Sunday afternoon, a large and extremely enthusiastic audience turned out to welcome Jacqueline Marcault, eminent pianist, who presented her only concert of the season at the Maverick Concert Hall. The audience was well rewarded.

Overcoming the difficulties of performing in a semi-outdoor hall in wet weather, Miss Marcault played brilliantly and with the glowing vitality which is always an integral part of her performance. The first number, the Sonata, Opus 53 by Beethoven, was played beautifully with fine attention to details. Her phrasing was excellent and her technique clean and crisp.

There was an ecstatic quality in the Ravel Sonatine, the Au Mouvement with its atmospheric mood, the menuet (in tempo only) and in the glittering Tres anime.

The final number was the impressive Chaconne by Bach-Busoni, a monumental arrangement of an unaccompanied violin number taken from a Sonata No. 4.

In all of these works Miss Marcault displayed her artistic integrity and her beauty of tone and touch. She was warmly re-

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security administration office, submits another article on the provisions of the new Social Security Law:

If you are one of the 2,900 people in Ulster county who receive monthly old-age and survivors insurance payments, September 1 and October 3 are two dates to remember.

Beginning September 1 you can earn as much as $75 a month and still cash your social security checks. About October 3 your benefit check for September will go into the mail, and pratically all families receiving benefits will get increased amounts beginning with these checks.

I wish to point out that no application need be made for the increase in payments as they will be made automatically.

While increased benefits, amounting to 12½% or $5.00, whichever is greater will be paid to retired wage earners, their dependents and survivors will not necessarily receive increases at the same rate. There will be some cases in which the wage earner will receive the entire increase and other cases where due to the number of survivors on the rolls there will be no increase at this time.

A person who is on the rolls but is not receiving checks because he is earning between $50 and $75 a month should call at or write to the Social Security Office in order to get his payments started.

Self-employed people who receive the payments may average as much as $75 per month throughout the year and still receive monthly benefit checks. Thus, a self-employed person who works in his own business and makes no more than $900 in a year will receive all the monthly checks. If he earns more than $900 in the year, benefits for one or more months may not be payable. The number of months for which benefits are not payable depends on the amount of work he does in his business and the amount by which his earnings exceed $900.

After a person reaches 75, social security benefits may be paid to him regardless of how much he is earning.

Any person in Ulster county who wishes to, is cordially invited to call at our office located in the Central Post Office building, Broadway, for a further and more complete explanation of the new changes in the Social Security Law.

Chill Oranges Before Squeezing

It's best to chill oranges and then squeeze them for juice, rather than to keep oranges at in covered containers. Meat is an room temperature and then chill the juice. The reason for this is that the longer orange juice stands the more flavor and vitamin C it loses.

HAY FEVER

"Atchoo!"

"Coming down with a cold?"

"No, it's my usual hay fever."

The mistake in that very common bit of conversation is the word "only." Sneezing, sniffling, eyes watering, about two and a half million people in the United States spend part of every year trying to get through the day's work with the handicap of hay fever. They dread the coming of fall, one of the most beautiful seasons in the American year, because fall means ragweed. And ragweed means exhausting attacks of sneezing, loss of sleep and appetite, and lowered efficiency to many hay fever sufferers.

If you have hay fever, it means that you are sensitive, allergic is the medical word, to the airborne pollen of certain trees, grasses, or weeds. Other common allergies are hives, eczema, asthma, some headaches, stomach and intestinal upsets. People can be allergic to almost anything which can get into the body by eating or drinking, by inhaling, by contact, or by injection.

A tendency to allergy seems to run in certain families. Your hay fever may be related to Aunt Sally's hives, Grandmother's sick headaches, and Uncle Joe's asthma. Perhaps you can't do much about this tendency. But you can do certain things to make your lot easier.

If you have symptoms of hay fever, it is wise to see your doctor at once. Infections of the nose, ears, and throat, and sometimes bronchial asthma may develop late in the season if the symptoms are not treated. Allergic disorders are almost never fatal, but even mild forms are uncomfortable and inconvenient. Severe forms such as bronchial asthma, where there is difficulty in breathing, cause much misery.

The doctor will try first to find out what kind of pollen is causing your attacks of hay fever. Once this is known it may be possible to avoid the pollen to some extent and to build up your resistance to it. Shots of pollen extract, called desensitization treatments, are sometimes used to build up resistence. Mechanical devices to filter pollen from the air of rooms where you spend most of your time may be advised. Your doctor may suggest a trip to a pollen-free area for your vacation. He may prescribe anti-histamine medicines, drops, or sprays to relieve your discomfort.

Because the emotions have a strong effect on allergic disorders, the doctor will advise you to avoid worry, fear, anger, resentment, or excitement. If you let small annoyances "get you down," you invite an attack of hay fever.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

Death Persecution Charged

Munsan, Korea, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Communists today charged the allies "persecuted to death" a Red prisoner of war Tuesday. The Reds also complained that a UN plane flew over the Panmunjom neutral zone yesterday. The protests were contained in letters exchanged by liaison officers at Panmunjom. The allies had announced a Communist captive was found hanging in the POW camp on Koje Island Tuesday. The UN said it was "apparently a suicide."

Church School Rally Planned for Ellenville

A rally day meeting open to all church school teachers, officers and other interested persons will be held at the Ellenville Reformed Church Sunday afternoon, Sept. 28, it was announced today by the Ulster County Church School Council.

The program, which will begin at 4 p. m., will include an address, Devotional Use of the Bible, by the Rev. William A. Irish, pastor of the host church. There will be a basket supper following the meeting, with coffee and cake provided. The date was set to coincide with the beginning of Christian Education Week, and many area Protestant Sunday schools are planning their individual Rally Day programs for that morning.

When milk cows are given free access to water in hot weather their production may be as much as 4 per cent higher than when they are watered only twice a day.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I received some interesting material from the Irving Scott estate which was handed down and preserved with care. One is The Kingston Daily Freeman, of February 20, 1884, still in excellent condition. At the time it was already known as the official paper of the city and county. Weather reports were also given at the time. Among the local notices, I see George B. Merritt & Co. was advertising various items of merchandise, quite reasonable. You could buy a good umbrella for $1 at the time. Muslin could be had at six cents in remnant size. Wool material, 45 inches wide was going for 50 cents a yard. Whatever are colored blankets with straps, which were selling for $1 on this sale? For those who remember George B. Merritt & Co., it seems he had two stores, one at 161 Strand, in Rondout and the other at 13 Wall street, one door north of St. John's Church on Wall street. The church since had been taken down stone by stone and rebuilt elsewhere.

Remember the Eichler Hotel near the West Shore back in the 1930's when they had entertainment there and a three-piece band of comedians. In this 1884 Freeman a public notice from F. Hollander and Co., importers of New York city, reads: "We are pleased to announce that Adolph Eichler of Rondout, has become our agent for this city and vicinity for our celebrated imported lager beers, which he will sell at standard prices delivered free to customers, thereby saving both freight and cartage." List of beers given included imported Kaiser beer, Bremen, Culmbacher, Bavaria, Budweiser and Bohemia, also Milwaukee and Staten Island lager beer.

Another notice read: "All the soldiers and sailors of the late war are cordially invited to attend a Camp Fire and Reunion under the auspices of Pratt Post No. 127, G.A.R., at City Hall, Kingston, on Friday, February 22, 1884, (Washington's Birthday), afternoon and evening. Come, and we will take care of you. By order of Committee."

Another item read: "Ladies, collect your magazines and have them bound, take them to Ricketts, Argus building, Wall street, Kingston." Now there was a good idea. Lot of times, I have bunches of magazines I hate to throw away, yet they slip and slide all over the place. If they would be bound in one cover it would be very handy. Also there are many other items that could be bound.

From the Notes About Town column, the various items were of interest to Kingstonians 68 years ago. "Harverly's Minstrels at Music Hall tonight." The next night they were playing at Sampson Opera House down where the Freeman building is today. . . . There was a heavy freshet in the creek today, but the water did not rise above the docks. . . . There is no complaint regarding dry cisterns, and there are plenty of wet cellars in all sections. . . . Pumping out cellars was a fashionable amusement this morning, and many prominent citizens paraded with a canal pump over their shoulders.

HAY FEVER

"Atchoo!"

"Coming down with a cold?"

"No, it's my usual hay fever."

The mistake in that very common bit of conversation is the word "only." Sneezing, sniffling, eyes watering, about two and a half million people in the United States spend part of every year trying to get through the day's work with the handicap of hay fever. They dread the coming of fall, one of the most beautiful seasons in the American year, because fall means ragweed. And ragweed means exhausting attacks of sneezing, loss of sleep and appetite, and lowered efficiency to many hay fever sufferers.

If you have hay fever, it means that you are sensitive, allergic is the medical word, to the airborne pollen of certain trees, grasses, or weeds. Other common allergies are hives, eczema, asthma, some headaches, stomach and intestinal upsets. Dr. Holcomb Is Rotary Speaker

In a brief discussion before the Rotary Club, Wednesday, Dr. Frederic Holcomb emphasized the importance of cooperation on the part of an informed public in the continuous fight against disease.

Pointing to the progress made in Ulster county in the fight against tuberculosis, he attributed the great success to the enlightened thinking of the public and the work of the Ulster County Board of Health, one of the outstanding organizations in the state. The change in attitude from cloaking the disease as if it were a disgrace or stigma to that of complete cooperation with the health authorities was cited by the speaker.

On the topic of wonder drugs, which has received so much publicity, he asserted that a feeling of over confidence would be harmful to individuals and also to the progress against certain diseases. The new drugs, he said, in certain cases were helpful in the cure of the disease, but they were not an absolute cure.

In the work of the health department, he mentioned the almost entire elimination of the dread disease diphtheria, which each year took a heavy death toll.

On the subject of medical cults, he stated that the medical profession was against licensing them because of their lack of understanding of the basic sciences necessary to render proper medical aid to the public.

QUESTIONS OF EXPENSE

A wife writes: My husband and I are going to visit our son who is in training camp. Some neighbors of ours, whom we know only slightly, are also going to visit their son who is stationed at the same camp. When they heard through a mutual friend that we were going, the wife called and asked if we would like to drive down with them. (We were going by train.) My problem is, are we supposed to share any of the car expenses, such as gasoline and oil and other expenses that may come up? Please tell me just what our obligations are to these neighbors."

You certainly should pay for your own meals and room, and it would be proper to offer to share the expenses of the car, although since they had made all their plans to go anyway, I don't believe they would let you.

Degrees of Obligation

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please explain about wedding gifts. When are they a "must" and when not? I believe you have said that an invitation to the reception does not necessarily carry an obligation to send a present, but I am a bit hazy as to just what is the accepted rule.

Answer: Members of the family must give presents; very intimate friends are expected to; acquaintances follow their own inclinations. If the wedding is very small your obligation to send a present is greater than if the wedding is very large.

No Thank You, for "Thank You"

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct reply to make when calling on the telephone to inquire about someone's health and you are thanked for calling. This always presents a very awkward situation as I never know what to say.

Answer: Their thanks is the end of the conversation, you say nothing more than "you're welcome, good-bye."

Family Pictures

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it in good taste to display family pictures in the living room?

Answer: Certainly!

What should one serve for a formal dinner, a buffet lunch or supper? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-25, "Menus for Every Occasion," will help you. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

No Thank You, for "Thank You"

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct reply to make when calling on the telephone to inquire about someone's health and you are thanked for calling. This always presents a very awkward situation as I never know what to say.

Answer: Their thanks is the end of the conversation, you say nothing more than "you're welcome, good-bye."

Family Pictures

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it in good taste to display family pictures in the living room?

Answer: Certainly!

What should one serve for a formal dinner, a buffet lunch or supper? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-25, "Menus for Every Occasion," will help you. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Nylon Armor for Vehicles

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya (AP) — Military authorities in Malaya are considering the use of nylon armor on vehicles, a spokesman at army headquarters disclosed. Nylon armor, reportedly used with effect in Korea, was not strictly bullet-proof, he said. A bullet fired at short range would go right through it. "However," he said, "we think it may be possible to usefully employ it as a means of armoring vehicles. Because of its greater flexibility it may be possible to use several thicknesses of it to provide an armor canopy for a vehicle." He said nylon armor was designed primarily to give protection against shell splinters.

Enjoy This Chicken Casserole

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Those plump, outsize chickens (also called hens or fowl) are plentiful now, like all other poultry. So we asked a good friend of this column, Kathryn Be e Niles of Chicago, to think up something new and wonderfully good for our readers. Here is her plump and budget-conscious reply:

Harvest Casserole of Chicken
(8 generous servings)

One hen, 3 to 3½ pounds, ready-to-cook weight, giblets and neck, 1½ teaspoon salt, 2 cloves, 4 peppercorns, 3 cups water, 1/3 cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 clove garlic, (optional), ½ cup chicken fat for frying, 6 to 8 onions, small to medium, 6 to 8 carrots, 3 cups cooked rice, 2 to 3 cups chicken gravy.

Have hen disjointed and cut into serving-sized pieces. Place with the giblets, neck, salt, cloves, peppercorns and water in a kettle. Bring to boiling, then remove any froth from the surface. Reduce heat to simmering and cook gently until thickest pieces are fork-tender, 3 to 3½ hours.

Remove chicken and set aside to cool. (This part can be done the day before.) Strain broth and skim all the fat from surface and set aside. Coat chicken pieces with the flour and seasonings mixed together. Brown slowly in the chicken fat, turning to brown evenly.

Meanwhile cook vegetables and rice and prepare gravy. For the gravy use 1½ tablespoons fat (fat left from browning the chicken in skillet) and 2 tablespoons of flour and 1 cup chicken broth for each cup of gravy desired. Add milk or water to broth if necessary to make up the needed amount.

Measure flour into the measured quantity of fat in skillet. Blend and set over low heat. Cook until frothy then add the broth, cold or lukewarm—all at once. Increase heat and cook, stirring constantly until uniformly thickened. Cover and simmer about 5 minutes.

Season well to taste. Line bottom and sides of a large casserole with the rice. Add chicken and vegetables. Top with the hot gravy. Cover and heat in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Serve from the casserole.

Note: Oven heating may be omitted if all the foods are hot. Arrange rice on warm serving dish. Top with chicken and vegetables.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Tomato juice, oatmeal, split and toasted rolls, orange marmalade, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Creamed eggs and peas on toast, whole-wheat bread, butter or margarine, stewed pears, cookies, tea, milk.

DINNER: Harvest casserole of chicken with onions, carrots, rice and gravy, hot biscuits or rolls, butter or margarine, lettuce, sliced cold beets and celery root, French dressing, prepared chocolate pudding, cream, coffee, milk.

Learn How to Bid From a Poor Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

I am almost ashamed to show today's hand because North's bidding was so outrageously ambitious. I cannot resist showing it, however, because South's play, at this apparently hopeless contract, is worth looking at.

West opened the deuce of clubs, and South gulped when he saw the dummy. He then played a low club from dummy, hoping for the best. East properly finessed the eight of clubs, and South won the first trick with the queen.

South saw no sense in giving up, so he boldly finessed the queen of hearts at the second trick. When this held, he continued by cashing the ace of hearts, discarding a club from his own hand. A heart ruff now established dummy's long suit.

With a normal trump break, South was now out of danger. He therefore led a low trump from his hand and won with dummy's jack. East's nine of spades looked ominous to South, and he therefore searched for a way to make his contract even against a 4-1 trump break.

After some thought, he led a heart from the dummy and discarded the last club from his own hand. West ruffed with the six of spades, and wondered what to do next. He couldn't afford to lead out his two remaining trumps, since dummy would win and run the rest of the hearts. West therefore returned the jack of clubs.

South now had to abandon the trumps and also had to abandon dummy's established hearts. He cashed the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond with dummy's low trump, and ruffed another club in his own hand. At this point South had nine tricks safely tucked away and was bound to make his tenth trick with dummy's king of spades or his own queen.

Note that South would lose his contract if he led a trump towards dummy after ruffing the jack of clubs. West would step up with the ace of spades and lead his last club. South would have to ruff with his last trump, and would have no convenient way of getting to dummy to draw West's trump and run the hearts.

120 Polio Cases Reported

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—The State Health Department said today 120 cases of polio were reported last week outside of New York city, a 50-per cent increase over the previous seven-day period. But the department noted the increase was "due mainly to a lag between the time the cases actually occur and the time they are reported." Since Jan. 1, there have been 852 cases of polio reported outside of New York city. This compares with 663 for the corresponding 1951 period. The greatest number last week occurred in Monroe county, which had 18. Other high counties, and their totals, were: Nassau, 13; Erie and Westchester, 11 each; Orange, 9; Suffolk, 6; Cayuga, 5, and Cattaraugus, Herkimer and Onondaga, 4 each.

Crop Claims Confusing

Hong Kong (AP) — The Chinese claim spring rice and wheat crops in Southern China in 1952 exceeded those of the previous year by 5 to 20 per cent. No tonnage figures were given. The report was carried by the New China News Agency. A few days earlier the Reds complained in a Peiping dispatch that some areas were making erroneous and exaggerated crop reports.

A dash of sugar and a little soy sauce give tomato sauce a welcome and different flavor.

Policewomen Are Used as Decoys

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Attractive policewomen in civilian finery were sent out into the street last night as decoys in a stepped-up fight to check the wave of rape, robbery and other crimes plaguing the city.

Husky male detectives were assigned to keep the lady cops under observation and move in quickly if any man should try to molest them.

A 200-man night-time "shadow" force of detectives roamed the city in 100 radio cars with no identifying markings.

The special detail—augmenting the familiar green-and-white radio cars that operate on a 24-hour basis—was ordered late Tuesday by Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan.

Extra uniformed patrolmen were assigned to street duty and to subway platforms.

The crime wave has been highlighted by numerous rapes, attempted rapes, robberies and beatings of women alone on streets or in subway.

The deep portions of the sea have a temperature of 2 or 3 degrees above the freezing point of fresh water.

HARVEST CASSEROLE takes advantage of plump fowl while they are plentiful and contains other ingredients that go easy on budget.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Those plump, outsize chickens (also called hens or fowl) are plentiful now, like all other poultry. So we asked a good friend of this column, Kathryn Be e Niles of Chicago, to think up something new and wonderfully good for our readers. Here is her plump and budget-conscious reply:

(8 generous servings)

One hen, 3 to 3½ pounds, ready-to-cook weight, giblets and neck, 1½ teaspoon salt, 2 cloves, 4 peppercorns, 3 cups water, 1/3 cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 clove garlic, (optional), ½ cup chicken fat for frying, 6 to 8 onions, small to medium, 6 to 8 carrots, 3 cups cooked rice, 2 to 3 cups chicken gravy.

Have hen disjointed and cut into serving-sized pieces. Place with the giblets, neck, salt, cloves, peppercorns and water in a kettle. Bring to boiling, then remove any froth from the surface. Reduce heat to simmering and cook gently until thickest pieces are fork-tender, 3 to 3½ hours.

Remove chicken and set aside to cool. (This part can be done the day before.) Strain broth and skim all the fat from surface and set aside. Coat chicken pieces with the flour and seasonings mixed together. Brown slowly in the chicken fat, turning to brown evenly.

Meanwhile cook vegetables and rice and prepare gravy. For the gravy use 1½ tablespoons fat (fat left from browning the chicken in skillet) and 2 tablespoons of flour and 1 cup chicken broth for each cup of gravy desired. Add milk or water to broth if necessary to make up the needed amount.

Measure flour into the measured quantity of fat in skillet. Blend and set over low heat. Cook until frothy then add the broth, cold or lukewarm—all at once. Increase heat and cook, stirring constantly until uniformly thickened. Cover and simmer about 5 minutes.

Season well to taste. Line bottom and sides of a large casserole with the rice. Add chicken and vegetables. Top with the hot gravy. Cover and heat in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Serve from the casserole.

Note: Oven heating may be omitted if all the foods are hot. Arrange rice on warm serving dish. Top with chicken and vegetables.

Learn How to Bid From a Poor Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

I am almost ashamed to show today's hand because North's bidding was so outrageously ambitious. I cannot resist showing it, however, because South's play, at this apparently hopeless contract, is worth looking at.

West opened the deuce of clubs, and South gulped when he saw the dummy. He then played a low club from dummy, hoping for the best. East properly finessed the eight of clubs, and South won the first trick with the queen.

South saw no sense in giving up, so he boldly finessed the queen of hearts at the second trick. When this held, he continued by cashing the ace of hearts, discarding a club from his own hand. A heart ruff now established dummy's long suit.

With a normal trump break, South was now out of danger. He therefore led a low trump from his hand and won with dummy's jack. East's nine of spades looked ominous to South, and he therefore searched for a way to make his contract even against a 4-1 trump break.

After some thought, he led a heart from the dummy and discarded the last club from his own hand. West ruffed with the six of spades, and wondered what to do next. He couldn't afford to lead out his two remaining trumps, since dummy would win and run the rest of the hearts. West therefore returned the jack of clubs.

South now had to abandon the trumps and also had to abandon dummy's established hearts. He cashed the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond with dummy's low trump, and ruffed another club in his own hand. At this point South had nine tricks safely tucked away and was bound to make his tenth trick with dummy's king of spades or his own queen.

Note that South would lose his contract if he led a trump towards dummy after ruffing the jack of clubs. West would step up with the ace of spades and lead his last club. South would have to ruff with his last trump, and would have no convenient way of getting to dummy to draw West's trump and run the hearts.

120 Polio Cases Reported

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—The State Health Department said today 120 cases of polio were reported last week outside of New York city, a 50-per cent increase over the previous seven-day period. But the department noted the increase was "due mainly to a lag between the time the cases actually occur and the time they are reported." Since Jan. 1, there have been 852 cases of polio reported outside of New York city. This compares with 663 for the corresponding 1951 period. The greatest number last week occurred in Monroe county, which had 18. Other high counties, and their totals, were: Nassau, 13; Erie and Westchester, 11 each; Orange, 9; Suffolk, 6; Cayuga, 5, and Cattaraugus, Herkimer and Onondaga, 4 each.

Crop Claims Confusing

Hong Kong (AP) — The Chinese claim spring rice and wheat crops in Southern China in 1952 exceeded those of the previous year by 5 to 20 per cent. No tonnage figures were given. The report was carried by the New China News Agency. A few days earlier the Reds complained in a Peiping dispatch that some areas were making erroneous and exaggerated crop reports.

Policewomen Are Used as Decoys

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—Attractive policewomen in civilian finery were sent out into the street last night as decoys in a stepped-up fight to check the wave of rape, robbery and other crimes plaguing the city.

Husky male detectives were assigned to keep the lady cops under observation and move in quickly if any man should try to molest them.

A 200-man night-time "shadow" force of detectives roamed the city in 100 radio cars with no identifying markings.

The special detail—augmenting the familiar green-and-white radio cars that operate on a 24-hour basis—was ordered late Tuesday by Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan.

Extra uniformed patrolmen were assigned to street duty and to subway platforms.

The crime wave has been highlighted by numerous rapes, attempted rapes, robberies and beatings of women alone on streets or in subway.

The deep portions of the sea have a temperature of 2 or 3 degrees above the freezing point of fresh water.

Jews to Observe Rosh Hashono on September 19-20

With the notes of a musical instrument out of the dim past echoing through the synagogues, and with the traditional greeting on their lips "May you be inscribed for a good year," the Jewish people will soon welcome New Year's Day of the year 5713.

The New Year holiday, called Rosh Hashono in Hebrew, will begin Friday evening. Orthodox and conservative Jews, for whom Rosh Hashono lasts two days, will conclude their observance of the holiday on Sunday evening Reform Jews, who have a one-day New Year, will observe the holiday until Saturday evening.

It is observed not with merrymaking but with solemn religious services. Jews crowd into the synagogues and, in the time-honored Rosh Hashono prayers, acknowledge that their lives are lived in the sight of God and plead for the courage to overcome selfishness and let Him rule their hearts. Beseeching Him to enter as well into the hearts of all men and teach His truth to the nations, they pray for an end to fear and hatred and for the speedy birth of a world of brotherliness under God.

The ram's horn or shofar, a wind instrument of ancient times, is sounded from the pulpit during the Rosh Hashono services. Its shrill and pulsing note deepens and solemnity of the occasion and recalls the shofar's use in early Bible days.

According to tradition, the year that is beginning will be the 5713th anniversary of the world. The Jewish calendar counts time from what was in olden times thought to be the date of the world's creation.

The ever-present New Year greeting, spoken or else written on the Rosh Hashono cards that friends send one another, is "May you be inscribed for a good year." The greeting refers to an old legend that, on the New Year, everyone's fate for the coming year is inscribed in a great book in heaven, and that his fate is as favorable or unfavorable as his life during the past year was good or bad.

The words of the greeting are not the only way to express a New Year's wish. Many women, expressing it at the holiday table as well, serve honey, fruits, and sweet dishes to symbolize the sweetness and the happiness they hope the year will bring.

Rosh Hashono does not stand alone but is the beginning of a period of soul-searching and prayer known as the Ten Days of Penitence. These 10 days will close with the fast of Yom Kippur or the Day of Atonement.

Undergoes Operation

Lausanne, Switzerland, Sept. 18 (AP)—W. Somerset Maugham, the 78-year-old British playwright and novelist, underwent an operation for hernia at the Lausanne Cantonal Hospital this morning. Maugham's secretary said the author was conscious and in good spirits an hour after the operation.

Push-Button War

said, was watched on a television screen aboard the Boxer, 150 miles from the target.

The navy announcement lacked many of the details in Waters' account, but gave this description:

1. The new missile, armed with a powerful warhead, is sent aloft from a catapult aboard the carrier.

2. There are two guide planes, one of the carrier and one in the air. Both are equipped with special electronic equipment.

Directed to Target

3. The first guide plane sends the missile roaring skyward. At a pre-determined altitude, the airborne guide takes over and directs the missile to the area of its target.

4. By the time the missile goes into its payoff dive, the guide plane is miles away out of anti-aircraft fire.

5. All during its flight, from the carrier deck to the target, the missile records its progress via telecast in a specially-equipped electronics room aboard the ship.

The navy announcement said the carrier Boxer has been using an AD-2 Skyraider (Douglas attack plane) as the guide craft in its first such attacks.

Against Heavy Defenses

The navy would neither identify the targets nor assess the damage inflicted. But both the navy release and AP Photographer Waters' story indicated one probable reason why little was given out on actual results.

The release said the missiles are primarily for use "against heavily-defended targets." Waters wrote that the one he watched flew into "a flak-trap for any hapless Allied pilot"—hardly a place for close reconnaissance.

Waters was struck with the way electronics experts aboard the carrier "rode with the missile, mile by mile, through wondrous electronic instruments."

On the television screen, he said, the men crossed the sea of Japan and watched the jagged peaks of Korea loom larger. He said tension in the room mounted as the target neared.

Then the target — "an enemy concentration in a valley between two shadowy hills." And then:

* * * the instruments suddenly went blank. The screaming dive had ended, squarely on target, and the missile had crashed to oblivion."

Polio Hits New Peak

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Public Health Service reported today that the number of new cases of infantile paralysis in the United States has hit a record high for the fourth straight week. The agency listed 4,032 cases in 47 states—New Mexico was missing—during the week that ended Sept. 13. There were 3,824 new cases the previous week, including 29 from New Mexico. Usually, incidence of polio starts to drop early in September. The total for the "disease year" which started with the week ending April 5 reached 30,071 up to Sept. 13, more than 2,000 more than the total of 28,060 listed in the same period of 1949, the previous record year.

Ike Threatened to Resign Rather Than Bust Strike

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—The New York Times says associates of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower have revealed that he threatened to resign as army chief of staff in 1946 if forced to act as "a strike breaker" in the railroad strike that spring.

In his speech before the American Federation of Labor yesterday, the Republican presidential candidate, said:

"I was trying to get some rest down in Georgia. I got a telephone call from Washington. The message directed that I return to Washington immediately to assume command of the railway strikers, who were going to be drafted into the army. With a bitter protest I refused.

"In a later call I was told that I was considered the only soldier with whom the railway workers would even talk. So I agreed to meet with them. But I was a soldier and not a strike breaker."

Says Threat Omitted

The Times quoted associates of the general as saying his speech toned down the full story, omitting a threat of resignation and the substance of two telephone conversations with President Truman after he was called back to Washington from vacation in Georgia in mid-May, 1946.

Just before that, on May 18, the Brotherhoods of Railroad Trainmen and Locomotive Engineers had postponed their threatened strike for five days at the request of President Truman, who the day before had ordered the Office of Defense Transportation to seize the railroads.

On May 23 the unions struck. The next day President Truman appealed to them to return to work, warning that if they did not he would operate trains "by using every means in my power" including a call to the army.

Called for Consultation

Meanwhile, Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson announced that he had summoned General Eisenhower for consultation.

The Times said Eisenshower sources gave these details:

Eisenhower received a phone call from Patterson at Sea Island, saying he was needed in Washington and a plane was being sent for him.

Once in Washington Eisenhower went to Patterson's office. The secretary telephoned the President and handed the telephone to the general.

The President told the general the administration was going to draft railroad men into the army to get the roads back into operation and the general was needed to take charge of the move.

The general replied that he was a general and chief of staff and not a strike breaker, that he couldn't do it and that if the President insisted, his only course was to resign.

The President let the matter go but later in another telephone conversation told the general he was the only one the railroad workers would listen to and that he would have to meet them. The general was persuaded.

The Times said Eisenhower sources did not say whether or not the general met with the workers. The strike was settled on May 25, the day after Eisenhower arrived in Washington.

The Eisenhower sources, the Times said, pictured the general as reluctant to give his version of what happened because Secretary Patterson was dead.

Navy Missiles . . .

time," Kurtz asserted.

He conceded the enemy is capable of devising similar weapons.

The chief lesson learned in the actual combat strikes in Korea, Kurtz said, is "we found out we could use carriers effectively, without interfering with the carrier's normal operations."

A reporter asked if the guided missile would displace huge atom-carrying bombers like the B-36.

These are some of the points Kurtz made:

Robot planes can be refueled in midair . . . rigged to strafe enemy ground troops . . . fire back at attacking planes . . . drop their bombs and return to base. They can be used as defense against enemy guided missiles.

Can Maneuver Violently

They can stand more violent maneuvers than a pilot, thus are more adept at dodging enemy ground fire. None of the planes used in Korea was knocked down by Red ground fire, although most of the targets were heavily protected.

The television used in guiding and observing them has the same limitations as commercial TV. But waves beamed from high in the air can travel long distances without interference.

"It is push-button warfare" and very simple. The operator uses only one finger to work the small control stick guiding the missile. The controller can destroy the plane simply by pressing a button. The missile can be guided from the control plane or the carrier.

Navy Hellcats are being used because they are obsolete and would have been scrapped. But any plane could be outfitted as a drone very quickly.

British authorities in Washington were informed of the decision to use the missiles in combat, and got a very detailed explanation.

The missiles are possibly not quite as effective as Japanese Kamikaze planes flown by suicide pilots, because they don't have the human eye guiding them. On the other hand, no pilot is lost when the plane crashes.

Traffic Is Normal Again

Berlin, Sept. 18 (AP)—West German truck traffic to Berlin was restored to normal today after Soviet zone frontier guards dropped their stalling tactics, and cleaned up a huge backlog of waiting vehicles with scarcely a cursory check. The order to restore the Helmstedt and Berlin ends of the superhighway to normal obviously came from the Russians, irked by an allied protest which pointed to unnecessary slow-down tactics by the East guards during the past three weeks.

Goes to Trial

Kitchener, Ont., Sept. 18 (AP)—Ira Betzner of Ossining, N. Y., was committed for trial yesterday on a manslaughter charge arising from the death three months ago of Mrs. Adam Kalbfleisch, Stratford, Ont. A previous charge of manslaughter stemming from the death of the woman's husband was dismissed earlier for lack of evidence. Evidence centered around a two-car crash near here June 22. Kalbfleisch died in a hospital shortly after and his wife 10 days later.

Bows to Opposition

Beirut, Lebanon, Sept. 18 (AP)—Lebanon's veteran independence fighter Bechara El Khoury bowed to widespread opposition demands today and resigned the presidency he had held since the French relinquished control of the country in 1943. The army commander, Gen. Fuad Shehab, took over the presidential functions until Parliament names a new president, but political observers emphasized that El Khoury's fall was not due to a military coup and Shehab had stepped in only temporarily, to maintain order.

Polio Hits New Peak

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Public Health Service reported today that the number of new cases of infantile paralysis in the United States has hit a record high for the fourth straight week. The agency listed 4,032 cases in 47 states—New Mexico was missing—during the week that ended Sept. 13. There were 3,824 new cases the previous week, including 29 from New Mexico. Usually, incidence of polio starts to drop early in September. The total for the "disease year" which started with the week ending April 5 reached 30,071 up to Sept. 13, more than 2,000 more than the total of 28,060 listed in the same period of 1949, the previous record year.

Ike Threatened to Resign Rather Than Bust Strike

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—The New York Times says associates of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower have revealed that he threatened to resign as army chief of staff in 1946 if forced to act as "a strike breaker" in the railroad strike that spring.

In his speech before the American Federation of Labor yesterday, the Republican presidential candidate, said:

"I was trying to get some rest down in Georgia. I got a telephone call from Washington. The message directed that I return to Washington immediately to assume command of the railway strikers, who were going to be drafted into the army. With a bitter protest I refused.

"In a later call I was told that I was considered the only soldier with whom the railway workers would even talk. So I agreed to meet with them. But I was a soldier and not a strike breaker."

Says Threat Omitted

The Times quoted associates of the general as saying his speech toned down the full story, omitting a threat of resignation and the substance of two telephone conversations with President Truman after he was called back to Washington from vacation in Georgia in mid-May, 1946.

Just before that, on May 18, the Brotherhoods of Railroad Trainmen and Locomotive Engineers had postponed their threatened strike for five days at the request of President Truman, who the day before had ordered the Office of Defense Transportation to seize the railroads.

On May 23 the unions struck. The next day President Truman appealed to them to return to work, warning that if they did not he would operate trains "by using every means in my power" including a call to the army.

Called for Consultation

Meanwhile, Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson announced that he had summoned General Eisenhower for consultation.

The Times said Eisenshower sources gave these details:

Eisenhower received a phone call from Patterson at Sea Island, saying he was needed in Washington and a plane was being sent for him.

Once in Washington Eisenhower went to Patterson's office. The secretary telephoned the President and handed the telephone to the general.

The President told the general the administration was going to draft railroad men into the army to get the roads back into operation and the general was needed to take charge of the move.

The general replied that he was a general and chief of staff and not a strike breaker, that he couldn't do it and that if the President insisted, his only course was to resign.

The President let the matter go but later in another telephone conversation told the general he was the only one the railroad workers would listen to and that he would have to meet them. The general was persuaded.

The Times said Eisenhower sources did not say whether or not the general met with the workers. The strike was settled on May 25, the day after Eisenhower arrived in Washington.

The Eisenhower sources, the Times said, pictured the general as reluctant to give his version of what happened because Secretary Patterson was dead.

Navy Missiles . . .

time," Kurtz asserted.

He conceded the enemy is capable of devising similar weapons.

The chief lesson learned in the actual combat strikes in Korea, Kurtz said, is "we found out we could use carriers effectively, without interfering with the carrier's normal operations."

A reporter asked if the guided missile would displace huge atom-carrying bombers like the B-36.

"Eventually, it could," replied the commander. "It's a question of time."

These are some of the points Kurtz made:

Robot planes can be refueled in midair . . . rigged to strafe enemy ground troops . . . fire back at attacking planes . . . drop their bombs and return to base. They can be used as defense against enemy guided missiles.

Can Maneuver Violently

They can stand more violent maneuvers than a pilot, thus are more adept at dodging enemy ground fire. None of the planes used in Korea was knocked down by Red ground fire, although most of the targets were heavily protected.

The television used in guiding and observing them has the same limitations as commercial TV. But waves beamed from high in the air can travel long distances without interference.

"It is push-button warfare" and very simple. The operator uses only one finger to work the small control stick guiding the missile. The controller can destroy the plane simply by pressing a button. The missile can be guided from the control plane or the carrier.

Navy Hellcats are being used because they are obsolete and would have been scrapped. But any plane could be outfitted as a drone very quickly.

British authorities in Washington were informed of the decision to use the missiles in combat, and got a very detailed explanation.

The missiles are possibly not quite as effective as Japanese Kamikaze planes flown by suicide pilots, because they don't have the human eye guiding them. On the other hand, no pilot is lost when the plane crashes.

Traffic Is Normal Again

Berlin, Sept. 18 (AP)—West German truck traffic to Berlin was restored to normal today after Soviet zone frontier guards dropped their stalling tactics, and cleaned up a huge backlog of waiting vehicles with scarcely a cursory check. The order to restore the Helmstedt and Berlin ends of the superhighway to normal obviously came from the Russians, irked by an allied protest which pointed to unnecessary slow-down tactics by the East guards during the past three weeks.

Goes to Trial

Kitchener, Ont., Sept. 18 (AP)—Ira Betzner of Ossining, N. Y., was committed for trial yesterday on a manslaughter charge arising from the death three months ago of Mrs. Adam Kalbfleisch, Stratford, Ont. A previous charge of manslaughter stemming from the death of the woman's husband was dismissed earlier for lack of evidence. Evidence centered around a two-car crash near here June 22. Kalbfleisch died in a hospital shortly after and his wife 10 days later.

Bows to Opposition

Beirut, Lebanon, Sept. 18 (AP)—Lebanon's veteran independence fighter Bechara El Khoury bowed to widespread opposition demands today and resigned the presidency he had held since the French relinquished control of the country in 1943. The army commander, Gen. Fuad Shehab, took over the presidential functions until Parliament names a new president, but political observers emphasized that El Khoury's fall was not due to a military coup and Shehab had stepped in only temporarily, to maintain order.

Two Games Slated Tuesday; Three on Wednesday Night

Wiltwycks, '50 Club' Are Set for Opener

The YMCA Autumn Basketball League will launch its two-division schedule Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 23 and 24, Lou Schafer, physical director at the Y, reported this morning.

Action in the A Division will open Tuesday, Sept. 23, at 7:30 p. m., while the B Division will get underway the following day, Wednesday, Sept. 24, at 7 p. m.

The opening night schedules were adopted at the business meeting Wednesday night when the constitution and by-laws also were read and ratified by the managers and other representatives in attendance.

It was decided that each team may carry from seven to 12 players on rosters. Managers will have until the end of the second week of play to complete their respective rosters.

Opening Games

Wiltwyck Motors and the "50 Club" will have the honor of playing the first game of the year in the A Division next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. The second half of the double-header will bring together Harry's Angels and the 156th FA National Guard squad at 8:30 o'clock.

The B Division opener will pit the Esopus Firemen Juniors and Schoonmaker Five at 7 p. m. Wednesday, Sept. 24. The Newkirk Aces and Accord Chevies will tangle at 8 o'clock and the Central Lunch will engage the Cerasaro Sport Center quintet at the 9 o'clock bell.

According to Schafer, the public is cordially invited to attend these games. Suitable seating arrangements will be arranged.

Best Kind of Dog Is Your Kind

By JOE STETSON
(Dog Editor)

I don't quite remember how we got started talking about dogs—perhaps it was because some of the dogs were being given their afternoon airing. At any rate the cab driver made a remark or two about this breed and that and then directed a question to me that I couldn't ignore.

"What is the best kind of dog?" he asked.

There is only one answer to that question so I gave it to him.

"Your kind," I said.

"Wadaya mean, my kind?" It was obvious that he thought I was implying some kind of insult.

"Haven't you a dog?" I asked.

"Sure," he said.

"Well, the kind you have is the best kind of dog."

"My dog's a mutt—a pure bred Heinz," the driver said as he squeezed through traffic.

"You know it's funny," he continued, "he knows my cab when I drive home at night and he's up in the window watching for me. The wife says he gets the curtains dirty, but I know she doesn't mind. She says he shouldn't be fed at the table, too, but I notice he's always sitting up begging on her side and that ain't for nothin'.

"He's got a ball and you should see him hunt for it. Just say "getcher ball" and he starts looking in every corner and under the couch 'til he comes up with it.

"Then is when he's really funny. 'Go put your head in the corner' I say, and he walks into the corner by the radio and pretends he's not lookin' while I hide his ball. Then he comes racing out and finds it and brings it back again.

"You should see him walk on his hind legs. He's smart as a whip. We almost lost him once, though. He was a sick dog. Cost a lot of dough in vet bills, too—shots and pills and special food but the wife and I took turns feedin' him every two hours for four days, then he picked up slow like and now he's fine.

"What I wanted to know, though," he said as he slid the cab into the curb in front of my stop, "is what's the best kind of dog?"

"Gosh," he muttered, as I slipped him his fare, "I guess I heard you the first time."

Giants Trail by Three As Bucs Upend Flock

(By The Associated Press)

Leo Durocher's losing gamble loomed larger and larger today with his New York Giants trailing the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers by three games in the National League and time rapidly running out.

The Giants closed in on the Dodgers yesterday as big Jim Hearn shut out the Chicago Cubs, 2-0, while the Brooks were dropping a 4-1 decision to the cellar-dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates.

But the second guessers are saying the Brooklyn lead might well be only two games if Durocher had not chosen to throw an untried rookie, Jack Harshman, against the Cubs Tuesday. That was the day the Dodgers posted a victory while Harshman was driven from the box and the Cubs went on to romp, 9-0.

"I just gambled and lost, that's all," was Durocher's retort to his critics.

Only two and one-half games separate New York and Cleveland today, following the Yanks' 12-3 victory over the hapless Detroit Tigers and the Indians' 6-1 conquest of the Washington Senators. Cleveland's chief hope is that six of its games will be played at home while the world champions have only three remaining in Yankee Stadium.

All Clubs Idle Today

The four pennant contenders, along with the other clubs, rest today before plunging into the final 10 days of the season.

Hearn threw a five-hitter at the Cubs, struck out four and walked three to record his first shutout in two years.

Bob Rush, Chicago loser, yielded a run in the first on Bobby Thomson's infield out with the bases loaded and another in the third when George Wilson homered with two out.

Veteran Howie Pollet hurled six shutout innings against Brooklyn. He was relieved by Murry Dickson in the ninth after Gil Hodges had opened the frame with a single. Dickson quickly ended the threat by getting Bobby Morgan to hit into a force play and forcing Rube Walker to bounce into a double play. George Metkovich's two homers accounted for three of the Pirates' runs.

Tigers Doomed to Cellar

The Yankees racked up their sixth straight while dooming the fumbling Tigers to last place for the first time in their 52-year American League history.

Reliever Bob Kuzava blanked the Tigers for seven innings to win his eighth game. Hank Bauer and Mickey Mantle hit Yankee homers.

The Indians backed Bob Lemon with nine hits for his 20th victory in the triumph over the Senators. Cleveland broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth when Harry Simpson singled Luke Easter home, Al Rosen counted on a long fly and Simpson crossed the plate on George Strickland's double.

In the only other games played, the St. Louis Browns rapped out 16 hits to beat the Red Sox, 10-4, and the Phillies downed the Cincinnati Reds, 7-4, with Stan Lopata and Willie Jones backing up Karl Drews' shaky pitching with home runs.

Negro Shortstop Signed by Phils

Philadelphia, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies yesterday signed their first Negro baseball player. He is Theodore Washington, 18-year-old shortstop of the Philadelphia Stars of the Negro-National League.

The 1951 graduate of Camden, N. J., High School, batted .325 with the Stars last year and .340 this season.

Washington was released unconditionally so he could sign a contract with Granby, Quebec, Phillies' farm team in the Provincial League.

Lemon Wins 20th, Tribe Ties Mark

Cleveland, Sept. 18 (AP)—With Bob Lemon back in the 20-victory circle for the fourth time, the Cleveland Indians are the second team in American League history to have a trio of 20-game winners two years in a row.

Lemon's 6-1 triumph over Washington yesterday enabled him to reach the 20 mark, which his team mates, Mike Garcia and Early Wynn, already have passed by one.

Only once before in 52 years of league play has a club had three 20-game winners in two consecutive years. The Boston Red Sox did it in 1903-04 and won the pennant both times.

Halfback Leon Hardeman carried the ball from scrimmage 126 times for 617 vards and 8 touchtowns at Georgia Tech during the 1951 season.

In their first 58 home games of the season, the last place Detroit Tigers drew a paid attendance of 864,112.

Chuck Davey Easy Winner Over Rocky

Chicago, Sept. 18 (AP)—Rocky Graziano demonstrated last night that he still has great powers.

He personally took charge of air conditioning Chicago Stadium.

The wind he stirred up missing Chuck Davey was from wild swings born of desperation.

Rocky was completely outclassed, a spectacle of bewilderment.

Davey piled up a tremendously lopsided victory to continue unbeaten through 37 fights since turning pro after graduating from Michigan State.

Through 10 rounds, welterweight Davey sawed into Graziano, the ex-middleweight champion, with left hooks to the body and face and a jabbing, cuffing right. At the end, the sensational southpaw was awarded a 61-39 edge on points by Judge Edward Klein, 58-42 by Judge Harold Marovitz and 56-44 by Referee Frank Sikora.

'Never Hurt Me—Loser

The nationally-televised and broadcast bout drew a ringside crowd of 11,970 that paid a gross of $83,630. The net was $64,331 of which Graziano received 30 per cent and Davey 22½. Television receipts for each fighter were not announced.

"He never hurt me," said the Rock, nursing a slight cut above his right eye. "I just didn't have that old feeling—didn't have no zip.

"I'll say Davey is a pretty good little fighter but he isn't much of a puncher. I hope he makes as much money as I have. I underestimated him."

Davey came to the point like a professor giving a final examination.

"I don't like to give away 10 pounds and I don't think I'll step up against a middleweight again," he expounded. "I won with my right, not my left. I kept him off balance with it and he couldn't hit me."

Graziano had a 158-150¼ pound official weigh-in advantage.

Ravens and magpies can be taught to speak.

Yancey Is Picked

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—Coach Ben Schwartzwalder has tapped Bruce Yancey of Bellerose for the safety-man slot on the Syracuse football team. Yancey substituted yesterday for Avatus Stone of Washington, D. C., sidelined for the season by a knee injury.

YMCA Autumn Basketball Teams Will Launch Schedule Next Week

Two Games Slated Tuesday; Three on Wednesday Night

Wiltwycks, '50 Club' Are Set for Opener

The YMCA Autumn Basketball League will launch its two-division schedule Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 23 and 24, Lou Schafer, physical director at the Y, reported this morning.

Action in the A Division will open Tuesday, Sept. 23, at 7:30 p. m., while the B Division will get underway the following day, Wednesday, Sept. 24, at 7 p. m.

The opening night schedules were adopted at the business meeting Wednesday night when the constitution and by-laws also were read and ratified by the managers and other representatives in attendance.

It was decided that each team may carry from seven to 12 players on rosters. Managers will have until the end of the second week of play to complete their respective rosters.

Opening Games

Wiltwyck Motors and the "50 Club" will have the honor of playing the first game of the year in the A Division next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. The second half of the double-header will bring together Harry's Angels and the 156th FA National Guard squad at 8:30 o'clock.

The B Division opener will pit the Esopus Firemen Juniors and Schoonmaker Five at 7 p. m. Wednesday, Sept. 24. The Newkirk Aces and Accord Chevies will tangle at 8 o'clock and the Central Lunch will engage the Cerasaro Sport Center quintet at the 9 o'clock bell.

According to Schafer, the public is cordially invited to attend these games. Suitable seating arrengements will be arranged.

New Paltz Merchants Begin Friday Night

The eight-team New Paltz Merchant's Bowling League launches the 1952-53 season Friday at the New Paltz alleys, North Chestnut street in that village.

The schedule for opening night follows: Jansen's Texaco Station vs. Ireland Corners Hotel, Five Acres vs. Reid and Donahue's Gulf Station, Doug's Auto Service vs. Huguenot National Bank and Savago's Insurance vs. Ackert's Shell Station.

Officers of the league include John LeFevre, president; Doug Alverson, vice-president; and Bob Van Valkenburgh, secretary.

Silver Palace Forms

Openings for three more teams in the Silver Palace Bowling League were announced today. The league plans to start the new schedule Saturday night at the Central Rec alleys. Interested bowlers are requested to call John Sangi at 1326.

Best Kind of Dog Is Your Kind

By JOE STETSON
(Dog Editor)

I don't quite remember how we got started talking about dogs—perhaps it was because some of the dogs were being given their afternoon airing. At any rate the cab driver made a remark or two about this breed and that and then directed a question to me that I couldn't ignore.

"What is the best kind of dog?" he asked.

There is only one answer to that question so I gave it to him.

"Your kind," I said.

"Wadaya mean, my kind?" It was obvious that he thought I was implying some kind of insult.

"Haven't you a dog?" I asked.

"Sure," he said.

"Well, the kind you have is the best kind of dog."

"My dog's a mutt—a pure bred Heinz," the driver said as he squeezed through traffic.

"You know it's funny," he continued, "he knows my cab when I drive home at night and he's up in the window watching for me. The wife says he gets the curtains dirty, but I know she doesn't mind. She says he shouldn't be fed at the table, too, but I notice he's always sitting up begging on her side and that ain't for nothin'.

"He's got a ball and you should see him hunt for it. Just say "getcher ball" and he starts looking in every corner and under the couch 'til he comes up with it.

"Then is when he's really funny. 'Go put your head in the corner' I say, and he walks into the corner by the radio and pretends he's not lookin' while I hide his ball. Then he comes racing out and finds it and brings it back again.

"You should see him walk on his hind legs. He's smart as a whip. We almost lost him once, though. He was a sick dog. Cost a lot of dough in vet bills, too—shots and pills and special food but the wife and I took turns feedin' him every two hours for four days, then he picked up slow like and now he's fine.

"What I wanted to know, though," he said as he slid the cab into the curb in front of my stop, "is what's the best kind of dog?"

"Gosh," he muttered, as I slipped him his fare, "I guess I heard you the first time."

Giants Trail by Three As Bucs Upend Flock

(By The Associated Press)

Leo Durocher's losing gamble loomed larger and larger today with his New York Giants trailing the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers by three games in the National League and time rapidly running out.

The Giants closed in on the Dodgers yesterday as big Jim Hearn shut out the Chicago Cubs, 2-0, while the Brooks were dropping a 4-1 decision to the cellar-dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates.

But the second guessers are saying the Brooklyn lead might well be only two games if Durocher had not chosen to throw an untried rookie, Jack Harshman, against the Cubs Tuesday. That was the day the Dodgers posted a victory while Harshman was driven from the box and the Cubs went on to romp, 9-0.

"I just gambled and lost, that's all," was Durocher's retort to his critics.

Only two and one-half games separate New York and Cleveland today, following the Yanks' 12-3 victory over the hapless Detroit Tigers and the Indians' 6-1 conquest of the Washington Senators. Cleveland's chief hope is that six of its games will be played at home while the world champions have only three remaining in Yankee Stadium.

All Clubs Idle Today

The four pennant contenders, along with the other clubs, rest today before plunging into the final 10 days of the season.

Hearn threw a five-hitter at the Cubs, struck out four and walked three to record his first shutout in two years.

Bob Rush, Chicago loser, yielded a run in the first on Bobby Thomson's infield out with the bases loaded and another in the third when George Wilson homered with two out.

Veteran Howie Pollet hurled six shutout innings against Brooklyn. He was relieved by Murry Dickson in the ninth after Gil Hodges had opened the frame with a single. Dickson quickly ended the threat by getting Bobby Morgan to hit into a force play and forcing Rube Walker to bounce into a double play. George Metkovich's two homers accounted for three of the Pirates' runs.

Tigers Doomed to Cellar

The Yankees racked up their sixth straight while dooming the fumbling Tigers to last place for the first time in their 52-year American League history.

Reliever Bob Kuzava blanked the Tigers for seven innings to win his eighth game. Hank Bauer and Mickey Mantle hit Yankee homers.

The Indians backed Bob Lemon with nine hits for his 20th victory in the triumph over the Senators. Cleveland broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth when Harry Simpson singled Luke Easter home, Al Rosen counted on a long fly and Simpson crossed the plate on George Strickland's double.

In the only other games played, the St. Louis Browns rapped out 16 hits to beat the Red Sox, 10-4, and the Phillies downed the Cincinnati Reds, 7-4, with Stan Lopata and Willie Jones backing up Karl Drews' shaky pitching with home runs.

Negro Shortstop Signed by Phils

Philadelphia, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies yesterday signed their first Negro baseball player. He is Theodore Washington, 18-year-old shortstop of the Philadelphia Stars of the Negro-National League.

The 1951 graduate of Camden, N. J., High School, batted .325 with the Stars last year and .340 this season.

Washington was released unconditionally so he could sign a contract with Granby, Quebec, Phillies' farm team in the Provincial League.

Lemon Wins 20th, Tribe Ties Mark

Cleveland, Sept. 18 (AP)—With Bob Lemon back in the 20-victory circle for the fourth time, the Cleveland Indians are the second team in American League history to have a trio of 20-game winners two years in a row.

Lemon's 6-1 triumph over Washington yesterday enabled him to reach the 20 mark, which his team mates, Mike Garcia and Early Wynn, already have passed by one.

Only once before in 52 years of league play has a club had three 20-game winners in two consecutive years. The Boston Red Sox did it in 1903-04 and won the pennant both times.

Halfback Leon Hardeman carried the ball from scrimmage 126 times for 617 vards and 8 touchtowns at Georgia Tech during the 1951 season.

In their first 58 home games of the season, the last place Detroit Tigers drew a paid attendance of 864,112.

Chuck Davey Easy Winner Over Rocky

Chicago, Sept. 18 (AP)—Rocky Graziano demonstrated last night that he still has great powers.

He personally took charge of air conditioning Chicago Stadium.

The wind he stirred up missing Chuck Davey was from wild swings born of desperation.

Rocky was completely outclassed, a spectacle of bewilderment.

Davey piled up a tremendously lopsided victory to continue unbeaten through 37 fights since turning pro after graduating from Michigan State.

Through 10 rounds, welterweight Davey sawed into Graziano, the ex-middleweight champion, with left hooks to the body and face and a jabbing, cuffing right. At the end, the sensational southpaw was awarded a 61-39 edge on points by Judge Edward Klein, 58-42 by Judge Harold Marovitz and 56-44 by Referee Frank Sikora.

'Never Hurt Me—Loser

The nationally-televised and broadcast bout drew a ringside crowd of 11,970 that paid a gross of $83,630. The net was $64,331 of which Graziano received 30 per cent and Davey 22½. Television receipts for each fighter were not announced.

"He never hurt me," said the Rock, nursing a slight cut above his right eye. "I just didn't have that old feeling—didn't have no zip.

"I'll say Davey is a pretty good little fighter but he isn't much of a puncher. I hope he makes as much money as I have. I underestimated him."

Davey came to the point like a professor giving a final examination.

"I don't like to give away 10 pounds and I don't think I'll step up against a middleweight again," he expounded. "I won with my right, not my left. I kept him off balance with it and he couldn't hit me."

Graziano had a 158-150¼ pound official weigh-in advantage.

Ravens and magpies can be taught to speak.

Yancey Is Picked

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—Coach Ben Schwartzwalder has tapped Bruce Yancey of Bellerose for the safety-man slot on the Syracuse football team. Yancey substituted yesterday for Avatus Stone of Washington, D. C., sidelined for the season by a knee injury.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The privilege of the second guess, with its monumental hindsight, was never more blatantly evoked than the day following Leo Durocher's ill-fated selection of Jack Harshman, fresh up from the Minors, as a starter against the Chicago Cubs.

In case you didn't get it, a barrage of Cub homers sent the reformed first sacker to an early shower and the Cubs went on to win 9-0 behind the superlative three-hit pitching of Warren Hacker.

Durocher, who has been staggering along with a brigade of worn-out and army-weary pitchers, took the big gamble and flopped. He was assailed as a "giveaway" artist, strictly a "rock" man and with sundry expletives that exploded through mountains of lager foam in the fanciful world of TV and from well-oiled typewriters of trigger-happy reporters in the Giant family.

Completely overlooked was the fact that the Giants, fighting for their lives, were battling a thoroughly relaxed Chicago squad that had Warren Hacker going for it. Now, Hacker happens to have the best ERA among National League starters and had just accomplished an artistic foiling of the Dodgers.

If, and this is always where the second-guess is enchanting, Harshman had won like many rookies do in September, Durocher would have been hailed as a genius who pulled a "sleeper" at the expense of the Dodgers. And the "Little Miracle" would still be alive. Alas, he guessed wrong, the cad!

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

We liked Bud Culloton's quote to the Little League champion Dodgers, "You can't win them all and you won't lose them, but you have to play to win them all . . ." The essence of physical perfection for a man in his mid-50s—Frank "Boots" Leskie who went eight innings in the Greybeard and Old Timers games at Saugerties. "Boots." now the town's No. 1 pinsetter, collared hot infield shots with a finesse that recalled his yesteryear in the great Hasbrouck Park era of the Blue Sox, Shenandoahs, Rondout A.C. of Block Park and other great teams that made Jack Clair's bailiwick a hotbed of independent baseball. Leskie, incidentally, is also one of our town's better bowlers. Frank "Yip" Koenig has enrolled at Siena University and figures to make the Indians' frosh basketball squad. Kingston expects big things from Frank a year from now when he bids for a spot on the varsity.

Wagner College's Flying Dutchmen are counting on Carl Strobel, the ex-KHS fullback to lead its gridiron resurgence this fall. Strobel, who resembled Sergeant James "Jase" Cullum of Coach G. Warren Kias' fabulous 1933 DUSO champions, is No. 1 on Coach Len Watters' list of players who can lead Wagner out of the football wilderness. The Dutchmen captured only two out of eight starts last season, whipping Arnold 19-7 and Upsala, 19-7. The season ended on a horrendous note with 56-0 and 34-0 drubbings by Kings Point and Hofstra in the "traditional" for the Dutchmen. Many observers in Poughkeepsie believe that Sam Kalloch's retirement as athletic coach could happen at the end of the 1952 football season. If the Blue prospects are as bleak as Sam paints them, his decision to retire to the comparative comfort of the athletic director's office may be hastened. If and when Sam does retire, he will leave behind him a 30-plus year record of scholastic coaching success seldom equalled in New York state.

The New York state hunting chart issued for the first time by the State Conservation Department is a must for every nimrod's shelf. It has a breakdown by counties of the hunting dates for the principal game seasons. No excuse for not knowing the hunting laws with that document around. The Wehle fishing folks who sponsor a major year-round fishing tournament in the state again point out that August and September are outstanding months for the angler. Speaking of fishing, it was reported some weeks ago that a Vermont angler had snagged a 37-inch long, 22½-pound Brown trout for a state record. That's a hunk of fish. State Conservation Department expressed astonishment at the size of the catch, particularly in view of the fact that the New York state record Brown weighed 19 pound, 14 ounces. It was taken in 1923 from the Chimney Rock area of the Ashokan Reservoir, which also produces heavy Rainbows.

Are the old time baseball stars who visit Jack Dawkins' restaurant trying to suppress Jack Hartman's volume of ancient City League strikeout statistics? Or will the old scorekeep release it just the same?

Ken Williams Topples 252-631 Blast To Lead Scores in Central Rec Major

Veteran Ken Williams, sandwiching a hefty 252 game around counts of 189 and 190, paced Wednesday night's local bowling roundup with a 631 blast in the Central Rec Major League.

Williams' 631 was one of three 600s posted at the Central Rec drives.

George "Curly" Flemings finished in the runnerup slot with 201-228 for 612 while Ed Murphy compiled 215 and 247 for 608.

Elsewhere on the bowling fronts, Joe Mannello stacked 239-168-194 for 601 to lead the CYO-Holy Name session at the Bowlodrome; L. Joe Not Worried About Return Go; Kayoes Partner

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept 18 (AP)—Return bout contract or no, Jersey Joe Walcott calmy goes about the work of preparing for his heavyweight title defense Tuesday at Philadelphia, against rugged Rocky Marciano.

"I leave those business details to my managers," said the 38-year-old champ. "If he (Felix Bocchicchio) says 'fight' okay. If he says 'no' then we don't. I do think we're entitled to a return as consideration for being champion."

Despite reports that Jersey Joe has made disparaging remarks about the young challenger, Walcott labeled Marciano "a good rough puncher with a rough and tumble style."

EASY SQUIRREL SKINNING METHOD

SLIT THE SKIN ON TOP OF THE BACK FROM THE TAIL TO THE SHOULDERS. WORK THE SKIN LOOSE WITH YOUR FINGERS (AND KNIFE IF NECESSARY). PUSH THE SKIN DOWN AND AWAY FROM THE BODY WITH YOUR THUMBS. AFTER LOOSENING THE SKIN ALL THE WAY AROUND THE BODY HOLD THE SKIN UNDER THE BELLY IN ONE HAND AND GRASP THE BODY AROUND THE MIDDLE. WITH THE OTHER HAND, NOW PULL. THE SKIN COMES OFF INSIDE OUT. PULL EACH LEG OUT SEPARATELY WITH YOUR FINGERS. CUT OFF THE FEET, TAIL AND HEAD. SOME COOKS LIKE TO USE THE HEAD. IF SO, DON'T CUT IT OFF. PULL IT OUT OF THE SKIN, CUT FREE THE EARS, EYES AND NOSE.

Farmers Flock to Cities

Hong Kong (AP) — Independent underground reports say the Communist "land reform" program in one big area in South China has backfired, bringing on "famine and chaos." One newspaper says that in Kwangsi province Red efforts to seize the land sent thousands of farmers flocking to the cities, leaving thousands of acres idle and the countryside facing starvation. This report says 40,000 farmers in four counties alone have been dispossessed, and possibly 3,000 of them have gone over to the guerrillas.

USC Gets Weak Nod In Big Game Friday

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—This is the era of speed. . . . Planes make trans-oceanic round trips in a single day. . . . Automobiles cruise at 70 miles an hour. . . . Track records galore fell in the Olympic games. . . . 1952 dollars disappear with the rapidity of 1925 dimes.

Football is in step with the times. It crashes the sports pages this week with a speeded-up program that lists a half-dozen conference games and intersectional contests which would have been mid-November attractions five years ago.

As a result, football forecasters are on the spot at the very start. There is no warmup period of picking breathers. Here's how the major games should come out this weekend:

Southern California over Washington State: State's surprising sophomores of last year are experienced now and the Trojans have just completed the shift back to the single wing. A weak nod to Southern California Friday night.

Texas Christian over Kansas: This is the game you can see on your TV Saturday afternoon. The Texans are the defending champions in the southwest conference and Kansas is rated one of the big seven's best.

Maryland over Missouri: The split-T attack was invented by Coach Don Faurot of Missouri. Now his squad will be devoured by the system's most noted disciple.

Georgia over Vanderbilt: Vanderbilt reported having quarterback problems.

Texas over Louisiana State: The pre-season dope lists Texas among the "haves" and LSU among the "have nots" this year. A Saturday night game.

Kentucky over Villanova: A squeaker that could go either way but Kentucky's sophomores are the pick. Another Saturday night contest.

Duke over Washington and Lee: Duke's roster lists an even two dozen returning lettermen. That's too much experience for the Generals.

Other Selections

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

Saturday

Syracuse over Bolling Air Force Base, Yale over Connecticut, Penn State over Temple.

South: Clemson over Presbyterian, Georgia Tech over The Citadel, Virginia Military over William & Mary.

Midwest: Kansas State over Bradley, Boston University over Wichita, Nebraska over South Dakota.

Far West: California over College of Pacific, Washington over Idaho, UCLA over Oregon, Stanford over Santa Clara.

Grid Giants Play LA Rams Tonight

Professional football makes its debut at the Polo Grounds in New York tonight when the New York Giants tangle with the rugged Los Angeles Rams, champions of the National Football League.

Proceeds of the game will benefit the Hearst Milk Fund.

The privilege of the second guess, with its monumental hindsight, was never more blatantly evoked than the day following Leo Durocher's ill-fated selection of Jack Harshman, fresh up from the Minors, as a starter against the Chicago Cubs.

In case you didn't get it, a barrage of Cub homers sent the reformed first sacker to an early shower and the Cubs went on to win 9-0 behind the superlative three-hit pitching of Warren Hacker.

Durocher, who has been staggering along with a brigade of worn-out and army-weary pitchers, took the big gamble and flopped. He was assailed as a "giveaway" artist, strictly a "rock" man and with sundry expletives that exploded through mountains of lager foam in the fanciful world of TV and from well-oiled typewriters of trigger-happy reporters in the Giant family.

Completely overlooked was the fact that the Giants, fighting for their lives, were battling a thoroughly relaxed Chicago squad that had Warren Hacker going for it. Now, Hacker happens to have the best ERA among National League starters and had just accomplished an artistic foiling of the Dodgers.

If, and this is always where the second-guess is enchanting, Harshman had won like many rookies do in September, Durocher would have been hailed as a genius who pulled a "sleeper" at the expense of the Dodgers. And the "Little Miracle" would still be alive. Alas, he guessed wrong, the cad!

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

We liked Bud Culloton's quote to the Little League champion Dodgers, "You can't win them all and you won't lose them, but you have to play to win them all . . ." The essence of physical perfection for a man in his mid-50s—Frank "Boots" Leskie who went eight innings in the Greybeard and Old Timers games at Saugerties. "Boots." now the town's No. 1 pinsetter, collared hot infield shots with a finesse that recalled his yesteryear in the great Hasbrouck Park era of the Blue Sox, Shenandoahs, Rondout A.C. of Block Park and other great teams that made Jack Clair's bailiwick a hotbed of independent baseball. Leskie, incidentally, is also one of our town's better bowlers. Frank "Yip" Koenig has enrolled at Siena University and figures to make the Indians' frosh basketball squad. Kingston expects big things from Frank a year from now when he bids for a spot on the varsity.

Wagner College's Flying Dutchmen are counting on Carl Strobel, the ex-KHS fullback to lead its gridiron resurgence this fall. Strobel, who resembled Sergeant James "Jase" Culium of Coach G. Warren Kias' fabulous 1933 DUSO champions, is No. 1 on Coach Len Watters' list of players who can lead Wagner out of the football wilderness. The Dutchmen captured only two out of eight starts last season, whipping Arnold 19-7 and Upsala, 19-7. The season ended on a horrendous note with 56-0 and 34-0 drubbings by Kings Point and Hofstra in the "traditional" for the Dutchmen. Many observers in Poughkeepsie believe that Sam Kalloch's retirement as athletic coach could happen at the end of the 1952 football season. If the Blue prospects are as bleak as Sam paints them, his decision to retire to the comparative comfort of the athletic director's office may be hastened. If and when Sam does retire, he will leave behind him a 30-plus year record of scholastic coaching success seldom equalled in New York state.

The New York state hunting chart issued for the first time by the State Conservation Department is a must for every nimrod's shelf. It has a breakdown by counties of the hunting dates for the principal game seasons. No excuse for not knowing the hunting laws with that document around. The Wehle fishing folks who sponsor a major year-round fishing tournament in the state again point out that August and September are outstanding months for the angler. Speaking of fishing, it was reported some weeks ago that a Vermont angler had snagged a 37-inch long, 22½-pound Brown trout for a state record. That's a hunk of fish. State Conservation Department expressed astonishment at the size of the catch, particularly in view of the fact that the New York state record Brown weighed 19 pound, 14 ounces. It was taken in 1923 from the Chimney Rock area of the Ashokan Reservoir, which also produces heavy Rainbows.

Are the old time baseball stars who visit Jack Dawkins' restaurant trying to suppress Jack Hartman's volume of ancient City League strikeout statistics? Or will the old scorekeep release it just the same?

Ken Williams Topples 252-631 Blast To Lead Scores in Central Rec Major

Veteran Ken Williams, sandwiching a hefty 252 game around counts of 189 and 190, paced Wednesday night's local bowling roundup with a 631 blast in the Central Rec Major League.

Williams' 631 was one of three 600s posted at the Central Rec drives.

George "Curly" Flemings finished in the runnerup slot with 201-228 for 612 while Ed Murphy compiled 215 and 247 for 608.

Elsewhere on the bowling fronts, Joe Mannello stacked 239-168-194 for 601 to lead the CYO-Holy Name session at the Bowlodrome; L. Webber hit 182-203-190 for 575 in the opening session of the Central Hudson League at the Bowlodrome; Elma MacElveen shot 160-173-176 for 509 to register the lone 500 in the Pioneer Women's League and Emma Pratt led the Chalet Pioneer Women's circuit with 140-173-157 for 470.

Robinson Clips 597

Elwood Robinson finished three pins below the coveted 600 mark in the Central Rec Major with 221-597 while Lottie Cashara rolled 204-223 for 593.

Other top counts included Jim Moss with 215-592; Fred Ferraro 234-591; Mitzie Arlensky 571; George Robinson 223-567 and Herb Sleight 200-566.

Henry Houska trailed the CYO leader by two pins with a gaudy 598 effort. He opened with 200 and 220 and finished with 178.

Also of note were Joe Maurer with 573; Gil Kelder, Jr., 210-206-561; John Sweeney 556; Johnny Zeeh 212-545; Nick Bruck 545; Pete Tatarzewski 545; Charlie Hertica 203-542 and Ed Auclair 539.

Following Webber's 575 leader in the opening session of the Central Hudson League at the Cornell street lanes was George Glaser with 209-535; B. Tomazewski rolled 517; Burt Burr 515; George Schick 502.

Other distaff scores of note in the Pioneer Women's circuit were Shirley Myers with 482; Shirley Keizer 468; Nancy Hussy 467; Phyllis Wolff 466; Louise Jordan 459; C. Martin 446; H. McDougall 443 and S. Pendell 430.

Trailing Emma Pratt in the firing at the Chalet drives this week were W. Stephens with 450; M. Gilmartin 450; Kay Houska 449; Elizabeth Schoonmaker 443; D. Joyce 424 and L. Tenedini 412.

EASY SQUIRREL SKINNING METHOD

SLIT THE SKIN ON TOP OF THE BACK FROM THE TAIL TO THE SHOULDERS. WORK THE SKIN LOOSE WITH YOUR FINGERS (AND KNIFE IF NECESSARY). PUSH THE SKIN DOWN AND AWAY FROM THE BODY WITH YOUR THUMBS. AFTER LOOSENING THE SKIN ALL THE WAY AROUND THE BODY HOLD THE SKIN UNDER THE BELLY IN ONE HAND AND GRASP THE BODY AROUND THE MIDDLE. WITH THE OTHER HAND, NOW PULL. THE SKIN COMES OFF INSIDE OUT.

PULL EACH LEG OUT SEPARATELY WITH YOUR FINGERS. CUT OFF THE FEET, TAIL AND HEAD. SOME COOKS LIKE TO USE THE HEAD. IF SO, DON'T CUT IT OFF. PULL IT OUT OF THE SKIN, CUT FREE THE EARS, EYES AND NOSE.

Farmers Flock to Cities

Hong Kong (AP) — Independent underground reports say the Communist "land reform" program in one big area in South China has backfired, bringing on "famine and chaos." One newspaper says that in Kwangsi province Red efforts to seize the land sent thousands of farmers flocking to the cities, leaving thousands of acres idle and the countryside facing starvation. This report says 40,000 farmers in four counties alone have been dispossessed, and possibly 3,000 of them have gone over to the guerrillas.

The committee which hung the pictures is composed of Morris Klein, Georgina Klitgaard, Marianne Mecklem and Ben Johnson.

Mid-Season Attractions Top Opening Grid Slate Saturday

USC Gets Weak Nod In Big Game Friday

New York, Sept. 18 (AP)—This is the era of speed. . . . Planes make trans-oceanic round trips in a single day. . . .Automobiles cruise at 70 miles an hour. . . . Track records galore fell in the Olympic games. . . . 1952 dollars disappear with the rapidity of 1925 dimes.

Football is in step with the times. It crashes the sports pages this week with a speeded-up program that lists a half-dozen conference games and intersectional contests which would have been mid-November attractions five years ago.

As a result, football forecasters are on the spot at the very start. There is no warmup period of picking breathers. Here's how the major games should come out this weekend:

Southern California over Washington State: State's surprising sophomores of last year are experienced now and the Trojans have just completed the shift back to the single wing. A weak nod to Southern California Friday night.

Texas Christian over Kansas: This is the game you can see on your TV Saturday afternoon. The Texans are the defending champions in the southwest conference and Kansas is rated one of the big seven's best.

Maryland over Missouri: The split-T attack was invented by Coach Don Faurot of Missouri. Now his squad will be devoured by the system's most noted disciple.

Georgia over Vanderbilt: Vanderbilt reported having quarterback problems.

Texas over Louisiana State: The pre-season dope lists Texas among the "haves" and LSU among the "have nots" this year. A Saturday night game.

Kentucky over Villanova: A squeaker that could go either way but Kentucky's sophomores are the pick. Another Saturday night contest.

Duke over Washington and Lee: Duke's roster lists an even two dozen returning lettermen. That's too much experience for the Generals.

Other Selections

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

Saturday

Syracuse over Bolling Air Force Base, Yale over Connecticut, Penn State over Temple.

South: Clemson over Presbyterian, Georgia Tech over The Citadel, Virginia Military over William & Mary.

Midwest: Kansas State over Bradley, Boston University over Wichita, Nebraska over South Dakota.

Far West: California over College of Pacific, Washington over Idaho, UCLA over Oregon, Stanford over Santa Clara.

Bill Jackowski, newest National League umpire, was in charge of the athletic program at Fort Devens, Mass., for a short time during World War 2.

The British Royal Marines have existed officially in Britain since 1664.

Grid Giants Play LA Rams Tonight

Professional football makes its debut at the Polo Grounds in New York tonight when the New York Giants tangle with the rugged Los Angeles Rams, champions of the National Football League.

Although down in the books as an exhibition engagement, the contest could result in one of the best games of the season for both clubs are rated as good as it is possible to find.

Proceeds of the game will benefit the Hearst Milk Fund.

Held on Charge After Albany Avenue Collision

William Klimes, 33, of Albany avenue extension, was arrested by Officers William Hanley and Harold Bowers on a charge of driving while intoxicated following an automobile mishap on Albany avenue near Harwich street last night.

The case was put over until Sept. 25 when Klimes appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today and the defendant was released under $100 bail. He was represented by Attorney Sherwood E. Davis.

Police were notified of the accident at 11:46 p. m., and Officers Hanley and Bowers reported that Klimes, headed north on Albany avenue, had sideswiped and damaged the left side of a sedan owned and operated by Robert Brown, 298 Yarmouth street, who was driving south on Albany avenue.

Klimes, the report said, went on without stopping to identify himself, but Brown caught up with him. Klimes was paroled in custody of his attorney pending appearance in city court today.

Wilbur Weaver, 25, of 100 West Union street, who was arrested Sunday by Geraldine Longtoe of West Union street on a third degree assault charge, was found guilty after trial this morning, and was fined $10.

Caudle Says Clark Ordered Him to Drop Prosecution

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—T. Lamarr Caudle testified today that Tom Clark ordered him to drop prosecution of an OPA case against a North Carolina lumber dealers in 1944 after the lumber man retained Clyde R. Hoey as his attorney.

At that time:

Caudle was the district U. S. attorney in North Carolina.

Clark, now a justice of the Supreme Court, was the chief of the Justice Department's criminal division.

Hoey, now a senator, was North Carolina Democratic national committeeman, and had just won his party's nomination to the Senate.

In the witness chair of a House Judiciary Committee investigating the Justice Department, Caudle said his own view was that the facts of the case did not warrant its going to a grand jury.

However, attorneys for the then Office of Price Administration "believed they had a strong case," he said.

Brought Against Coxe

Caudle related that a price violation charge had been brought against T. C. Coxe of Wadesboro, N. C., Caudle's home town, on orders of Clark.

He said he advised Coxe's brother that he had been ordered to present the case to a grand jury.

Coxe retained Hoey, who telephoned him and said he would seek a conference with Clark.

And a few days later, Caudle said, orders to drop the case came directly from Clark by telephone.

"They concluded the facts of the case were not sufficient to present to a grand jury," Caudle said.

"Did you object?" asked committee counsel Robert A. Collier.

Did Not Object

"I did not," replied Caudle. He added then that he reached the same conclusion himself although OPA attorneys "believed they had a strong case against Mr. Coxe."

Clark later became attorney general and brought Caudle to Washington as one of his assistant attorneys general.

Last November, President Truman fired Caudle on grounds his outside activities were incompatible with his official duties.

J. Howard McGrath, former attorney general who was himself ousted from the Truman administration last May, told the House group yesterday that Caudle was "wrongly treated."
